SEVENTH PROBE OF HOT SISTER PLANET

Russians Send Unmanned Craft to Venus

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union fired an unmanned rocket ship toward Venus today on a four-month voyage to explore the hot and hostile atmosphere of earth's closest planetary neighbor.

The official Tass news agency said the probe, named Venus 7, began its journey at 8:38 a.m. Moscow time (1:38 a.m. EDT), broke free of earth's gravity and began the long coast to intercept Venus as it makes a close approach to earth later this year.

It was the first major Soviet space exploration attempt since June, when cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastianov spent more than 18 days in space, longer than any other men on a single flight.

The last Soviet probe of another planet was in May, 1969, when Venus 5 and Venus 6 penetrated the dense atmosphere of Venus a day apart and radioed back information during "smooth descents" of nearly an hour. The Soviets did not say if those two ships made soft landings.

The Venus 7 ship was launched today to "continue the exploration of the planet Venus," Tass said. The announcement contained nothing to indicate whether Venus 7 will attempt a soft landing.

The Tass announcement did say, however, that "Venus 7 is an improved version of the previous stations of this type."

The information radioed to earth by probes 5 and 6 gave evidence of an environment far more hostile than scientists had believed.

The instruments on the ships measured an atmosphere made up mostly of carbon dioxide and simmering in temperatures of 1,400 degrees.

Truce Breaks Continuing, Israel Says

Times News Services

JERUSALEM — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban charged today Egypt is continuing missile movements in the Suez Canal area in violation of the Middle East ceasefire.

At the same time, Eban accused the United States of failing to acknowledge Israeli evidence of these movements.

U.S. Supplied With Evidence

At a news conference, Eban said Israel has provided the U.S. government, as author and guarantor of the ceasefire, with "precisely defined" evidence of Egyptian violations.

Referring to comments by U.S. Defence Secretary Melvin Laird Sunday that it was not possible to determine whether a ceasefire violation actually occurred because missiles may have been in when the ceasefire went into effect at midnight Aug. 7, Eban said:

"Israel has lodged complaints showing transgressions took place not only immediately after the ceasefire, but continue to be made."

Laird's remarks, made in a television interview, are expected to set the tone for the official U.S. response to the Israeli charges.

'Stop Complaining and Talk'

The U.S. wants Israel to stop complaining of ceasefire violations and start peace negotiations with the Arabs.

In Washington, Israeli cabinet minister Shimon Peres said Sunday he was sure the Israeli cabinet would await U.S. reaction to Israel's claim of cease-fire violations before taking further action.

Peres said later he was not aware of Laird's statement that "I don't believe it serves a useful purpose to have a long public debate as to what went on 12 hours before or 12 hours after the cease-fire."

Saturday, Israeli State Radio interpreted statements by an Israeli foreign ministry official as meaning that Israel would delay appointment of a representative to Mid-east peace talks because of truce violations.

Eban Cites Three Violations

Eban cited these alleged violations:

- Last Thursday material on "grave violations" shortly after the time of the ceasefire was passed on to the United Nations and the United States. At this time "a considerable number of ground-to-air missiles" were moved forward by the Egyptians.
- On the same day one other missile battery was deployed. A map reference was provided to the United Nations on this second complaint.
- On Sunday, construction was observed taking place at five spots which were empty before.

Eban expressed belief Laird was not in possession of the latest Israeli material when he made his statement Sunday. Eban stressed that he thought Laird's words were not a "final verdict."

The foreign minister added: "There is no crisis between Jerusalem and Washington . . . There is a frank discussion."

He said it was important for Israel and the United States to "establish the facts together."

Affects Peace Effort Climate

Eban said a larger issue is "the degree of validity and credence to be given to Soviet and Egyptian assurances" that they would abide by the ceasefire agreement. These were bound to have an effect on the climate of the present peace effort, he said.

Eban said there is still material being transmitted to Washington containing Israel's evidence of the ceasefire violations and it is "impossible for me to believe we won't reach a common understanding."

Eban said he didn't know what could be done to bring about a removal of the missiles, but he said Israel at least expected a "frank acknowledgement" from Washington that indeed violations were taking place.

Commenting on the delay in negotiations under UN peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, Eban suggested this was caused by Israel's "urgent preoccupation" with the ceasefire issue and Arab refusal to appoint foreign ministers as their representatives to the talks.

Reports published in Jerusalem said some Washington quarters believe Israel is exploiting the allegations

RECORD RAINS flooding Northern Ireland have cooled off rioters' tempers and forced British soldiers, sent to Ireland to control the political-religious disorders, to turn their attention to flood relief work. Above, a U.K. soldier helps an Irish policeman move stalled auto from a Belfast street.

Belfast Floods Cool Rioters

BELFAST (AP) — Nineteen hours of torrential rain and Belfast's worst flood in 30 years brought a weekend halt to Roman Catholic-Protestant riots and changed British troops from enemies to heroes, at least temporarily.

Rescue operations replaced street battles as hundreds of families were evacuated from their homes. More than 1,000 British soldiers laid down their guns to toil for hours in the swirling waters.

No casualties were reported, but damage estimates ran as high as $2.5 million. The Catholic Falls Road district was hardest hit.

As the cleanup got under way today, both Protestants and Roman Catholics praised the soldiers who the previous weekend were targets of bricks, bottles and such epithets as "Gestapo swine."

"We've had nothing but kind words," said an army spokesman.

Outside Belfast, high water cut major roads isolated several villages. Soldiers rescued trapped families in Strabe and Londonderry, and an army boat saved 50 sheep from a flood near the River Foyle.

Plumbers Picket Firms —But Claim No Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plumbers set up picket lines at three Vancouver area contracting firms today, but union officials said there was no work stoppage.

Members of Local 170 of the Plumbers, Pipefitters and Steamfitters Union carried signs saying "On Strike" as they walked in front of offices of Boulevard Plumbing and Heating Ltd., Anderson Plumbing and Heating Ltd., and Westgate. Mechanical Contractors Ltd.

But they said that between 20 and 30 union plumbers employed by the three companies reported for work today at jobs being done at sites outside the plants.

The provincial government has said strike action would be illegal.

The pickets said they were protesting a suspension of contract negotiations last week after the union had rejected a settlement proposal made by deputy labor minister William Sands, acting as a special mediator in a dispute that closed down the construction industry for three months.

But Charles Connaghan, president of the Construction Labor Relations Association, which bargains for 600 building contractors, said today the CLRA has always been available to negotiate.

Union spokesman Jack Fisher had said Sunday the plumbers would picket the three firms even if they decided to resume negotiations.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson has warned that a strike or lockout would be illegal, leaving unions or firms liable to fines of up to $10,000 and individuals liable to fines of up to $1,000.

"We can strike at 7:30 a.m. today," said Fisher.

"That's when our 72-hour strike notice expires. There will be a strike even if we get notice of negotiations." If the union does not receive notice of negotiations, he said, all plumbing contractors who are members of the CLRA also would be struck.

Missile Fired

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Poseidon missile today was fired from underwater for the second time, streaking aloft one hour and 16 minutes behind schedule from the nuclear submarine James Madison.

BOOBY-TRAP BOMB KILLS POLICEMAN

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Eight Omaha policemen apparently were lured into a dynamite trap in a vacant house on the city's near North Side today and one was killed and seven hurt.

Lieut. John Bozak said a booby-trapped suitcase on the living room floor of the 2½-storey house in a predominantly Negro section exploded, blowing the house apart.

The slain officer was Larry Minard, who would have been 30 Thursday, Deputy Police Chief Glen Gates said.

Gates said eight policemen were dispatched to the area after a report a woman was screaming.

HUGE BOMB RAID

U.S. Slams North Viets

SAIGON (AP) — The United States committed its entire Pacific force of B-52 bombers against the new North Vietnam offensive today in the northernmost provinces of South Vietnam.

Nearly 100 of the big bombers dropped some 3,000 tons of bombs on Northern Vietnamese supply and staging areas on both sides of the Laotian border.

The raids were the heaviest in two years in the sector. Informed sources said clouds prevented any accurate assessment of the bomb damage, but several secondary explosions indicated hits on ammunition stores.

The U.S. command ordered the B-52s out in full force after attacks Sunday on seven southern allied bases guarding approaches to the populous coastal lowlands of Quang Tri and Thua Thien provinces.

'COPTERS LOST

The U.S. command also announced that three American helicopters were shot down on the Laotian side of the border Saturday. Headquarters said one American was killed and two are missing.

North Vietnamese gunners late Sunday slammed nearly 200 rounds of rockets, mortars and recoilless rifle shells into five southern allied bases along the so-called demilitarized zone. It was the heaviest attack in that region in more than a year.

At the same time, the North Vietnamese for the eighth day kept up attacks on two bases—O'Reilly and Barnett—some 25 miles south of the DMZ along the Laotian border.

ONE HIT HARD

Casualties and damage were reported light over-all, but one South Vietnamese artillery base four miles south of the DMZ was hard hit. Seventy rounds from mortars slammed into it, blowing up an ammunition dump. A score or more South Vietnamese troops were killed, and as many more were wounded.

The U.S. command said several Americans were killed in the other shelling attacks.

Informants said there were indications that the attacks on the bases along the DMZ came from the direction of Laos, to the west, rather from inside the buffer zone on the north.

They said they may have been diversionary attacks to screen the movement of troops into the lowlands for

Postmen Strike Again

OTTAWA (CP) — About one-third of the country's 27,000 postal workers were on strike or under suspension today as the Council of Postal Unions turned on the pressure in contract talks.

Mail service, however, was normal in Victoria.

The council negotiating team met with the government's treasury board negotiators for 90 minutes to discuss new positions taken last week, then adjourned "until Wednesday at the latest," a government spokesman said.

Meanwhile, more than 6,000 postal workers from Quebec City to British Columbia were absent on rotating strikes and another 2,000 were under suspension by the post office.

The rotating strikes hit Quebec City, Toronto, London, Ont., Calgary, Edmonton, most of Northern Ontario, northern Alberta and Fort St. John and Dawson Creek, B.C.

Suspended by the post office were 21 Toronto stations and 15 other Ontario points, including Brockville, Smiths Falls, Peterborough, Cobourg and Lindsay, and 30 points in Quebec, including Chicoutimi, Jonquiere-Kenogami, Levis, Rimouski, Riviere-du-Loup, Sept-Iles, Shawinigan and Trois-Rivieres.

Heroin Charges Laid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five persons have been charged with trafficking in heroin following a major drug seizure in the Vancouver area.

An RCMP spokesman said the five, including a 16-year-old girl, were arrested during the weekend following a three-month investigation into the activities of "a local syndicate."

U.S. To Lift Limits On Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has accepted a recommendation that consideration of a tariff system to regulate foreign oil imports be discontinued and that the United States continue instead with efforts to improve the current import quota system, it was announced today.

Included in the recommendations are provisions for an increase in crude oil from Canada above the 395,000 barrels-a-day quota imposed by President Nixon last March.

The recommendation was made by George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, in a letter to Nixon.

FORCE PRICE DOWN

Six months ago a cabinet-level study group on oil import policy recommended that the federal government get out of the business of assigning valuable foreign oil import licences to American oil companies. The group recommended that the 11-year-old quota system be replaced with a system of tariffs on foreign oil.

ERWIN WEIT TO W. GERMANY

High-Level Red Defects From Poland

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Erwin Weit, the personal interpreter for Poland's Communist party boss, Wladyslaw Gomulka, has defected to West Germany, Denmark's largest morning newspaper reported today.

* * *

The conservative Berlingske Tidende said Weit, 43, fled by way of Vienna several months ago and gave Western intelligence agents an account of the Warsaw Pact summit meeting that preceded the 1968 Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The Austrian-born Weit served as interpreter for Gomulka during the secret talks in July 1968, one month before Russia crushed the liberal Czechoslovak regime of Alexander Dubcek.

* * *

According to Weit, the newspaper said, the strongest insistence on a crackdown against Dubcek came from East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht who saw the Czech liberalization as part of a Western plot.

The newspaper said Weit told Western intelligence agencies that Ulbricht predicted East Germany would be next in line for a counter-revolution and was so agitated Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev called a recess to calm him down.

* * *

The Berlingske Tidende said Weit went to Poland from Austria as a child, fought in the Polish underground against Nazi occupation forces during the Second World War and used his linguistic talents to rise in Communist party ranks. He became Gomulka's interpreter in 1960.

Nerve Gas Ship Heads for Site

By HOWARD BENEDICT

ABOARD HARTLEY (AP) — A rusty surplus Liberty ship carrying a cargo of nerve gas and several rabbits wallowed through the Atlantic under tow today, headed for a water grave 282 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla.

The LeBaron Russell Briggs is scheduled to be scuttled in 16,000 feet of water Tuesday, carrying with her to the bottom 418 steel-jacketed concrete vaults containing more than 12,500 nerve gas rockets.

The way for the controversial disposal of the deadly gas was cleared Sunday when Florida Gov. Claude Kirk and the Environmental Defence Fund said they were abandoning a court fight against the army's plans to rid itself of the rockets. They claimed the gas represented an extreme danger to the ocean environment.

In a rare Sunday session the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington upheld a district court's refusal to grant Kirk and the defence fund an injunction barring the disposal plans. It said, first, the Briggs must remain in port at Sunny Point, N.C., until 10 a.m. today to give Kirk and the defence fund a chance to carry an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The appeals court announced some two hours later, however, that Kirk and the group were quitting the court fight and the Briggs, which originally had been scheduled to get under way Saturday, moved out with a tug supplying the power.

Providing escort were a backup tug, the destroyer escort Hartley and the Coast Guard cutter Mendotta.

When the convoy reached the disposal area, a 14-man team of specialists will board the Briggs, checking first the rabbits. They are sensitive to gas, should any of the vaults spring a leak.

The men will install devices to monitor the rate of descent as the Briggs goes to the bottom, remove the rabbits and all salvageable equipment, open valves to let seawater flood the ship, then abandon the Briggs.

Navy Capt. A. G. Hamilton, in charge of sinking the Briggs, estimated it would take 4½ to 5 hours for the freighter to go down.

The Mendotta and Hartley will remain at the scene for eight to 12 hours, charting the exact position of the Briggs and examining environmental data and water samples to check against any early leakage of gas.

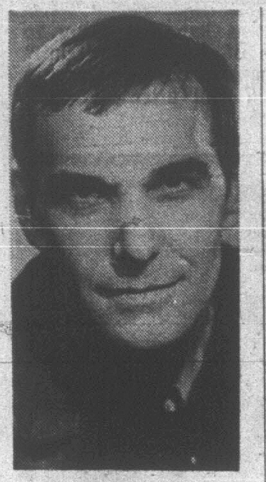
an attack on the villages there.

The Viet Cong radio disclosed orders to increase shelling and terror attacks for the next three weeks, in observance of the 25th anniversary Wednesday of the 1945 uprising against the French and the first anniversary Sept. 3 of the death of Ho Chi Minh.

One terror attack was reported in Saigon at dawn. A dynamite bomb shattered a food stall and coffee shop frequented by South Vietnamese police and soldiers. Nineteen persons were wounded, including 11 civilians.

In a New York television appearance, Representative Richard Ottinger (Dem.—N.Y.) said Sunday air force planes had sprayed Cambodian rubber plantations in April, 1969, with agent orange, a defoliant which he says is believed to deform unborn children.

Ottinger said he and Sen. Gaylord Nelson (Dem.—Wis.) were told of the incident by an unidentified air force source, and that they would seek an explaination from the Pentagon.



CICERI

Crash Kills Veteran Actor

TORONTO (CP) — Leo Ciceri, 46, of Montreal, prominent Canadian actor, died in hospital here today following a single-car accident Sunday on Highway 401, five miles south of Kitchener, Ont.

His car plunged through a broken guard rail and down a 230-foot embankment. The guard rail had been broken earlier when another car swerved off the road and plunged down the embankment. Its occupants escaped serious injury.

Provincial police said a rut seven inches deep and 150 feet long on the south side of the highway could have caused or contributed to the two accidents.

Mr. Ciceri had been acting with the Stratford Festival Theatre for 11 years. This season he was playing Iachimo in Cymbeline, Lovborg in Hedda Gabler and Antonio in Merchant of Venice.

Demonstrators Leave Gifts For Prisoners

NEW WESTMINSTER, (CP) — Gifts for inmates were left outside the walls by participants in a demonstration Sunday at the British Columbia penitentiary here.

About 150 persons marched to the penitentiary from Queens Park in an effort which organizers said was meant to demonstrate sympathy with inmates who staged an all-night sit-in a week ago.

The sit-in had protested the death of Indian inmate Walton Brass, 27, by what penitentiary officials said was natural causes and close personal searches.

The gifts left by Sunday's demonstrators, mostly from leftwing youth groups, included chewing gum, marshmallows, candy and cigarettes.

"We want to show them that not everyone outside hates them, which is what they are told in prison," said Jim Stolley, a spokesman for the demonstrators.

About 15 police officers stood outside the New Westminster winter sports centre, but reentered the building as the demonstrators passed. Two more officers were seen observing the crowd from a parked car across the street from the penitentiary.

However, a city police department spokesman refused to disclose how many men were standing by in case of any incidents.

The demonstrators chanted "Free All Prisoners Now" and "Shut the Place Down" as they paraded in an area about 100 yards from the empty prison exercise yard.

Most recreation facilities in the prison are still off-limits because of the inmates' protest.

Police said the gifts and a red flag placed on the wire fence surrounding penitentiary property will be left there until someone makes a complaint to them.

ISTANBUL (AP) — Thirteen persons were killed and another 15 were injured when an Iranian truck collided with a bus and another truck on the Ankara-Istanbul highway near here.

Lebanese Election A Clouded Affair

BEIRUT (AP) — Parliament meets tonight to elect a new president for Lebanon, and the outcome is as clouded as the tops of the mountains behind the capital.

After two months of intense political activity to line up a successor to President Charles Helou, there are four announced candidates, and none is likely to win. Helou can't succeed himself.

The biggest bloc in the 99-member parliament, the Nahj, was holding a last-minute emergency meeting this morning to make its choice. It was considering Alias Sarkis, 44, governor of the Central Bank of Lebanon, and Farid Dahdah, 60, a former judge and head of the civil service board.

Tension was high in the city. as a precaution against the armed groups backing various candidates, demonstrations have been banned, firearms permits suspended, and troops and gendarmes blocked off the square in front of the old parliament building in the centre of the city and the streets surrounding it.

The announced candidates included:

—Former president Camille Chamoun, 70, a pro-Western right-winger who asked the U.S. marines to Lebanon in 1958 to put down a civil war that developed when he announced he wanted a second term.

—Minister of Public Works Pierre Gemayel, 65, head of the right-wing Falangist party whose militants fought running battles with Palestinian commandos in Beirut in March.

—Minister of Economy Suleiman Frangieh, 60, nominated Sunday night by the small Centre bloc which is trying to regain some of the influence it had before last year's prolonged government crisis over the commando issue.

—Adnan Haki, 56, head of the small Moslem Najjada party. He is given no chance because the president of this nearly half-Christian, half-Moslem country is traditionally a Maronite Christian who then appoints a Moslem premier.

A two-thirds majority, 66 votes, was required for election on the first ballot. Thereafter a simple majority, or 50 votes, is enough.

GUERRILLAS FIRM

Arab guerrillas remained as adamant as ever in their opposition to the peace talks.

Yasir Arafat, guerrilla chief based in Jordan, warned that his forces would fight any crackdown by King Hussein's Jordanian army. Arafat said Sunday that four brigades of government troops were ringing Amman, the Jordanian capital, in preparations for a new crackdown on the guerrillas.'"

"But we shall turn Jordan into a graveyard for the plotters," he told a graduation exercise of guerrilla fighters in the capital. "Amman shall be a Hanoi of the Middle East."

U.S. officials are optimistic that despite the furore over charges and counter-charges of truce violations, peace negotiations will begin in a few days.

Washington apparently has concluded that neither side in the Arab-Israeli conflict is deliberately trying to sabotage the peace plan, in which the military standstill is the first stage.

The United States, therefore, is anxious not to let the question of truce violations jeopardize peace talks, which mediator Jarring is striving to set up in New York.

Laird said there was a tremendous buildup of Soviet missiles in Egypt in late July and early August.

But he said: "It is impossible by the means of verification which we have available — and they are the best means of verification — to prove or disprove on a very firm basis exactly what took place" in the first 12 hours of the ceasefire.

The United States knows from its own intelligence that there have been no violations since the first 24 hours of the ceasefire, he said.

The defence secretary declined to confirm that the U.S. is flying U2 spy planes over the Suez canal to check against infringements of the truce. But he asserted the U.S. intelligence is better than Israel's.

Israeli Premier Golda Meir told a meeting of her Labor party's central committee that the start of the new Middle East peace effort has not been "very encouraging," and she blamed alleged Egyptian missile movements.

Mrs. Meir said she would not be surprised if shooting breaks out along the canal before the expiration of the 90-day truce. "Because of what they did with the missiles you can't be sure what is going to happen," she said.

AMERICAN JOURNALIST ALLOWED INTO CHINA

HONG KONG (WP) — American writer Edgar Snow entered China Friday—the first American journalist to be granted a visit since Mao Tse-Tung's cultural revolution.

A long-time friend of Mao's, who first interviewed the Chinese leader in 1936, Snow crossed the border from Hong Kong less than 25 hours after arriving in this colony. He did not inform American officials of his presence and sought to avoid publicity on his visit to China.

Snow last travelled to China in late 1964 and interviewed Mao in January, 1965. Three years later, he sought to enter China again in the waning days of the cultural revolution, but was refused permission at the last minute.

Bennett Opens Link To Prairie Highways

MOUNT ROBSON, B.C. (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett officially opened the $163 million British Columbia section of the Yellowhead Highway Saturday, a paved link between Kamloops and the Prairie provinces that was pioneered more than 100 years ago by gold seekers from eastern Canada.

Speaking to more than 3,000 people assembled beneath Mount Robson, 40 miles west of Jasper, Alta., in the Yellowhead Pass, the premier predicted the highway will mean greater trade and commerce between B.C. and her prairie neighbors.

The Overlanders, gold seekers from the East, first used the route on their journey to the Cariboo gold fields. At Tete Jaune Cache, 270 miles north of Kamloops, the prospectors split up, some travelling northwest to the present city of Prince George while others followed the North Thompson River south to what now is Kamloops.

The battle to have an all-weather highway constructed to Jasper has been waged by residents of the North Thompson Valley for more than 60 years.

Bennet credited former highways minister P. A. Gaglardi and Wesley Black, present highways minister for completion of the Yellowhead route.

Enroute to Kamloops for a civic dinner following the opening ceremonies, the premier and his cabinet encountered more than 300 persons, many of them children and elderly citizens, along the highway at Clearwater with hand-painted signs, demanding immediate government action on their request for a hospital in the North Thompson Valley.

At present, there is one doctor and a Red Cross first

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Three members of a Victoria family were injured today when their car slammed into a rock bluff six miles west of Nancy Greene Lake, on the Christina Lake-Kinnaird section of the Southern Trans-Canada Highway.

Admitted to hospital in Trail were a husband and wife from Victoria and one of the three children.

'Losers' Bradley and McGrath find their hard fall in Toronto

GOIN' DOWN THE ROAD

Film About Losers Is Striking It Rich

By PETER McNELLY

"You know, ducktails, black boots, white socks, dice over the dashboard and mudflaps — that's where it's at."

That is Paul Bradley talking. Who? Paul Bradley, 29, Toronto actor, comic, and movie star. Movie? Goin' Down The Road, a full-length Canadain feature striking gold in Toronto at the box-office and in movie columns.

Bradley was in Victoria with his co-star in Goin' Down The Road, Doug McGrath. He and McGrath, complete with press agent, are stumping the country drumming up interest in their already successful movie.

Goin' Down The Road may not make them rich, but it is doing a lot to make them famous. Bradley's 1950-ish comment came by way of "explanation" of what Goin Down The Road is all about.

It's a movie about losers, two regular guys from Nova Scotia who decide to split for Toronto's action, money and women.

TO VANCOUVER

As Bradley's statement suggests, the dice and mudflaps are not really where it's at any more. Because the two guys don't know this, Toronto turns into a hard fall. And they wind up heading for Vancouver, the welfare graveyard of the Pacific coast.

Bradley and McGrath look like gasoline station attendents with clean levis. They're direct, and the day I talked to them they were visibly exhausted and homesick.

This is their first publicity tour, and like the characters in Goin' Down The Road, they hit some surprises on the way.

"What I've found out is that there's a real need for quality radio and television personalities as you move West," said McGrath.

"All you do is go. Winnipeg yesterday, Calgary tomorrow. Vancouver the next day. I'm drained," says Bradley.

McGrath is quieter than Bradley, quick to disagree, opinionated. When he's not looking at you, he doesn't seem to hear the conversation until someone touches a nerve.

The press agent was rapping about Dennis Hopper's new film, The Last Movie. He said they killed a man deliberately. He seemed excited.

"Where's that at?" McGrath interrupted. "Hopper makes Easy Rider and talks about peace, then he goes out and kills someone. Where's that at?"

Like Bradley, McGrath is a Toronto actor. His experience ranges from musicals to Genet. He likes to point out that he has studied with Eli Rill, and hopes to land a role in the film version of Fortune And Men's Eyes.

WANT MORE

Goin' Down The Road is their first major movie, and both say they want to play in more.

What are the differences between acting for the screen and the stage? Bradley says movie directors work more on subtle facial expressions and gestures, whereas a stage director is always driving for maximum projection.

McGrath says it is harder to sustain a character in a film than on stage. Both agree this was the biggest problem they encountered filming Goin' Down The Road.

The movie was shot in the fall and early winter of 1969 by cameraman Richard Lieterman (A Married Woman) and directed by Donald Shebib (Good Times, Bad Times). Money for Goin' Down The Road came from a grant by the Canadian Film Development Corporation.

Neither Bradley nor McGrath would speculate on whether this movie represents a breakthrough for other young Canadian actors who want to get into movies.

People have tried to compare Goin' Down The Road to Easy Rider and Midnight Cowboy, but Bradley says the comparisons are meaningless.

"It's a film about losers. It's not as slick as Midnight Cowboy and not about the paranoia of Easy Rider."

These remarks brought McGrath back into the discussion: "I didn't see Peter (the character he plays in the film) as a loser. He is a dreamer. Sensitive. He could be an artist."

McGrath started talking about cities and loneliness. Both men have travelled a lot, both have been broke and hassled by circumstance.

"It's cold, you see. This is the cold society. You go to a city like Toronto and run up against a wall. It's not just Toronto. It's the same everywhere. It's because people run into those walls that they give up. That's why there aren't more good Canadian films. That's why there are few interesting playwrights. It has nothing to do with the United States."

He stopped and dropped the subject. "Is there anything to do in this town?" he said. Bradley interrupted.

"Somewhere we can listen to music, and, you know, meet some women?"

Oilers Not to Disturb North Fur Trappers

By STUART LAKE

SACHS HARBOUR, N.W.T. (CP) — Oil companies starting exploration work on Banks Island this fall will not be allowed to destroy the thriving trapping economy there, Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien said Sunday.

He told a public meeting in this Eskimo community of about 130 persons that he would stop any practices of the oil crews that threaten the livelihood of the trappers at Sachs Harbour, about 1,400 miles north of Edmonton.

The meeting was called by the community association which said the white fox, one of the more valuable Arctic furs, might leave the islands because of the noise and activity of the oil crews. Seventeen families here reap about $250,000 annually from white fox fur.

There also are plenty of seal, polar bear and other animals, making this community one of the most prosperous in the Arctic.

Fearing their livelihood threatened by an announcement that Elf and Deminex Oil Co. are bringing in seismic crews in October, the Eskimos have appealed to the Committee for the Original People's Entitlement for help in keeping oil men off the island.

Brian Purdy, a Yellowknife lawyer acting for the Eskimos, put their case before Mr. Chretien.

CONTROLS INADEQUATE

Mr. Purdy said there are no adequate controls or regulations to assure the Eskimos that animals would not be driven away from the island by aircraft and other disturbances connected with oil exploration.

He also said people were concerned that they were not consulted when Ottawa granted exploration permits for the 30,000-square-mile island.

The Yellowknife lawyer suggested the government consider making Banks Island an Arctic reserve.

Mr. Chretien replied that officials of his department are investigating possible results of seismic work here. He said a 10-mile area would be used on the island as an experiment to test the effects of work. If harmful effects resulted, he could order the work stopped.

Department officials travelling with Mr. Chretien said outside the meeting they are almost 100 per cent sure no damage will result from the work. They said trapping is still flourishing on other Arctic islands where similar work was done.

DRUG RAID LEADS TO NEAR-RIOT

TORONTO (CP) — An RCMP drug raid on Rochdale College — an experimental free college — touched off an hour-long disturbance Saturday night that threatened to become a riot.

An estimated 1,500 persons from the college and nearby areas, including the hippie district of Yorkville, converged on the high-rise college after a six-man RCMP squad hauled a youth from the building in handcuffs.

The crowd chanted "fascist" and "pig" at the police. Objects — including beer bottles and a live cat — were hurled from college windows at about 150 Metropolitan Toronto police who arrived to quell the distrubance.

Three Metro policemen and several civilians were injured, four persons were arrested and windows in a patrol wagon and a cruiser were smashed.

Peter Turner, college president, said Sunday the disturbance was caused by "the stupidity and belligerence" of RCMP drug squad officers.

He said they entered the college with a writ of assistance (a permanent search warrant) and abused and manhandled members of the college's six-man security force.

Peter Almasy, a Rochdale security guard, said the police arrested one person on the stairs.

He said the youth was knocked down in the lobby as he was being handcuffed and an angry crowd chased the RCMP as they took the youth across a street outside.

Several police and civilians were cut by broken glass. Constable Walter Jackson had his hands cut by a person who thrust a broken bottle at him.

'Agents' Killed

AMMAN (Reuters) — Ten persons have been executed by Arab commandos in the occupied Gaza Strip as "agents for the enemy," the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine announced. It said that commando forces carried out the death sentences after the 10 had ignored several warnings. They were all shot between July 26 and 31, it said.

Two or More Can Play

IT IS UNFORTUNATE THAT Resources Minister Williston has seen fit to react so negatively to the announcement that the revised federal Fisheries Act will be used to bring heavy pressure to bear on industrial plants to halt pollution of fresh and salt water fisheries. It would be more encouraging to the public if the provincial resources minister saw the Department of Fisheries powers as an invaluable aid to the more efficient conservation of our fisheries resources.

It is not the first time that Mr. Williston has jumped on federal attempts to protect streams and coastal waters in British Columbia. Over a year ago he entered into a sharp battle with Ottawa over the use of the Stellako River for log drives, with the obvious danger of damage to the spawning grounds and water conditions.

In the present instance his complaint is that Fisheries Minister Davis, in enforcing more stringent regulations against pollution of rivers and sea through discharge of effluent from pulp mills and other industrial operations, will complicate the anti-pollution picture by creating conflict between provincial legislation, the Canada Water Act and the Fisheries Act. In support of his argument, Mr. Williston forsees the closure of British Columbia mills—as threatened by Mr. Davis—which do not conform to the fisheries regulations.

But there is no indication that adequate time will not be provided for offenders to bring their equipment up to date—adequate, but not indefinite. Many mills have made great progress in overcoming pollution problems, despite the expense involved. Some mills which cannot meet requirements may have to close. But this surely is not a casual whim on the part of the Fisheries Minister. Where industrial plants are destroying the ability of rivers or bodies of water to support fish life—to say nothing of human use—then it is clear that they should have to cease such destruction. That does not necessarily mean shutting down a mill, but it should certainly mean that the operators will undertake a remedial program which will be set out in clear steps with a definite date by which the pollution will have ceased.

Mill operations which depend for their existence on the savings made by destroying streams and coastal waters are sub-marginal: if they were forced to add into their costs the loss inflicted on the public through spoliation of the environment, they would prove to be a detriment to the province rather than an asset.

It is no use trying to cling to the industrial practices of the past generation so far as disposal of wastes is concerned. It is becoming increasingly clear to the public that the days of dump-it-and-forget-it are gone forever. Our world is no longer big enough to sustain such carefree handling. Mr. Williston should accept this, and offer the full co-operation of his department in all efforts to preserve our natural environment. Politics and pollution do not mix.

Toward a European Currency

THE EUROPEAN COMMON Market's ultimate success will depend on the establishment of full monetary union. But a common currency presents problems of national sovereignty that are still a long way from being solved. The Commission of European Communities feels the Euro-dollar will be a reality in 1978 — a date that coincides with the end of the transitional period to be negotiated with four nations that hope to become ECM members.

Such a coincidence of dates, as set down by the commission, hints that Ireland, Norway, Denmark and Britain may become members by 1973, with five more years as transitional members. While British membership in the ECM is not necessarily a prerequisite to creation of a common currency, it would certainly help member nations in dealing with third countries. Unlike the moneys of the present Common Market members, British sterling is an international currency. And London is a world financial centre of banks, discount houses and bullion markets.

But even if the British agreed to submerge the pound in a Euro-dollar, common currency problems would not be solved. Radically differing tax rates and discount systems must be rationialized, not to mention interest rates and many other complex financial arrangements. Beginning later this year or in 1971, ECM nations will start to reconcile their excise taxes, and the six ministers of finance will meet annually to discuss their draft budgets.

Between 1972 and 1975 uniform taxes and a narrowing of the permissible margins of currency fluctuations to one per cent will be instituted. In the final stage member countries' central banks will become members of a European Federal Reserve System with an ever increasing proportion of national reserves transferred to a central bank. If the ambitious plan is successful, the resulting common currency could rival the United States dollar as a world standard of foreign exchange. But even among the sophicated nation-states of Europe, it remains to be seen if an individual country will submerge its wealth in a system serving all member nations.

A Rumbling Spanish Protest

WHEN GENERAL FRANCO formalized the succession of Prince Juan Carlos to follow his future withdrawal from official power as Spanish head of state, the arrangement was made to facilitate an easy transition from one era to another without significant change. Current developments in Spain indicate that the eventual transfer may not be that easy. Spain's government is undergoing strong pressure from left of centre and the extreme right — both within the regime itself.

The old guard Falangists are disturbed by what they consider the liberalism of the administration, amended last October by an infusion of technocrats generally identified with the controversial lay organization, the Opus Dei. At the other extreme, an increasing number of Spaniards are protesting the sluggishness with which the liberalization they expected is taking place. The latter protests are by no means limited to outlawed Communists or Socialist Party members.

So the division widens between former ex-backers of the Franco regime. For some the change is too rapid, for others far too slow. The well-laid plans of el Caudillo, now 77 and nearing the time of his departure from the public scene, seem headed for trouble. The vacuum left by a long-term dictator is frequently filled with conflict.

Free and Unfair

Re the letter dated August 11 by Nan Farebrother, 440 Simcoe Street, in your newspaper.

This lady apparently is under the delusion that the economy of this town could run on free tourist attractions. Does she not know that without tourist dollars brought in by privately operated tourist business, this town would once again be an economical one-stop "ghost town"? Ten years ago the B.C. Government and the motel association cried for more tourist attractions to hold the tourist here longer. They now stay three of four days compared to one day prior to the hundreds of thousands of private dollars invested just for the purpose of building up the economy of the area. Over 100 million tourist dollars were left on Vancouver Island in 1969 and more are in prospect for 1970 and each ensuing year.

We have too much unfair free competition offered to the tourist now without advertising it.—An Irate Investor.

Wet Welcome

With Premier Bennett's ferry fleet, the sea-going tourist can find no major fault. However, there is one minor annoyance that the early-morning ship passenger must contend with.

It appears that on every first (7 a.m.) sailing, pressure hoses are applied to wash the decks. During this cleaning operation, the unsuspecting stroller on the lower deck may find himself showered upon by a jet of water from a hose above.

For the ferry passenger who luckily escapes such a rude awakening, he may yet spend the rest of the trip with a soaking-wet posterior acquired from sitting upon some recently-hosed-down deck furniture.

Two suggestions, then, for improved service: (1) Do the cleaning operation while passengers are not on board (with time to let deck furniture dry). (2) Failing this, give some notice to the passengers, either by signs or over the PA system.—Victor D. Harrison, 2126A Spring Rd.

Without Glory

In the First World War it was in August 1918, at dawn on the 8th of the month, that Canadians and Australians spearheaded the great Allied drive that broke though the German line on the Amiens front, and advanced eight miles before darkness set in. It was General Ludendorff's "black day."

I noticed a photograph that day on the ground near the body of a dead German soldier — as recorded in a diary I kept during the war — and I picked it up. It was of the dead man, his wife and three small children. He may have been looking at that photograph as he lay dying. Such is war. Let there be no talk of the glory of it.—F. R. Hasse, 450 Simcoe.

FROM FIERY RUN, VIRGINIA

By JAMES RESTON

'When We See Land as a Community . . .'

Reston

IN THIS lovely corner of Virginia, men are changing their ideas about the land — not much but some. A generation ago, they plowed the foothills of the Blue Ridge to plant corn and the gully-washing rains carried the red earth down the Rappahannock River to the sea. Fiery Run, which is part of the headwaters of the Rappahannock, is much clearer now, because while corn is still planted on these hillsides, much land has been put into grass for cattle. The land is being conserved, not because conservation is ethically right, but because it paid more money to raise cattle than to raise corn.

Nevertheless, it is necessary to raise hell. For while the government has helped conserve the natural resources of the nation by giving tax havens to well-heeled gentlemen farmers and shelling out billions for planting or not planting certain crops, the fact is that the economic incentives for preserving our natural resources have not been as great as the economic rewards for ruining. them.

No doubt much more could be done by changing the law and making the destruction of the land and pollution of the air and waters prohibitively expensive, but even the enactment and enforcement of punitive new laws is not likely to deal with the conservation problem unless there is a fundamental change of attitude about property rights and property responsibilities.

Ethical Question

This is not only an economic but an ethical question. It requires the kind of change that took place when the conscience of the American people rejected human slavery as a "property right."

Aldo Leopold made the point over a generation ago at the University of Wisconsin. He felt sure even in the 1940s that a conservation system based on economic motives would fail, partly because most Americans were drifting away from nature, and partly because most of the creatures of nature — songbirds and wild flowers, for example — have no economic value.

He felt we had to develop a different way of looking at ourselves as part of a community of living (and dying) things, each important to the other, which man must approach, not as a conqueror or owner, but as a partner and trustee for his own and his children's serenity and security.

"Conservation is getting nowhere," he wrote in "A Sand County Almanac," "because it is incompatible with our Abrahamic concept of land. We abuse land because we regard it as a commodity belonging to us.

"When we see land as a community to which we belong, we may begin to use it with love and respect. There is no other way for land to survive the impact of mechanized man . . . that land is a community is the basic concept of ecology, but that land is to be loved and respected is an extension of ethics. . . ."

Vaguely Romantic

For the federal government, sixty miles down the pike in Washington from here, and for the farmers down the roads of these stony coves and valleys of the Blue Ridge, all this seems vaguely romantic. They are sticking to the economic view of the problem: make conservation pay; don't talk philosophy, talk dollars; be realistic.

But this is precisely the paradox. The realists as things are now going are the philosophers. The enduring reality is the natural world which is working on a longer clock than the rest of us.

The economic approach to conservation is important: don't reward but punish the destroyers. But this requires a philosophical and even ethical change toward the land and property and ownership by a much larger portion of the American people.

It is not enough to obey the conservation law, vote right, join the Audubon Society, practise profitable conservation on your own land, and leave the rest to the government.

The government is still looking at the problem as an economic question — how to punish the destroyers and reward the conservationists — and this will help, but it is not enough. Aldo Leopold was undoubtedly right: we have to change the question and get a new philosophy of values about the land, property rights and man as only one part of the living community.

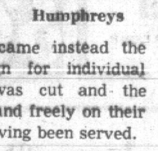
FROM LONDON

By DAVID HUMPHREYS

Conflict: People Versus Highways



Humphreys

THE minister of transport and assorted other dignitaries gathered for another routine happy public occasion, the opening of an elevated motorway. It had been completed at a cost of $33 million per mile across two-and-a-half miles of the heavily populated Paddington and North Kensington areas of London. What might have been just another ritualistic litany to the dominance of the motor vehicle became instead the beginning a campaign for individual rights. The ribbon was cut and the vehicles sped happily and freely on their way, their demands having been served.

Then the officials discovered to their consternation that people don't like living 10 feet from a modern motorway. They don't appreciate literally being able to give directions to the passing motorist from their bedroom windows.

As Westway was opened, residents marched with long banners carrying the demand, "Rehouse us. Get us out of this hell." It was the beginning of one of the best planned and most successful militant community action programs London has seen for a long time.

Although the national government had found the money to build the motorway, it has still not found the money to rehouse the people living within 20 feet of its route. To them Westway is an ugly pile of steel and concrete which has devalued their property and made their lives intolerable.

Small Price

The Greater London Council decided that $1,250,000 or so was a small price for relief of conscience and such an admitted public grievance. At first it offered to rehouse about 50 families, following normal legal channels that would take up to two years. Then, bowing to the powerful combination of an effective citizens' group and a sympathetic press, it announced an immediate plan to move out the families worst affected.

The national government set up a comprehensive review of all aspects of the phenomenon suddenly on everybody's lips: planning blight. How unfortunate, it seemed, that a private member's bill on that precise subject was talked out last February in the Commons with scant public attention. The problem is that there simply is no legislation covering compensation of persons afflicted with this modern urban scourge. Once again a government is scurrying around to keep pace with problems of urban growth, just as previous governments responded to concern about the water and air.

Rules Established

Until the rules have been established, the London authorities were at pains to point out, their compassion must not be taken as a precedent. One of the obvious problems is just how far from an elevated, or any other kind of motorway, compensation should extend and in what terms.

Many thousands of people in a big city could claim that their peace of mind has been disrupted by the rush of traffic. My neighbor politely suggested to the landlord that all tenants in our block should be rewarded with a rent rebate for just such a consideration. But, alas, we will have to carry on with closed windows or ear plugs or, like most, simply get used to the constant whine. One hundred yards is close enough, from a strictly amateur observation to appreciate that 10 yards from a motorway is insufferable and to offer equal sympathy to anyone living within a few miles of busy Heathrow airport.

George Clark, the professional organizer of the Westway citizens and various other rights campaigns, is not worrying overly about the London council's denial of any precedent. "We have shown what can be done," he said, "When a group of people is cohesive enough and has a good enough case, and in similar circumstances others will succeed."

The validity of the case was decisive. What government official could pretend that people should have cars racing right past their bedroom windows?

Noise Level

And what answer could he give to the measured evidence that the noise level along the route was twice the maximum recommended by a government committee? (An apparatus for measuring noise was set up in the aprtment of Mrs. Liz Reeve, a 79-year-old widow. But it too was a nuisance. "It ticked like a giant alarm clock and banged every hour so I turned the damn thing off.")

There was a definite incredibility on both sides of the fuss. It is a reminder of the need for constant vigilance against government encroachment of individual rights that for seven years this motorway was planned and built. Yet in all this time little attention was paid to the immediate environment. Equally deplorable, perhaps, the residents allowed the construction to proceed, with all its inconveniences, in silence. Some who moved into the area during the seven years, insist they had no idea of the project until construction started.

By world standards, London is a leader against air and water pollution. The Thames is relatively clean. The killer smogs are part of history and the sun has returned as a regular feature of the central London scene. Now the combined evils of noise pollution and planning blight must be taken equally seriously. If London can build the 200 miles of motorway which are planned while respecting the right of citizens who happen to be in the way, the Westway incident will have been worthwhile.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"I JUST BROUGHT 'EM INDOORS TO AIR-CONDITION THEIR TONGUES BACK IN THEIR MOUTHS."

Looking Back

From the Times of August 17, 1910:

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in clear-cut and earnest words outlined his views in Vancouver today. "My first ideal and conception is that of Empire. My second thought is of economic conditions. If we admit indiscriminate, unchecked immigration from the Orient, the good relations which ought to exist cannot be maintained. Therefore, immigration must be controlled, checked and kept within reasonable bounds."

The Ritual of Big Power Politics Goes On and On

By CHALMERS M. ROBERTS

On March 1, 1945, in his speech to Congress reporting on the Yalta Conference, President Roosevelt declared that the meeting's success "ought to spell the end of the system of unilateral action, the exclusive alliance, the spheres of influences, the balances of power, and all the other expedients that have been tried for centuries — and have always failed."

A quarter century later every one of those ancient forms of international politics is alive and flourishing. Only the line-ups have changed. And the United Nations, on which FDR placed so much store as their substitute, limps along as no more than a peripheral aid to the old forms FDR condemned.

Today the dominant relationships in the world are those existing, in fact or in prospect, among three world capitals: Washington, Moscow and Peking.

Today Moscow and Peking condemn the United States for unilateral action in Cambodia yet each expressed fear of a unilateral move by one of the communist giants against the other. Washington has long been wary of the exclusive alliances between Moscow and Peking and Hanoi. The Soviets are busy trying to turn the Middle East from a western to a Russian sphere of influence and Moscow and Peking struggle between themselves and with the United States over whose influence will be greater in much of Asia.

The Soviet-American-British balance of power in the Second World War against the Nazi-Italian-Japanese axis has been replaced by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization vs. the Warsaw Pact and the "delicate balance of terror" in nuclear weapons between Washington and Moscow.

Critical Talks

Moscow now is engaged in critical negotiations with the United States at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), with West Germany and in the Middle East. Peking for the moment has shelved its talks with the United States at Warsaw but that channel doubtless will be resumed if only to annoy Moscow which fears a Sino-American "collusion" just as Peking charges Washington and Moscow with "collusion" at its expense.

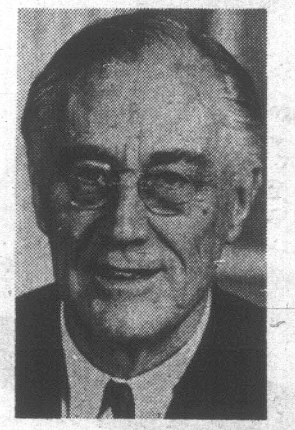
The United States, weary of the long and costly war in Indochina, is trying to wind it down and at the same time to reposition America in the world so that overseas commitments will be less burdensome. Yet it knows that in doing so it must leave no power vacuums lest others create new spheres of influence.

This is the frame of today's world: two nuclear superpowers musclebound at the cataclysmic level of conflict, hoping that the third would-be superpower in the nuclear field, China, will learn and observe the necessities of restraint as they have done. The two minor nuclear nations, Britain and France, cannot escape being secondary.

Below this self-imposed limit on nuclear conflict, unwritten as it is, is the old world of rivalries and struggle for power that FDR condemned. In this world of conventional power and warfare, of diplomatic manoeuvre and intrigue, lie today's most critical conflicts.

And here the dominant roles are played by the United States, the Soviet Union and China.

Hopefully, then, at the nuclear level there is a Soviet-American stability that can last and that could be institutionalized after success of SALT's first round and perhaps improved in later rounds, especially once China, Britain and France become part of the talks.



ROOSEVELT

This is not to say there will not be a ceaseless effort by parties to SALT to improve their relative positions within the rules established. With alertness, however, this can be kept within tolerable limits.

Below this nuclear level there is and will continue to be a continuing jockeying for position and power by Washington, Moscow and Peking. And it will be in the modes FDR condemned. Consider the Midle East and Europe.

The Soviet Union's ambitions to the south go back to czarist years. During the Hitler-Stalin pact days, Molotov told Ribbentrop of Soviet ambitions in the "general direction of the Persian Gulf." The Second World War left the west, then chiefly Britain and France, weaker in the Middle East. The 1955 Soviet arms deal with Egypt was, as one expert has put it, the great turning-point in Soviet Middle East policy in the post-Stalin period.

In subsequent years, Soviet diplomacy exploited that opening as the U.S. was put on the defensive as Israel's protector against a sea of Arabs. At the 1967 Glassboro meeting, Premier Kosygin reminded President Johnson that there were 100 million Arabs and only two million Israeli.

Soviet backing for the Arabs this spring finally reached the point of Soviet pilots flying in Egypt. As a counter, President Nixon raised the specter of a "collision of superpowers." The administration contends that this warning hit its mark and produced the Moscow pressure on Nasser that brought acceptance of the American peace initiative.

Avoid Collision

It can be argued that the Kremlin leaders, indeed, agree that a collision could be in the offing and that it must be avoided because it could mean moving from the sub-atomic struggle for a sphere of influence to nuclear war with the United States.

It can also be argued that the Kremlin felt that Soviet penetration of the Middle East had reached so successful a point that even if the American initiative should produce a stable Arab-Israeli peace it would be on terms meaning Arab gratitude for Soviet help. Further, that even such a peace could not hinder or reverse the spread of Soviet influence and the lessening of American power in the Arab world and what it offers as an entree to Africa.

Now look at Europe. Whatever Stalin's intentions may have been beyond creating a buffer to his west of friendly states, the satellite nations, western power centred on American atomic bombs represented a "thus far and no farther" injunction he respected. Thus the iron curtain division of Europe came into being.

Today, from the Kremlin's standpoint, that border between East and West is being formalized by the Bonn-Moscow treaty just initialed and by subsequent Bonn-Warsaw and, later, East German-West German negotiations.

From Chancellor Brandt's viewpoint, however, only the illusion of a return to the 1939 frontiers is given up. What is gained is a new opening to the East in trade and personal contacts, including diplomatic relationships, that should enable western ideas and commerce to flow peacefully across the old iron curtain.

If, as Brandt and the United States now anticipate, the Bonn-Moscow pact produces a resolution of West Berlin's long and so often dangerous isolation from the West, then European stability will have gained much.

Here again, if the nuclear facts of life make resolutions of old quarrels at the sub-atomic level a necessity, there will be no end to the Kremlin's long efforts to subvert NATO and weaken the American role in Europe. The coming struggle over reduction of U.S. forces in Germany, due to reach its initial conclusions next year, will tell much about American wisdom in repositioning the United States in this critical part of the world.

Next, look at Asia. Here Moscow and Peking are locked in a deadly great power and ideological struggle.

The American policy of containment of China, patterned after but never officially proclaimed as a repeat of American containment of Russia, is gradually loosening. The coming American withdrawal from Indochina still leaves commitments of importance on the mainland of Asia in both South Korea and Thailand.

If American containment of China is receeding, Soviet efforts to contain China are increasing. Brezhnev's call for an Asian collective security system so far has gotten nowhere beyond raising alarms in Peking. Soviet efforts to sign up the East Europeans to fight against China, should war come, add to the pressure.

Japan Asian Key

Japan has become a focal point of Asia in many respects. The Soviets have tried to improve relations as part of the encirclement of China. There are signs that China has begun to look upon Japan as its key rival in Asia, now that American power seems to be receeding. To the United States, Japan is the key to Pacific defense.

In short, there is now emerging a vast struggle for spheres of influence in Asia that will take years to sort out. A great deal depends on the role Japan, now finally emerging from its post-war psychosis, decides to play, including whether or not it opts to join the nuclear club.

India in Turmoil

To the south of China, the vast Indian subcontinent remains in turmoil. Indian democracy fights for its life with the Soviets and America vying for influence. In neighboring Pakistan, China is welcomed as a counter to India while the new leftist regime in Ceylon is now open to Soviet-Chinese rivalry. Burma is plagued by Chinese incursions.

Hanoi has managed with consummate skill to balance its rival Soviet and Chinese patrons who, here, too, struggle for influence as American power recedes. To the south lies Indonesia where Soviet influence was superseded by Chinese which in turn was destroyed, for the time being at least, by an abortive rebellion. The result has been an upsurge in American influence.

Globally speaking, then, the three giant states, the United States, the Soviet Union and China, are jockeying for position, each one wary of the other two alone or in potential combination. Added momentum for change is provided by the coincidence of American withdrawal tendencies at the time Moscow is increasing its potential, especially on the seas, for a global role and when Peking is breaking out from the isolationism of Mao's xenophobic cultural revolution period.

To many observers, these are the traditional rivalries of history, expressed in the traditional forms of which FDR spoke, and they will endless continue. Wars may be limited to the sub-atomic, but they will continue to be deadly when these rivalries produce a resort to arms.

To others, the United States is a "have" nation, a status quo or stand-pat power, largely engaged in trying to preserve its world role now rather than trying any longer to enlarge it. At the same time, the Soviet Union is becoming, or already is, a "have" nation but its ideological compulsion, though it may be weakening among the Russian people, is still strong at the Kremlin conference table. China is still a "revolutionary" communist state, seized with a compulsion to puts its ideological imprint on the world, though not by direct force.

The Washington-Moscow-Peking struggle, in truth, is a combination of old-fashioned power politics and ideological struggle. The cold war era may have passed in some sense but anti-communism is not dead in Washington. Nor is anti-capitalism and anti-imperialism dead in Moscow or Peking.

Love and Glory

Great powers do not easily shift gears. War is still diplomacy carried on by other means. Power still abhors a vacuum. In the words of the song: It's still the same old story, the fight for love and glory.

The facts of the nuclear life have enforced an upper limit of risk taking, for which we may all be thankful. But below that, in the sub-atomic realm, more and much more of what FDR a quarter century ago thought he had helped abolish is in prospect all around the globe.

And in that multi-form struggle for the rest of this century it is likely that the key decisions will flow from Washington, Moscow and Peking.

Legal Reforms in the Works To Bring About Social Change

By ANTHONY WESTELL

OTTAWA — One of the critical political issues of the Seventies is the clash between the pressures for a more permissive, experimental society and the demand for law and order.

The Le Dain report proposing to ease the law on drugs has already become one battleground, with a division apparent in the federal cabinet and the provincial attorneys-general united in opposing liberalization.

The next clash may be over the proposal to abolish flogging which is now before the cabinet in a draft bill for further reform of the Criminal Code.

Few judges now impose flogging as a punishment for crime and it is seldom ordered as a disciplinary measure inside prisons. But there are a number of ministers — no doubt reflecting substantial public opinion — who argue that this is no time to surrender any of the sanctions against violence in society.

* * *

If the proposal to abolish the lash survives cabinet discussion and comes to the Commons in the next session, there is certain to be an angry debate which will be echoed throughout the country.

Parliament took years to suspend capital punishment when violence was less prevalent and public opinion far less agitated than it is today.

The government's winning argument, however, may be that it will propose to increase prison sentences for crimes of violence in the same bill which ends flogging.

Even so, the proposal to abolish the lash is only the most dramatic of a whole series of coming reforms designed to modernize the criminal law and to protect the rights of citizens in dealings with authority — the police, the courts, the agencies of government.

After years of dusty grandeur in which its main role often seemed to be to defend the status quo, the federal justice department is emerging as an activist agent for social change in Canada.

* * *

Guy Favreau ordered much of the research and set the direction of Liberal reform during his clouded years as justice minister in the Pearson government, Pierre Trudeau brought style and glamor to the department with his major overhaul of the Criminal Code and the philosophy drawing a line between private morality and public law.

The present minister, John Turner, has the energy and the enthusiasm to broaden the attack. His caution is sometimes troubling to progressives — he waffled on capital punishment, for example, and is hesitant how to move on the Le Dain report — and as he is, at 41, clearly in the line to succeed Trudeau, his political motives can be suspect.

But Turner has drawn up a program of action which puts him firmly on the side of a more libertarian, less authoritarian society.

* * *

He has made clear his view that the answer to disrespect for the law is not repression, but change to make a law more worthy of respect. In a period when many people are concerned with the security of the state against license, Turner's priority is to enlarge and protect the rights of citizens.

As a lawyer, he naturally tends to see society in terms of a set of laws governing the relationship of man to man and of man to his institutions, and he perhaps puts too much faith, as Trudeau does, in the power to solve problems by changing laws. But this is a fault on the right side, and a spur to action.

And action there is in plenty, partly because the fiscal squeeze crimps the plans of the spending ministers and leaves parliamentary time for ministers with reform ideas which don't cost money.

Turner has organized the continuing program of reform under four main headings.

The first objective is to bring the criminal law up to date with modern society and thereby to make it more credible, particularly to the young.

Trudeau's omnibus bill, which Turner steered through Parliament, was a major step. The bill in the next session is expected to deal not only with flogging but also with standards of sentencing, rehabilitation of criminals and other issues.

The bail bill introduced in the Commons last month begins the reform of procedures when the citizen is at the discretion of the authorities and before he gets his day in court — that is, when decisions are being made whether to arrest him, detain him, prosecute him.

The second objective is to broaden the rights of the citizen his dealings with the state and its maze of regulatory and administrative law.

* * *

New bills in preparation will seek to supervise the power which Parliament delegates to ministers and boards and commissions, ensuring for example that they do not impose hidden taxes, stay strictly within their terms of procedures when they act in a reference, and follow fair procedures when they act in a semi-judicial way to award licenses or approve rates to be charged for services.

The third objective is to improve access to the law for the poor and the oppressed, so they can use it as a way to obtain rights.

The final objective is to bring the law into the technological age, enabling it both to use the instruments of technology and to prevent their abuse.

NEW CAMPSITE JAMMED ALL SUMMER

Gordon Bay—It s Future Tied to Recreation

By DONNA CLEMENTS

HONEYMOON BAY — Gordon Bay provincial campsite, nine miles west of Lake Cowichan village, has been filled to well over capacity since it was opened this year.

Alan Vance, garage owner at Honeymoon Bay, said that since the 16 campsites situated at Cowichan Lake have opend his business has increased at least 15 per cent.

"The new campsite has been jammed most of the summer," he said. "Every weekend there are at least three to four campers in each site. Campers even pull off in between the trees on the road towards Caycuse."

Gordon Bay campsite now consists of 16 campsites in five developed acres. Eventually the 64 acres will be developed and it will expand to 50 or 60 campsites. A boat launching ramp and washroom facilities are on the agenda next year.

Dr. Charles Ennals, 33, of Duncan, nominated candidate for the Cowichan-Malahat constituency in the next provincial election, claims he is responsible for the development of Gordon Bay.

●

He said the development of the Cowichan Lake area with a recreational point of view was one of his main ambitions when he ran for office last year.

"It is quite evident that this area has a limited future in the industrial field and that we have to move in the direction of park sites," he explained.

"The need has been demonstrated and the government has responded in making this effort."

He said if the government develops the "wildlife surroundings" in this area it could become a tourist attraction 10 months of the year.

He said the camping, skiing, swimming, fishing and hunting sports should be encouraged.

"The government should restock the lake with fish," he said. "That would also involve strong pollution control. There should be lots of game to hunt under controlled circumstances."

Ennals says that there has been more money spent in the past year in the Cowichan-Malahat constituency than in any previous year in the past 18 years.

●

"There has been over $2 million spent on the new highway, government buildings, campsite and other things," he said. "This money is excluding grants in aid of municipalities and school construction and welfare. This is all new money spent in developing the area."

Fruit Growers To Make Appeal

KELOWNA (CP)—The president of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association says a direct appeal will be made to the federal government on the current fruit industry crisis.

Allan Claridge said Sunday that executives of the association were to present the industry's case today for support of the 1969 apple crop to E. P. Grant, director of fruit and vegetable division of the department of agriculture.

Members of Parliament for the Okanagan fruit-growing region, including Bruce Howard, Liberal member for Okanagan-Boundary, members of the B.C. legislature and representatives from the B.C. agriculture department are also expected to attend the emergency meeting.

Officials of the association earlier called for an urgent meeting with Agriculture Minister H. A. (Bud) Olson to work out direct payment to growers following what has been termed "the near collapse" of the North American and world apple markets.

Last year, local apple growers received about 40 cents a box for apples or about 1¼ cents per pound for medium fancy grades.

As a result, many growers face bankruptcy unless the government comes through with a subsidy.

Chavez Ends Fast At Family Urging

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — Farm labor leader Cesar Chavez broke his six-day fast Sunday as members of his farm workers union prepared for negotiations to begin Tuesday with Salinas Valley growers.

Chavez, 17 pounds lighter than when he began taking only water last Tuesday, acceded to the demands of his physician and family at a mass outside the headquarters of his United Farm Workers Organization Committee.

His first food was the sacramental semita, known to Mexicans as "the food of the poor."

His wife and mother had moved here from Delano, where he waged his successful five-year strike-boycott against Central Valley grape growers.

His physician, Dr. Jerome Lackner, had warned that his fast could cause irreversible damage to his health.

Lackner said Chavez never fully recovered from a 25-day fast in 1968, and that he was in no shape for this one.

Chavez started his fast in protest against an agreement 30 of the growers had signed with the Teamsters Union to represent their workers, but reached an agreement with the Teamsters the next day in which field workers were left to UFWOC and all shed, packing, processing, freezing and trucking workers assigned to the Teamsters.

He then continued his fast in thanksgiving that a "costly and bitter struggle" with the Teamsters had been avoided.

MAN, 101, MARRIES 18-YEAR-OLD

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (Reuters) — Hassan Bin Josoh found an 18-year-old bride after members of his family spent years urging him to get married.

He is 101 years old.

Hassan finally took the plunge after he was shown a picture of Zubaidah, a girl from his own village, earlier this month.

He agreed she was "very sweet" and married her in front of several hundred persons, a Malay-language newspaper said today.

The newspaper said Hassan paid a dowry of 144 Malaysian dollars (about $50) to the girl's family and spent another 210 Malaysian dollars on the wedding.

KING-SIZE air cushion vehicle planned by Boeing Company would be about 100 feet by 50 feet with clear span deck capable of carrying 100 tons of cargo in the frozen wastes of Alaska and the Canadian Arctic. Similar in size to one of the British Hovercraft ferrying cars across the English Channel; the Boeing concept would cruise at about 80 miles an hour. Air cushion vehicles are suited to northern work because they can go almost anywhere without disturbing the environment, which in break-up is at a delicate balance. (AP Wirephoto)

MARKET SUMMARIES

Pre-Holiday Trade Cool

Major markets eased in generally light trading today as stock watchers predicted continuing lethargy until after Labor Day.

Western oils led the decline at Toronto, where losses outnumbered gains in all sectors.

AT NEW YORK, stock market prices slipped in slow trade.

Declines ran ahead of advances by about 5 to 4 among the issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the dullness of the market was not unanticipated and predicted that it would take some unexpected developments to stir the market before Labor Day.

AT TORONTO, prices drifted in slow mid-afternoon trading.

The market posted small gains Friday, interrupting four consecutive losing sessions.

Analysts said the large decline in western oils was caused by profit-taking. Oil stocks showed sharp gains Friday.

Weakest sectors were banks, beverages, oil refining, steel and pipelines.

Among losing stocks, Dome Pete was down 4½ to 49½, Chrysler 1 to 18⅞, Aimco Industries ½ to 10, Northern and Central Gas ½ to 12, Genstar Ltd. ½ to 8¼, Hudson Bay Mining ⅝ to 20¼ and Sherritt ¼ to 18¾.

AT MONTREAL prices slipped slightly lower in busy early afternoon trading.

All sectors recorded fractional declines.

CHICAGO (AP) — The possibility of a corn crop scarcity in the old time tradition sent five commodity futures to limit advances on the Board of Trade.

Soybean and wheat futures advanced the limit of 10 cents; corn a limit 8 cents; oats a limit 6 cents and soybean meal a limit of $5 a ton.

Trade was active at the opening with limit bids in the corn and oats pits and at this point trade stopped because there were no sellers for buyers.

The only factor in the limit moves was concern that this year's corn crop would be seriously cut by a widespread infestation of southern blight.

Israel To Free Two Algerians

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Israel has decided to release the two Algerian passengers of a British airliner who were detained here Friday, usually well-informed sources said today.

So far there was no official statements on the two Algerians —Maj. Khatib Djelloul, secretary-general of the Algerian presidency, and industrialist Ali Belaziz—who these sources said would be freed in two days.

British Ambassador John Barnes called on Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban Sunday to press for their release.

PERMAFROST BIGGEST OBSTACLE

Arctic Pipeline Being Tested

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

CALGARY (CP) — Mackenzie Valley Pipe Line Research Ltd. is pumping hot oil through a steel pipe 160 miles north of the Arctic Circle, gathering data it hopes will yield a formula for construction of northern pipelines.

"We've reached the stage of researching the research," said E. D. Wilson of Galgary, research co-ordinator for a project launched early in 1969.

The objective was to study the technological and economic feasibility of building a 48-inch-diameter pipeline from Alaska's north slope, through the Yukon and Northwest Territories, to connect 1,700 miles away with existing facilities at Edmonton.

Initial research demonstrated the feat was within the means of present-day pipeline technology. The accent now is on route selection and construction methods, with ecology and environment protection emphasized.

The obstacle is permafrost, a zone of permanently frozen soil hundreds of feet thick in some locations. It appears solid but remains so only if ground temperatures are kept below 32 degrees Fahrenheit.

In July, 1969, Canadian Bechtel Ltd. was retained to study potential routes, analyse soils, develop designs, consider materials, equipment and logistics and evaluate the effect of the proposed pipeline on the terrain and the ecological balance.

TEST THREE SYSTEMS

The soils investigation, one of the most extensive ever undertaken on permafrost, led to selection of three pipeline forms for evaluation-buried, above-ground, gravel-ledge construction and an unrestrained zigzag above-ground, pile-supported system.

A 2,000-foot experimental, closed-loop test installation of 48-inch pipe was constructed in the N.W.T., two miles north of Inuvik and 1,500 miles north of Edmonton, a site representative of the severe climatic and permafrost conditions that will be encountered by an Arctic pipeline system.

Actual testing began last February and will continue until September, 1971.

CIRCULATE HEATED OIL

In the Inuvik test facility, heated crude oil circulates through the closed loop and simulates operating characteristics of a large-diameter Arctic pipeline.

Half the loop is straight with the pipe constructed in gravel, which varies in depth from two to five feet below the pipe. Temperatures of the gravel and the soil below are recorded and effects on the permafrost noted.

The return section of the pipeline is supported above ground on 16-inch wooden piles and follows a zig-zag pattern.

This permits thermal expansion of the pipe by allowing the supports to slide horizontally, but at the same time restraining longitudinal movement of the entire pipeline.

"We've decided to maintain the test facility for at least one more year," Mr. Wilson said in an interview. "We've tested through one thawing period and would like to run it through two thawing periods."

Mr. Wilson said Mackenzie Valley, which will take over operation of the Inuvik facility from Canalian Bechtel Aug. 16, also has plans for an underground test in the Fort McPherson-Norman Wells area of the N.W.T.

The cost of the research project, $2 million for the two-year Inuvik program, will be shared by 16 firms participating in Mackenzie Valley-Atlantic Richfield Canada Ltd., BP Oil Ltd., Elf Oil Exploration and Production Canada Ltd., Gulf Oil Canada Ltd., Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas Co. Ltd., Imperial Oil Ltd., Interprovincial Pipe Line Co., Shell Canada Ltd., Standard Oil Co. of British Columbia Ltd., Texaco Exploration Co., Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line Co., Valvoline Oil Co. of Canada Ltd., Mobile Oil Co., Amoco Canada Petroleum Co. Ltd., and City Service Oil Co.

Several insulation materials and methods are being tested to slow the rate of oil cooling in case of flow interruption, and to protects the environment from the effects of hot oil passing through the pipeline.

Temperature reodings are taken 10 feet directly below the pipe and in th soil on boh sides. Strain guages are attached to the pipe at points of anticipated maximum stress, and other sensors record wind — and operation — induced vibrations on the pile-supported line.

Spacemaster Plans Work At Nitinat

Spacemaster Minerals Ltd., of Victoria and Winnipeg, plans additional surface work on its 99-claim copper prospect at Little Nitinat River in hopes of supporting a diamond drilling program.

Noting the interest of two international mining companies in similar holdings nearby, Spacemaster calls its prospect strategic, in a report by president C. H. Bethel.

Spacemaster has the second largest group of claims in the area, which is divided by the boundary separating Victoria and Alberni mining districts along waterways and Nitinat Lake.

Less than 100 miles by logging roads from Victoria, the area has been staked by Noranda Exploration Co. Ltd., (50 claims) and Amax Exploration Inc. (46 claims), both subsidiaries of international operators, the latter owned by American Metal Climax Inc., of New York.

A fourth company, Vancouver-based Quintana Minerals Corp., is the largest holder of property with about 535 claims, all within Victoria mining division, and located six miles from the west end of Cowichan Lake.

The other three holdings, in Alberni district, are harder to reach, according to information supplied from the B.C. mines department publication, Geology, Exploration and Mining in British Columbia, 1969.

All have copper mineralization, with Spacemaster also reporting values in zinc and silver. Amax claims, 40 miles from Lake Cowichan village, lists only copper, but Noranda property, 17 miles south-southeast of Port Alberni, adds molybdenum, and Quintana claims iron in addition to copper and molybdenum.

Bethel said a fifth major company, Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd., has nearby property not covered in the report.

In 1969 Spacemaster did airborne reconnaisance, magnetometer, electromagnetic and nuclear combination surveys, which helped outline anomalies, withground prospecting added this year.

Scurry-Rainbow

Scurry-Rainbow Oil Ltd. had a net income of $756,000 during the nine months ended June 30, up from $686,000 in the comparable period of 1969.

Earnings were 29 cents a share, up two cents, while gross revenue increased slightly to $5.65 million.

Production of crude oil was up 740 barrels a day to 7,425 and sales of natural gas grew to 10.75 million cubic feet a day from 10.5 million cubic feet.

British Foods

Garfield Weston's Associated British Foods reports record sales and profits for the year ended March 28.

The $385 million company had sales of $1.3 billion and profits after dividends and taxes of $10 million.

This compared with the previous year's figures of $1.2 billion and $9.5 million.

The report covers Weston operations through ABF in Britain, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. Weston's Canadian holdings do not come under ABF.

Anvil

Ore grades became normal and expansion construction was completed during the first half of 1970 to improve the outlook for Anvil Mining Corp. Ltd., reports Dynasty Explorations Ltd. president Aaro E. Aho.

The Faro, Y.T., mining operations in which the companies share 60-40 interest, produced 922,000 tons of lead-zinc ore in the period, with higher ore grades noted for the second quarter.

Mill modifications to increase capacity to 6,600 tons a day are nearly complete. Although the value of concentrates increased in June, non-recurring costs for improvements offset gains and net loss in the half was $1.17 million. Dynasty had a loss of $20,500 in the period, compared with $45,000 a year ago.

Motorcyclist Rams Gunman

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A motorcyclist who braved pistol fire to run down a gunman was credited Sunday with bringing to an end a plot in which bombs were set off in two busy department stores as diversions for robbery, police said.

Twenty persons required hospital treatment as a result of the blasts Saturday night in Whitehall, a suburb of Columbus.

An air force lieutenant at nearby Lockbourne Air Force Base, William Lewis Harris, 23, was arrested at the site of the second bombing.

Harris was charged with assault with intent to kill. Police said other charges would be filed later.

Witnesses said the cyclist, identified as Roger Penwell, 22, of Columbus, chased a man after seeing him run from a store with gun in hand after the second explosion. They said Penwell was fired at twice but only veered and kept after the gunman, running him down about 100 yards from the explosion site.

Tories 'Need Issues'

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — With the Trudeau government probably more than half way toward the next general election, opposition strategists sa ythere is still no sign of what elusive issue that would make voters forget about personalities.

"The Trudeau personality seems to be still the biggest thing we're up against," says one Conservative. "What we need are grabbing issues that will over-ride personalities."

Unless these issues do arise, say opposition sources, the next campaign could become a carbon-copy of the last, with voters appearing more interested in the styles of the leaders than in the intricacies of the issues.

Whether the results of such a campaign would be the same as last time is another question.

If an election were called now, say these sources, the battle lines would be drawn over the high unemployment rate and inflation.

GOVERNMENT PICKS DATE

But since the government can select the election date—any time between now and 1972—it is expected to pick a time when such statistics are in its favor.

There are no other major issues in sight, say the sources, that would both excite the voters and offer clear-cut alternatives.

The New Democratic Party—which is not thinking of election strategy until it selects a new leader next spring—would normally make the question of foreign economic domination one of its major issues.

But party sources say that even this is far from a clear-cut issue, with the government now considering a Commons committee recommendation that would require 51-per-cent Canadian control of all corporations.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield has been hitting hard at urban problems and pollution—both likely to be major themes of the next campaign—but the government has also been showing increasing concern with these questions.

All parties seem to agree that outside issues, such as foreign policies, are unlikely to ignite fires of excitement in voters.

The opposition sources say there is no indication of any significant dip in Mr. Trudeau's personal popularity.

Centenarian Likes Brandy, Mini-Skirts

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph Wilson, who celebrated his 100th birthday Saturday, says he likes the occasional shot of brandy and looking at young girls in mini-skirts.

"It's too bad they didn't have the mini-skirt in my younger days," he said in an interview at a senior citizens' home.

Mr. Wilson, still alert and a smart dresser, said he gave up smoking 25 years ago but still likes to drink.

"The nurses give me a shot of brandy once in a while," he said. "But I'd rather not say how much or how often 'once in a while' is."

Born in Carlisle, England, Mr. Wilson came to Canada in 1913. A widower since 1952, he spent most of Saturday with his son, Harry, 65, of Port Credit, Ont. He also has a 63-year-old daughter in Waterloo, Ont.

'Educate Adults' To Save Mankind

PUGWASH, N.S. (CP) — Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton urged today that educationists focus more attention on adults if they wish to save civilization from nuclear destruction.

In remarks prepared for the opening of the Pugwash conference on education for international understanding, he also said radio and television should become "more the tools of educationists and less the toys of shallow commercial amusement."

The 20 specialists in adult education representing 11 countries were welcomed to the "thinkers' lodge" conference with a challenge from their 86-year-old co-host to devise means to change the thinking of "stodgy senior executives of corporations, crusty old labor leaders, opinionated editors and bigoted preachers," as well as "elder statesmen" and "professional militarists."

Mr. Eaton is co-sponsor of the conference with Dr. J. R. Kidd, editor of Convergence, an international journal of adult education.

EDUCATION CHIEF HOPE

Mr. Eaton, born in Pugwash, established the "thinkers' lodge" 15 years ago as a place for experts from all countries to gather for informal discussions of their specialities and their roles in the modern world.

He told the educationists that now that science "has been diverted from its true course to create lethal weapons that can eliminate all humanity in one hour, adult education holds out one of our chief hopes."

He said several segments of the adult population call for special attention from educationists.

"High on the list are the hard-core warriors, far too numerous in the ranks of the elder statesmen, the professional militarists and the pseudosecurity spies," he said. "Stodgy senior executives of corporations, crusty old labor leaders, opinionated editors and bigoted preachers are equally in need of mental refurbishing."

Mr. Eaton said that although he still preferred the printed word "I must concede the far stronger mass influence of television and radio, which can now carry to the far corners of the globe in a matter of minutes."

"These should be more the tools of educationists and less the toys of shallow commercial amusement."

Police Court

A 57-year-old man Saturday was sentenced to two months in jail when he pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance by being drunk.

William MacBryer, no fixed address, was arrested by city police officers at 4:15 p.m. Aug. 14 in a drunken condition on Catherine Street.

Court was told MacBryer had attracted about 50 children because of his behavior.

Judge Edmond St. Jorre gave the accused the jail term, noting that he had two similar convictions within the last two weeks.

Alexander H. Hunter, 21, of Calgary, was fined $400 when he pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana.

He was found to have one half-ounce of the substance as well as several marijuana cigarettes in a leather bag around his waist when searched by investigating officers at Fort and Government Aug. 14.

★ ★ ★

Dennis J. Moore, 18, of 28 Phillipa Place, was fined $200 when he pleaded guilty to possession of hashish.

Court was told that officers found a pipe containing what the accused admitted was hashish residue in the youth's jacket when called to his home Aug. 15.

St. Jorre, in passing sentence, noted that the accused's mother notified the police and had requested charges be laid in the hopes that he could be helped by the court.

Frank Parsons, 40, of Vancouver, was fined $400 and prohibited from driving in Canada for six months when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

He had been involved in a motor vehicle accident on Admirals Road early August 15 in which his car was rolled on to its roof.

POLICE 'CAN'T DRIVE'

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Most policemen lack the driving skill required to handle high-speed auto chases, a report by the Centre for the Environment and Man Inc. says.

In a report commissioned by the United States transportation department, the Hartford research firm recommended more driver training for police officers on highway patrols and compensation for innocent victims of so-called "hot pursuits."

There are about 500,000 "hot pursuits" by police each year in the United States, the report said, and 6,000 to 8,000 of them end in smashups. However, most of the injuries and fatalities are caused by the fleeing vehicles, the report said.

Searching for a profile of the type of driver most likely to lead police on a high-speed chase, the firm came up with these characteristics: Male, under 24 years of age, with a poor driving record. There is a 50-per-cent chance that he has been drinking.

The typical chase begins when this driver commits a traffic violation spotted by a policeman. The time is probably after dark—often on a weekend.

Less than 25 per cent of patrolling policemen have the training to handle a high-speed chase with a minimum of risk, the report said.

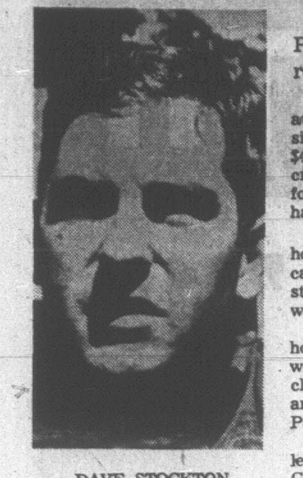
Positive Attitude Better Than Army



DAVE STOCKTON
. . . believed in dream

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Dave Stockton is the new PGA champion because he believed in a dream and refused to be shaken by Arnie's Army.

"I came here with a positive attitude," the 28-year-old professional said after collecting the $40,000 first prize Sunday and crushing Arnold Palmer's bid for the only major title he hasn't won.

"All week I thought about how I'd play the 18th hole if I came down to it with a two-stroke lead—I really felt it would happen."

Stockton came to the final hole of the 72-hole championship with a three-stroke lead and closed with a 73 for a 279 total and a two-stroke edge over Palmer and Bob Murphy.

Each of the runners-up collected $18,500. Larry Hinson and Gene Littler were next at 282, collecting $8,800.

Jack Nicklaus shot a brilliant 66 and tied Bruce Crampton at 283. Crampton shot a 67. Dick Eotz, 67, and defending champion Ray Floyd, 75, were next at 284.

Master champion Billy Casper had a 73 for 289 and Gary Player of South Africa rallied for a 70 and 286. Lee Trevino matched the course record with a 65 but was far back at 291.

George Knudson of Toronto won $400 for his 298 total. He shot a 72 Sunday.

For a while it appeared Stockton's tremendous effort might be sabotaged by Arnie's Army. Only Arnie had a chance to beat him.

DOESN'T BLAME ARNIE

"Sure I heard them out there," David said. "They only fired me up. I was that much more determined to win."

Stockton played in the final twosome with Palmer, who is often embarrassed and apologetic over the wild deportment of his followers.

"I don't blame Arnold," Dave said.

At the seventh hole, with Stockton preparing to hit a wedge from the fairway, a fan was heard to yell:

"Bury it in the sand, Davey."

Stockton sank the short pitch shot for an eagle deuce.

SHOT INTO LAKE

At the tough 13th, Stockton dumped his second into the lake and heard a spectator scream: "Yahoo! Go get him now, Arnie!"

"That really burned me up," Stockton said. "I wanted to sink my chip shot just for spite. I told myself if I did I would take the ball and cram it down that guy's throat."

Stockton almost holed out with a magnificent chip which he said saved the tournament for him. The ball stopped less than a foot from the hole.

Stockton then sank long putts on the 16th and 17th and played conservatively short on the 18th to preserve his edge.

Belgian Driver Snaps Ferrari Losing Streak

Belgian Jackie Ickx took Ferrari to its first Formula One triumph in more than two years Sunday when he won the Austrian Grand Prix at Zeltwec.

Ickx and Ferrari team-mate Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland finished first and second and gave 12-cylinder engines their long-awaited Formula One breakthrough.

Five of the first six cars to cross the finish line after 60 laps of the 3.69-mile Oesterreich track here were 12-cylinder machines.

Ickx and Regazzoni led from the start to give the Italian firm its first win since 1968 French Grand Prix in Rouen.

West German Rolf Stommelen was third in a Brabham, the only eight-cylinder motor among the first six finishers.

BEST PLACING

Stommelen, 27, clinched third place and his best placing in a Grand Prix competition when he took advantage of an enforced pit stop by Jean-Pierre Beltoise of France three laps from the finish.

Ickx and Regazzoni hurtled past the finishing line within a second of each other and both claimed the official lap record during the race.

Each achieved a best lap time of one minute 40.4 seconds at an average speed of 132.475 m.p.h.

STOCK CAR VICTORY

Cambridge Junction, Mich., Charlie Glotzbach driving a Dodge passed a spinning Cale Yarborough nine laps from the end to win the Yankee 400 stock car race Sunday at Michigan International Speedway.

It was a btilliant duel most of the way between Goltzbach and the Mercury of two-time Michigan winner Yarborough.

Yarborough was ahead entering the 189th lap when white smoke suddenly poured from his engine and he spun wildly coming out of the second turn.

Watkins Glen, N.Y., Britain's Vic Elford gave the Chaparral Chevrolet Camaro its second victory in the Trans-American road racing series Sunday at the Watkins Glen track.

Elford, a 35-year-old Grand Prix driver from Heston, Middlesex, England, took the lead in the 51st lap of the two-hour endurance test and was 9.8 seconds ahead of Javelin driver Mark Donohue.

Elford and Chaparral boss Jim Hall of Midland, Tex., credited the decision to put rain tires on all four wheels of the Camaro when a 20-minute shower began with playing the key role in the victory.

Elford, who is used to driving on rain-soaked and snow-covered courses in Europe, averaged 103.80 miles an hour, well under the Glen record.

Records Cracked In Drag Contests

Roadsters Racing Team of Victoria, entering a "C" gas dragster driven by Don Christansen, broke the Van Isle Dragways' record for that division Sunday with a top speed of 146.89 mph.

The previous record was 144.68 mph.

Victoria's team of Egland and Roberts, entering a "B" gas dragster also shattered a previous record, setting a new low elapsed time of 9.20 seconds and raised the mph record from 146 to 154.10. In their next run they again set a new mark, turning in a top speed of 154.90 mph.

Powell River's Jack Sing defeated Brian Haynes of Duncan in regular stock eliminator action, and in super-stock eliminations Dave Johnson of Courtney picked up the bracket with a time of 12.61 seconds at 110.91 mph, defeating Duncan's Terry Hogan.

The modified eliminator race was won by Jim Attebury, turning in a final time of 12.52 seconds at 112.31 mph, and defeating Victoria's Dennis Ireland in the handicap event.

Next scheduled race at Van Isle is on August 30.

GET LOST! The message from Joe Namath, left, to a photographer is clear enough as Joe's companion rolls up his sleeves. Namath, who is expected to rejoin the New York Mets of the NFL this week, was on boat dock of Fort Lauderdale Hotel. (AP Wirephoto)

Joe May Rejoin Jets This Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, controversial quarterback for the National Football League New York Jets, may rejoin the team this week in time for their exhibition game next Sunday against New York Giants.

The New York Times quotes Phil Iselin, president of the Jets, as saying: "Joe's people have indicated he'll be in camp Tuesday or Wednesday."

Namath reportedly has missed pre-season games because of "personal problems."

Meanwhile, the Jets, without Namath were an easy mark for Atlanta Falcons in a pre-season game Saturday, 33-7.

In other games Saturday Miami Dolphins defeated Cincinnati Bengals 20-10, Cleveland Browns edged San Francisco '49ers 17-10, Pittsburgh Steelers upset Minnesota Vikings, still without quarterback Joe Kapp, 20-13; Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers tied 6-6, New Orleans Saints topped Houston Oilers 19-10, Denver Broncos defeated St. Louis Cardinals 26-16, Los Angeles Rams nipped Dallas Cowboys 16-10, and San Diego Chargers edged New Yrok Giants 30-27.

In the only Sunday game, Washington Redskins whipped Boston Patriots 45-21.

The game was interrupted for about 22 minutes when a fire broke out under wooden stands. Thousands at Boston College Stadium were forced to climb fences to get to the safety of the playing field. There were no injuries.

Water Skiers Set National Records

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian water skiing made a literal leap into world contention when two national jumping records were smashed Sunday at the Canadian championships.

George Athans, 18-year-old Kelowna ace, bettered his own men's jumping record of 152 feet with a tremendous 157-foot leap, just five feet short of the world mark. Athans, capping his finest competitive season ever, won the finals in jumping, tricks and slalom for an easy over-all championship, and top berth on Canada's national team.

Pierre Plouffe of Sherbrooke, Que., was second behind Athans in all three men's events to cinch second spot on the team.

Third man selected was John Preston of Brampton, Ont., who was unable to compete because of earlier injuries.

Three women skiers made outstanding efforts to earn places on the team. Linda Bocock of St. Sauveur, Que., uncorked a 107-foot leap to set a woman's record, just three feet short of the world standard.

TIPTON ALTERNATE

Over-all women's champion, Ann Klager of Hespeler, Ont., set a Canadian mark with a trick run of 3,287 points, bettering the record of 3,006 points she set in 1969.

Newcomer to the Canadian team, Helene Gregoire, 17, of Hull, Que., swept every event and established a slalom record in the girl's division to warrant her jump to women's competition.

Alternates to the team are Rod Tipton of Lake Cowichan, B.C., and Anne Donahue of Sherbrooke, Que.

Twins End Skid, But Lead Shrinks

A's Make Race In AL West; Mets Move Up

By Associated Press

Bill Rigney breathed a sigh of relief Sunday after his powerful-hitting Minnesota Twins broke a nine-game losing streak.

"It's been terrible—really frustrating," the Twins' manager said after his array of sluggers broke loose for a 9-6 victory over Boston Red Sox.

The victory boosted Minnesota's West Division lead in the American League to 4½ games over Oakland Athletics who lost 2-1 to Baltimore Orioles.

"Well, we've managed to make a race out of the West Division," said Rigney, who had good reason to be happy.

The Twins had a 10-game lead over second-place California Angels Aug. 8, before the start of their skid. Oakland got hot and won six of eight, took over second and had cut Minnesota's bulge to 3½ games.

Milwaukee Brewers spilled Cleveland Indians 4-3; Detroit Tigers turned back California Angels 7-1; Washington Senators nipped Chicago White Sox 2-1 and New York Yankees downed Kansas City Royals 5-1 in the other AL games Sunday.

LOST TWO SATURDAY

In games Saturday, New York edged Kansas City 5-4, Baltimore downed Oakland 7-1, Washington trimmed Chicago 4-2, Detroit beat California 5-1 and Boston took a doubleheader from Minnesota 5-3 and 11-7.

Rigney, interviewed before Sunday's game, admitted the Twins had been playing raggedly.

"When you say, slump, you touch a lot of bases," said Rigney. "And we touched them all. Our play has been ragged all over."

Baltimore's Dave McNally became the majors' first 18-game winner, stopping Oakland's surge toward the top with a six-hitter. Chico Salmon's homer off the left-field screen in the fifth broke a tie and sent the Orioles to their 12th victory in the last 17 games.

Stan Bahnsen hurled a six-hitter for the Yankees' fourth straight win and their 15th in their last 21 games. It was also New York's ninth win in a row over Kansas City this season.

METS WIN

In the National League, the New York Mets edged Atlanta Braves, 2-1, to move within three games of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Cleon Jones hit his eighth home of the season for the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning.

Pirates dropped an 8-6 decision to San Diego Padres.

In other action, Cincinnati Reds defeated Philadelphia Phillies, 4-2, Chicago Cubs stayed close in the pennenat race with a 5-2 win over Los Angeles Dodgers, San Francisco Giants defeated St. Louis Cardinals, 5-2, Montreal Expos edged Houston Astros, 5-3.

Johnny Bench drove in three runs for Cincinnati, boosting his major league-leading total to 118. Victory increased the Reds' margin to 12 games over the Dodgers.

ON FIRST PRO PLAY

PATRICIA GETS ROUGH WELCOME

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Professional football's first woman player got into a game for three plays Saturday night. And on the first one, the 122-pound schoolteacher was clobbered by a 235-pound linebacker.

Patricia Palinkas, 27, was signed recently by Orlando Panthers in the Atlantic Coast League to hold for placekicker Steve Palinkas—her husband.

Orlando scored three touchdowns in defeating Bridgeport, Conn., 26-7 and each time the crowd of 12,000 cheered Patricia as she ran out to hold the snap.

After the first touchdown, with three seconds left in the first half, Patricia bobbled the snap and gave time for Bridgeport's linebacker, Wally Florence, to break through and smash her, blocking the kick. When the pileup was cleared, Patricia hopped up and ran from the field.

The other two extra-point efforts were successful and she was not hit again.

Taylor Toppled By Aussie Ace

By RON SUDLOW

TORONTO (CP) — Roger Taylor, who fashioned comebacks in the quarter and semi-finals, failed to pull off a third in a row Sunday as Rod Laver broke his serve twice in the final set to win the men's singles title at the Canadian open tennis championships 6-0, 4-6, 6-3.

It was the third time Taylor had dropped the opening set of his match. It happened Friday against Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles and Saturday against Andres Gimeno of Spain.

In all three matches, Taylor had troubles with his serve and controlling his forehand, and attributed his slow starts to "poor concentration."

"I missed a lot of easy ones, didn't I?" he said after the Australian had pocketed the winner's cheque of $3,600. Taylor earned $2,000 for making the final.

ROD LAVER

The Englishman got back in the match in the second set when he broke Laver's serve in the first and ninth games as the Australian made backhand errors when Taylor ran off four-straight points to lead 5-4. Taylor held his own serve to win the 10th game and even the match.

He also had his chance in the final set when he broke Laver's service in the third game, but the Australian strung 10-straight points together to go ahead 3-2.

Laver pounded a forehand winner on the baseline to end the match that was originally scheduled to be a best-of-five-sets affair until officials decided the composition courts made play slower.

In women's singles play, Margaret Court of Australia and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, who teamed to win the doubles championship, advanced to tonight's final which is worth $800 to the winner and $400 to the loser.

Mrs. Court, the current Wimbledon champion, blew Esme Emanuel of South Africa off the court 6-0, 6-1 as Miss Emanuel was forced into frequent errors and double-faulted twice.

Miss Casals took a set to adjust to the defensive tactics of Linda Tuero of New Orleans, La., to win 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

In the doubles, Mrs. Court and Miss Casals shared $400 as they didn't allow Helen Gourlay of Australia and Pat Walkden of South Africa a game until the 11th game of the second set as they breezed through the final 6-0, 6-1.

In men's doubles, Bill Bowrey of Australia and Marty Reissen of Evanston, Ill., upset the top-seeded pairing of Laver and Roy Emerson of Australia, 6-3, 5-7, 8-6.

They'll be joined in tonight's final, the last event of the $23,000 tourney, by Cliff Drysdale of South Africa and Fred Stolle of Australia who beat Taylor and Gimeno 9-7, 6-1.

DRYSDALE CAME CLOSE

Both Laver and Taylor had to fight their way into Sunday's final. Saturday, Drysdale had Laver at match point before the Aussie won 3-6, 12-10, 6-1, and Taylor made his comeback to beat Gimeno 1-6, 6-3, 11-9.

In doubles play Saturday, Drysdale and Stolle got to the semis by beating Bob Puddicombe of Vancouver and Bob Bedard of Lennixville, Que., 6-0, 6-3 while Bowrey and Reissen topped Torben Ulrich of Denmark and Ismail el Shafei of Egypt 6-2, 6-2.

Emerson and Laver lost the first four games but managed to recover to beat Ray Moore of South Africa and Pierre Barthes of France 9-7, 6-4.

Taylor and Gimeno got past a stubborn veteran combination of Gonzales and Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y., 12-10, 6-3.

ONE DROWNED, EMPTY BOAT FOUND WINDS HIT B.C. DERBY FLEET

Seattle Angler Collects $25,000 Prize

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert Hathaway of Seattle had to wait through the weekend as an estimated 10,000 persons plumbed almost every square-inch of nearby salmon waters before his 33-pound, one-ounce spring salmon was declared the winner of the British Columbia Salmon Derby, which ended Sunday evening.

Hathaway, who caught his fish early in the two-day derby, took the $25,000 first prize. His fish weighed one ounce more than last year's winner.

Second prize of a 17-foot cruiser valued at $7,000 went to Maurice Cooper of Vancouver, for his 31-pound, 15-ounce fish. Buck Marsters of Kimberley, won third prize of an all-terrain vehicle for a 31-pound, four-ounce salmon.

There were more than 60 prizes in the derby, third to be held. Entrants came from many sections of B.C., the western United States and as far away as Japan. Fishermen paid a $10 entrance fee.

A Seattle man, 54-year-old Roy Trout, drowned early Saturday before the derby got underway. He was rowing to shore from his boat when he got into difficulty.

On Sunday, 30-mile-an-hour winds churned up whitecaps over much of the derby area. The rescue co-ordination centre in Vancouver said it handled about 35 calls for locating or assisting participants.

Late Sunday, they reported an empty boat had been towed into a Marina. Its occupants were being sought. the North Japan Fishing Club, headed by Yukio Satomi of Kokkado Broadcast News of Japan, entered the competition after netting 10 salmon in a trial run Friday. None of the club's 12 members had fished for salmon before.

Florida Student Scorches Course For 10-Shot Win

OTTAWA (CP) — Florida's Allen Miller, scorching the 6,714-yard Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club course like a southern tornado, captured the Canadian amateur championship Saturday with a 274 total, 18 strokes under par and 10 ahead of his nearest competition.

A 22-year-old student from Pensacola headed for U.S. pro ranks, Miller said the tournament was the "best competitive round of golf I've ever played" and no opponent would challenge the statement.

"That was some golf game," said John Mahaffey, another 22-year-old from San Antonio, Tex., who was the halfway leader here but who wound up with a 285. "I don't think I've ever seen better golf."

In the opening round Wednesday in the four-day competition, Miller came in with a 66, seven under par, and the tournament lead. That was just a stroke off the course record.

REGAINED LEAD

He was even-par 73 Thursday but hammered out a 68 Friday to regain the lead, three strokes up on Bill Kratzert, an 18-year-old from Fort Wayne, Ind.

On the final day, Miller demonstrated his firm intention to grab the title, shaking down the tough par-37 front nine of the course for a 32 and shattering any hopes that somebody might catch him. He whittled another stroke off par coming home in 35 for a six-under 67.

Stu Hamilton, the 25-year-old trust company employee from Barmpton, Ont., who finished with 284, was top Canadian.

TIED FOR SECOND

Finishing with Hamilton in the tie for second at 284 were Dick Siderowf, a 33-year-old stockbroker from Easton, Conn., and a second-place finisher last year, Kratzert and Jim Simons, a youngster from Butler, Pa.

Then came Mahaffey with his 285.

At 286 were Keith Alexander, 40, of Calgary, the 1960 Amateur champion over this same course, Don Klenk, an 18-year-old from Medinah, Ill., and Howard Twitty, a 22-year-old from Phoenix, Ariz. Paul Purtzer, 21, of Phoenix was next at 188.

Wayne McDonald, the 22-year-old student from Oakville, Ont., who won the 1969 amateur, followed at 289. Doug Roxburgh, the Vancouver 18-year-old, also finished with 289.

Mainland Squads Win Novice Titles

Coquitlam and Richmond emerged with the British Columbia novice "A" and "B" lacrosse championships, respectively, Sunday at Memorial Arena.

Coquitlam swept through the round-robin "A" series in undefeated style with a final-round 7-5 victory over Victoria OK Paving on Sunday. The champions handed Esquimalt Colwood Texaco an 8-2 loss in second-round action Saturday.

Burnaby captured runner-up honors in the "A" division after recording an 8-4 win Sunday over Esquimalt for a 2-1 record in the four-team tourney.

Richmond won the single-loss elimination "B" division title with an 8-5 victory over runner-up Kitimat on Sunday.

Saanich downed Coquitlam 8-5 in the "B" consolation final.

ADVANCE TO FINAL

Richmond and Kitimat advanced to the final by ousting Coquitlam (19-12) and Saanich 8-4), respectively, in Saturday games.

Bruce Jeffries of Esquimalt was selected for goaltender on the "A" all-star team along with defenceman Paul Pynn of Victoria.

Coquitlam placed three on the all-star lineup — defenceman Alan Jones, centre Alan Manning and forward Gary Lanoue. Burnaby's forward Paul Brunoro completed the list.

TRADITIONAL RIDE IN CHAIR was part of reward for Ontario Marksman Ronald Kay Saturday after he won Governor-General's prize in annual Dominion of Canada Rifle Association shoot on ranges near Ottawa. (CP Wirephoto.)

Ontario Sniper Wins Top Prize

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP)—Ronald G. Kay of Burlington, Ont., who said he didn't shoot well in earlier matches, won the Governor-General's Prize Saturday at the conclusion of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association's eight-day meet.

Kay had been in 20th to 30th place before scoring a high 283 out of 300 possible points to win the Governor-General's match, considered by many Canada's top rifle-shooting award.

The Governor-General's match was the last in the DCRA meet at Connaught Ranges near this community a bout 10 miles west of Ottawa.

Kay, 36, an industrial engineer, shot from 900 and 1,000 yards with 15 rounds at each distance in the final match. He didn't think he could have won.

"I'd packed all my gear in my car, and I was figuring on going and getting a shower," he said in an interview after the match. "I had only four V-bulls in 14 shots."

USED TO BREAK TIES

The V-bull is a small inner bull's-eye in the standard bull's-eye, used frequently during the week to break ties. The shooter with the most V-bull hits is assured of winning if his numerical score equals or surpasses the scores of other shooters.

Warrant Officer Martin O. Ostergaard, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, Calgary, won second place in the Governor-General's match with 279 of 300 points.

Harry F. Axam of Ottawa won third place with a close 278 points.

AGGREGATE WINNER

Roy S. Pool, 47, a Reading, England, baker, won the Grand Aggregate match Friday, considered by some shooters to surpass the Governor-General's match in importance.

Grand Aggregate competition is based on total scores in seven matches, and Pool shot a 799 out of a possible 830 points to win.

His aggregate score on five of those matches, plus his score at 200 yards in the City of Ottawa match, also made him top winner in the $75 Banker's Aggregate.

B.C. SHOOTER SECOND

DCRA officials said Saturday that Bev. G. Pinney of Haney, B.C., already a winner of two matches in the week's competition, scored 794 points for second place in the Grand Aggregate.

An RCMP sergeant, Bill A. Glover of Regina, also scored a 794, but managed only 81 V-bulls against Pinney's 87 to come in third.

The outcome of the Governor-General's match determined the potential composition of next year's Canadian Bisley Team.

TEAM NAMED

The 18 shooters scoring highest aggregate scores in the Governor-General's match and the Grand Aggregate are eligible to shoot at the British Commonwealth rifle competition at Bisley, England.

The 18 include Kay, Pinney, Axam and Glover. The others are:

Gerry R. Ouellette, Windsor, Ont.; Arne Sorensen, Calgary; Daryl L. Perry, Saint John, N.B.; Alain Marion, Hull, Que.; Arnold A. Parks, Saint John; Steve Johnson, Calgary; Vic Finholm, Parksville, B.C.; Jim A. Hennok, CFB Borden, Ont.; G. Wilfred Black, Ottawa; Bert E. Besteck, Winnipeg; Derek Daines Vancouver; Bill Lightburn, Mission City, B.C.; Jack Eastman, Mansonville, Que.; and Ken Rickey, Edmonton.

Officials also announced results of Friday's and Saturday's individual and team shooting.

Pros Top Amateurs After Slow Start

Behind 1-0 going into the second period, the "professionals" caught fire and recorded a 6-1 victory over amateur rivals in the second annual pro-am exhibition hockey game Saturday night at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Milan Marcetta, playing on a line with Andy Hebenton and Bob Barlow, paced the pros with two goals and an assist before approximately 1,500 spectators.

Barlow picked up a goal and an assist while the other pro goals were scored by Bruce Carmichael, Jim Brown and Grant Erickson.

Paul Bion scored for the amateurs.

Brian O'Neill of Stockers North Americans (Vancouver Island League) started in goal for the pros but was replaced by Clay Hebenton, Andy's 16-year-old son, who blancked the amateur all-star squad the rest of the way.

Spartan Coach Admits Royals Have Proved Right to Title

By DAN STINSON

"I know many people will differ with me on this, but I really can't see the point of a playoff now. The Royals are the best soccer team in the league, and as far as I'm concerned a playoff would be a waste of time."

The man who uttered these somewhat surprising words following Saturday's soccer match between Victoria Royals and Vancouver Spartans is in no way connected with the Victoria club.

Quite the opposite.

Feeling disappointed and discouraged John Milner, playing-coach of Spartans, offered his views on post-season competition minutes after his team had taken a 4-1 beating from the Royals.

The loss eliminated Spartans from contention for first place in the Western Canada Soccer League's Coastal Division, and clinched the title for Victoria.

"I was confident before the game that we would win. But as it turned out, they took the chances and we didn't, and that was the difference," Milner added.

The largest home crowd of the season — 985 — saw Victoria take those chances at Royal Athletic Park, and witnessed an exciting contest.

As a team, Royals played incredibly well in the first half.

Jim Irvine and Brian Robinson were expert defenders as Victoria turned back some great efforts by Spartans and replied with three goals in the opening 45 minutes. Bob Bolitho scored twice, counting his seventh and eighth goals of the season, and Peter Wilson, showing the hustle of a rookie, tallied the first of his two markers.

And by the time the half had ended, both teams had displayed a brand of soccer that demonstrated why they are rated the best in the WCSL.

PETER WILSON
. . . hustles for two

Intercepted Pass for Opening Goal

It took nine minutes for the first goal as alert play by Royals' Ash Valdal resulted in Wilson's first tally.

Valdal expertly read Dino Magsignani's intention to back pass to Spartan goalkeeper Peter Greco, intercepted the ball and fed a goal-mouth pass to Wilson, who was five yards out when he scored.

After making some of his many spectacular saves in the game, Greco was beaten again at the 16-minute mark when Bolitho took a fine clearing pass from Wilson and dribbled a shot to the right corner to put Royals ahead, 2-0.

Spartans replied one minute later when Irvine accidentally handled a drive by John Connery. Milner scored on the penalty shot, beating Royal netminder Barry Sadler.

SECOND TALLY

At 29 minutes Bolitho counted his second goal, taking another clearing pass, this time from Jim Menzies, split the Spartan defense and showed no mercy against the helpless visiting goalie.

Both teams had several excellent scoring opportunities in the remaining minutes, but continued sharp defences play by Royals, and brilliant goalkeeping by Greco kept the score at 3-1 at the intermission.

Enthused by the performance of both clubs in the first half, fans anxiously awaited the second, but cautious play by Royals and a lack of finish by Spartans slowed the pace considerably.

SPARTANS THREATEN

Spartans dominated for the first 15 minutes as Bruce Wilson, Harold Hansen and Milner combined to threaten.

At 29 minutes Wilson scored his second goal of the game and ninth of the season, a marker which tied Spartans' Peter Simpson for fourth place in the Coastal Division scoring race.

Valdal took a pass from Brian Hughes just over mid-field, and crossed to Menzies who quickly eluded a defender and passed to Wilson. Showing some great footwork and ball control, Wilson came right in on Greco, faked a shot and sent a booming drive to the upper right corner from a narrow angle, three yards from the left post.

EDMONTON OUSTED

In the Prairie Division Sunday, Edmonton City was eliminated from the playoffs after a 1-1 tie with Concordia in Regina. The Alberta team defeated Winnipeg Blues, 4-3, Saturday.

Blues and Concordia each have 12 points, and Edmonton has five.

Vancouver Cougars blanked Seattle Sea-Tacs, 1-0, in the Mainland city Sunday, but the result had no effect on standings in the Coastal Division.

Victoria's season record stands at 15 wins, one loss and one draw in 17 games, while Spartans have 13 wins, three losses and one draw. Both teams have one game remaining, meeting each other in Vancouver August 23.

Spartans will play third-place Cougars in a sudden-death semi-final August 30, with the winner advancing to a two-game, total-goal final with Victoria on September 5 and 7 for the right to represent the Coastal Division in the WCSL championship.

Default Victory Boosts Bates Lead

Bate Construction took a 2-0 lead in the Victoria Major Men's Softball League best-of-five semi-final with a win by default over Lake Cowichan Lakers at Central Park.

Forced to default the contest after showing up with only eight players, the Lakers added a junior and took a 3-2 decision from Bates in an exhibition game.

Rookie Pro Wins World Cycle Crown

LEICESTER, England (Reuters) — Jean-Pierre Monsere, 21-year-old Belgian first-year professional from Roeselare, stole the limelight from his compatriot Eddy Merckx with an upset victory Sunday in the professional road race on the final day of the world cycling championships.

The gruelling race was a triumph for the younger professionals. Leif Mortensen of Denmark, winner of the amateur title last year, was second. Felice Gimondi of Italy was third.

Les West of Britian finished fourth, Charges Rouxel of France fifth and another Frenchman, Alain Vasseur, sixth.

Merckx, winner of the tours of France and Italy this year, finished half a minute behind the winner.

Monsere's time for the 175 miles was six hours 33 minutes 58.5 seconds, an average of 25.98 m.p.h.

Colwood Pair Wins Lefty-Righty Title

Finishing with a 54-hole score of 215 on their home course after shooting a final-round 73m, Ron Howard, Sr. and Gordon Millin captured the third annual lefty-righty golf tournament Saturday at Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club.

Runner-up honors were taken by Don Ross and Jack Keller, also of the host club, as they won an extra-hole, sudden-death competition from Gordon Wilkes and Tom James of San Francisco. Both pairs finished the three-day, best-ball event with 217 scores.

Wilf Kirzinger and Blair Wilson added to the list of Colwood winners by taking the first flight championship, combining for a 229 total, one stroke better than Harold Kerr and Lloyd Gilmore of Vancouver's Marine Drive course.

Second-flight winners were peter Trent and Suds Summerell of Calgary with 231, one stroke ahead of Bob Peters of Colwood and pat Murphy of Seattle.

Albert Beardshaw and Bert Buller of Colwood finished with a total of 244 to take the third-flight title. Four strokes behind were James Larson of Pamona, Calif., and Colwood's Gordon Munch.

SOCCER LOOP CONSIDERING NEW DIVISION

Victoria and District Soccer League officials may soon be wrestling with a new problem — expansion.

Needing only two new clubs to boost to eight the number of teams in Division III, the VDSL has received nine applications.

The possibility of forming a Division IV will be discussed Monday night at 8 in the Ingraham Hotel during meeting between managers of last season's Division III squads and the new applicants.

Rookie Driver Waits, Wins

Joe Macmurchie played a cool, waiting game Saturday and collected his first main-event victory of the season in the open "super-stock" car-racing competition at Western Speedway.

Rookie-driver Macmurchie, at the wheel of a 283 cubic-inch powered '57 Chevy, grabbed the lead in the 60-lap main after some of the more experienced drivers ran into difficulties.

The 26-year-old mechanic waited until Dave Cooper, winner of the "A" trophy dash and fast heat, Gary Kershaw and Ross Surgenor, the late-model stock points leader, eliminated themselves from contention before taking the front-running position.

Cooper and Kershaw, the only super-stock drivers in the open competition, battled for the lead at the start of the race. Cooper spun out early leaving the lead in Kershaw's hands.

RADIATOR BLOWS

Kershaw blew a tire on the fifth lap and Surgenor took over — until he blew a radiator on the 21st curcuit.

Cooper returned to contention and was challenging Macmurchie when he spun out for a second time and was piled into from behind, putting him out for the next five laps.

Kershaw, after turning in fast time of 17.98 seconds during time trials, ran into a spell of bad luck which started in the "A" dash.

He spun out in the dash and had to settle for fourth place before encountering mechanical problems in the first lap of the fast heat and retiring to the pits.

CHALLENCE WINNER

Meanwhile, at Evergreen [illegible] in Monroe, Wash., Gary Ponzini of Oregon Hills, Calif., was declared the over-all points winner of the $16,000 International Driver's Challenge.

Victoria's Roy Smith was second over-all and Ken Hamilton of Seattle was third.

Vern Church of Seattle won the final main event Sunday of the five-race series which started at Western Speedway on Wednesday.

Smith, who was leading in points going into Sunday's competition, blew his engine in the 32nd lap of the 100-lap main and sparked a seven-car pileup in which Ray Pottinger of Nanaimo sustained minor knee injuries.

Ponzini won the Saturday race at Sky Valley Speedway near Monroe while Church came first in the Friday feature at Bellingham's Skagit Speedway.

Saturday's Western Speedway results:

B trophy dash — 1. Larry Pollard; 2. Harvey St. Hilaire; 3. Earl Pollard; 4. Tony Johnson.

A trophy dash — 1. Dave Cooper; 2. Neil Montgomery; 3. Joe Macmurchie; 4. Gary Kershaw.

WORLD RECORD AT LONGACRES

RENTON, Wash. (AP) — The world record for 6½ furlongs was broken in Sunday's Governor's Handicap at Longacres Race Track when Turbulator, a five-year-old bay gelding, ran the distance in 1:14.

The record is two-fifths of a second faster than the old mark, set in 1966 on the same track by Sandy Fleet.

Turbulator was next to last going down the back stretch, but went wide on the final turn and won going away.

Kid Cabbin was second and Ruler's Whirl was third.

Burnaby Club Tops Tourney

South Burnaby captured the provincial pee wee "A" lacrosse championship in Vancouver Sunday, remaining undefeated in three games. The winners defeated Saanich, 13.6, Hastings, 10-6, and North Burnaby, 7-5, for the title.

Wayne Larson of Saanich was named to the all star team.

Bob Cox Nips Trapp In Playoff Struggle

PRINCE GEORGE — Bob Cox of Richmond went one over par on the first hole of a three-hole playoff here Sunday but followed up with two birdies to edge Vaughan Trapp of Victoria for first place in the $5,000 Simon Fraser Open golf tournament.

It was the first tournament victory of the year for Cox, the 1969 Canadian Professional Golfers' Association champion, who held a one-stroke lead Saturday after a pair of five-under-par 67s and fired a 73 Sunday to finish in a tie with Trapp with a nine-under total of 207 for the regulation 54 holes.

In the playoff, a three-hole stroke affair, Cox took a bogie five on the par-four first hole, but Trapp ran into trouble and fell behind as he took a two-over six.

Both birdied the second playoff hole and Trapp made a great effort to prolong the playoff on the third green after Cox had clipped the hole with a 30-foot putt for an eagle and rolled in a three-foot return putt for a birdie.

Trapp then missed by two inches on his putt for an eagle and was forced to settle for second place and $750 while Cox collected the top award of $1,000.

Trapp had ripped the 6,500-yard Prince Geprge Golf Club course for a course-record 63 Friday and followed with a 72 Saturday.

Two other Victoria professionals finished third and fourth after firing 74s in the final round. Two-time winner Bill Wakeham earned $640 for his 210 total and John Morgan collected $530 for his tally of 213.

Toronto pro Gary Pitchford was next in line at 214.

Low amateur was Jack MacDonald of Prince George at 221.

DOG SELECTS GOLF TARGETS

GILLINGHAM, England (UPI) — Police are looking into golfers' complaints that a brown mongrel dog harasses them on the 13th green of the Gillingham Golf Club.

A club spokesman said the dog runs out of bushes, bites players on the seat of their pants and disappears. He said eight players, including two women, have been bitten in the past 10 days and required shots.

"The dog seems to select his target very carefully," he said.

Rocks to Finish Against Burrards

Victoria Shamrocks will be striving to finish their Western Lacrosse Association season on a winning note this week after absorbing a 19-12 thumping from the third-place Adanacs Saturday at Coquitlam.

Both Vancouver Burrards and the Irish close out their regular season this week with clashes at Vancouver on Tuesday and Victoria's Memorial Arena on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

John Allen pumped in three goals and added four assists to pace Adanacs to victory before 750 Coquitlam fans.

Only some outstanding goaltending by George Grover kept Irish in the game as Adanacs threaded through a faulty Victoria defence for 71 shots. Grover turned aside 52 shots, twice the number parried by Merv Schweitzer and Terry Garrett of the Adanacs.

NIRMAL PACES ROCKS

Bill Robinson and Mike Gates each added three goals to the Adanac total while Vern Coulter, Kevin Parsons and Paul Scriever each scored twice.

Coquitlam's R A P Line of Robinson, Allen and Parsons garnered a total of 18 points during the action.

Nirmal Dillon set the scoring pace for Victoria with three goals and three assists while Tom Somner produced another three goals.

Dick Crompton went after Ken Alexander of Shamrocks after a Coquitlam player was boarded in the first period but Crompton was the only one to pick up a major penalty.

Players from both benches charged onto the floor after the referee's decision, but tempers cooled quickly and the fuss that appeared likely to develop into a major battle quickly fizzled.

Victoria Team Takes Two Softball Crowns

Victoria's Bomarc Fuel romped through the double-loss-elimination tournament in undefeated fashion to capture both the Vancouver Island and B.C. junior men's softball championships Sunday at Central Park.

Bomarc captured the double championship with a 10-4 victory over Esquimalt in the final game.

The championships were combined this year when not even a single team was registered on the mainland.

In opening games Saturday, Bomarc downed St. Anthony's of Port Alberni 11-2 and Esquimalt blanked Beaver Creek of Port Alberni, 10-0.

Bomarc dropped Esquimalt into the losers' bracket 8-1 and St. Anthony's eliminated Beaver Creek 7-6 in other Saturday encounters.

Esquimalt bounced back out of the losers' bracket for a second chance at the title by ousting St. Anthony's 7-6 on Sunday.

Ken Grexton paced Bomarc's final victory with three hits in four trips to the plate.

Brian Vanderkartch recorded the victory on the pitcher's mound.

U.S. Open Tennis Joins Grand Prix

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Open tennis championship tournament has joined the Grand Prix of Tennis.

The move means professional tennis players entered in the Sept. 2-13 event at Forest Hills, N.Y., will be competing not only for a share of the record $160,000 Open purse but for Grand Prix points that will determine distribution of $150,000 at the end of the 20-tourney circuit.

Cliff Richey currently leads in the standings with 32 points.

A U.S. Open victory is worth 15 points.

Pollock Nips Rob Ferguson By One Shot

CHEMAINUS — Gerry Pollock finished the 27-hole event with 108 to edge Victoria junior champion Rob Ferguson of Gorge Vale by one stroke Saturday and win the annual Mount Brenton invitational junior golf tournament.

Larry Ware of Uplads of Victoria was the handicap winner over 18 holes with a net 65. Other winners were: Gerry Ferguson of Gorge Vale, Kevin Aspey and Jim Cleough of Mount Brenton, Jill Smith of Uplands and Jo-Ann Criddle of Glen Meadows near Sidney.

Rob and Gerry Ferguson as well as Ray Seymour of Gorge Vale captured the boys' team award with 228 over 18 holes.

Victoria Girls Share Top Spot

Jill Smith of Uplands Golf Club and Royal Colwood's Susan Thomson tied for low gross honors in a junior women's "field day" at Salt Spring Island Golf and Country Club.

Uplands' Mary McKinnon won the "B" division low gross, and in team competition, Elizabeth Hess of Cedar Hill, Miss Thomson and Karen Waterfield of Gorge Vale were the gross winners.

Net winners were Jo Ann Hartwig of Salt Spring, Cris Little of Gorge Vale and Miss Smith.

WASHINGTON CREW WINS

SEATTLE (AP) — University of Washington's varsity crew defeated the University of B.C. eight by two lengths Saturday in an exhibition race over 2,000 metres.

MacDonald's Leading In Provincial Playoff

Victoria McDonald's Bread won the opening game of the best-of-three B.C. junior "B" lacrosse championship series by nipping South Vancouver Legion 7-6 Sunday at Pearkes Arena.

Jim Lynch sparked Victoria with four goals and two assists while Mike Walsh (2) and Brian Gibson completed scoring for the Bakers.

Vancouver received three goals from Jerry Pinder and singles from Harvey Olsen, Brian Tasker and Ron Pinder.

Victoria netminder Johnny Hamilton made 32 stops.

Second game of the series is slated for 7 p.m. Saturday in Vancouver's Killarney Arena, with a third game (if required) back at Pearkes Arena at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Winner of the series advances to the six-team, round-robin Canadian championship, starting Aug. 28 in Halifax.

Shaky Davis Wins By One

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stocky Mike Davis of Portland ended his amateur golf career Saturday with a shaky one — stroke victory in the Pacific Coast Amateur championships at Marine Drive Golf Club.

Davis, who had a four-stroke lead going into the final round of the 72-hole medal tournament, shot a four-over-par 74 for a total of 282, two over par, and a single-shot victory over Bill Feil of Los Angeles and Rick Weihe of Bellingham.

Weihe, who started the final round six shots off the pace, took the lead from Davis at the 15th hole when he dropped a 20-foot birdie putt. But he fell back with bogeys at the 16th and 17th holes as Davis got his game under control, and parred the final three holes.

Davis, a 23-year-old Oregon amateur who has won practically every tournament in the Pacific Northwest over the last couple of years, plans to enter the Professional Golfers Association school at Tucson, Ariz. in the fall to gain a pro tour players' card.

Imperial announces Canada's first low-lead gasoline.

A significant step in tackling car emissions.

In the Fall there'll be a third member of the Esso family of performance gasolines. Esso low-lead gasoline. The gasoline for most 1971 cars, and many cars on the road right now.

Reducing lead in gasoline will only result in a modest reduction in car emissions now. However, this gasoline is the first step towards lead-free gasolines. Gasolines without lead may be required to enable the effective operation of catalytic reactors and other devices, currently being developed to all but eliminate pollutants from future automobile exhausts.

When car manufacturers are ready with these new pollution control devices a few years from now, we will be ready with the right Esso gasoline.

But why Esso low-lead gasoline now?

Car manufacturers will be turning out 1971 models to operate on 91-92 octane gasoline, an octane level that permits the reduction of lead content. This will enable us to remove 80% of the lead from our new gasoline. A small amount of lead is being retained as engine testing shows some lead is needed to prevent possible valve damage.

Esso low-lead gasoline will provide top performance for the new 1971 models. About one in five cars now on the road will also perform well on the new fuel.

In addition to the fast starts, smoother running engines and good mileage that result from the use of all Esso performance gasolines, new Esso low-lead gasoline will extend motor oil and muffler life and reduce sparkplug fouling.

It will also contain the Esso detergent/dispersant additive "The Engine Cleaner" to help maintain the clean functioning of your car's emission control system.

The new Esso low-lead gasoline won't be available immediately in all communities as it will take time to complete extensive service station and refinery modifications.

But this new 91-92 octane member of the Esso family of performance gasolines will be available in your area as soon as possible.

SILVER DOUBLE SETS TRACK MARK

VANCOUVER — Silver Double, who ended a streak of 11 straight races without a victory by winning the Vancouver Handicap on Aug. 8, cracked an Exhibition Park record Saturday as he captured the $7,000-added Sun Stakes.

Silver Double, a four-year-old, California-bred gelding, covered the mile and one-eighth in 1:49 3-5 to clip three-fifths of a second off the track record set by Costa Rica in 1965 as he beat King Import by three lengths.

Love Your Host was third with Regal Jingle fourth and Charlie Cheri last. With only five horses starting, betting was restricted to win and place. Silver Double, under Jim Broomfield, paid $6.10 and $3.60.

Centralia Nips Nanaimo In 11 Innings

CENTRALIA, Wash. — After forcing the game into extra-innings, Centralia defeated Nanaimo, 10-9, Saturday to capture the Pacific Northwest Babe Ruth baseball championship and advance to the World Series to be played at Brawley, Calif., starting Friday.

Centralia needed only one win against the Canadians to capture the double-loss-elimination tournament and remained undefeated in four straight games. Nanaimo had previously lost one game.

The B.C. representatives took a 5-1 lead with a five-run second-inning surge and moved back in front, 9-5, with four runs in the sixth frame after Centralia had tied the score in the fifth.

SCORES ON SACRIFICE

Three runs in the bottom half of the sixth and another in the seventh earned a tie for Centralia at the end of the regulation seven innings.

A sacrifice bunt by Terry Stamper with the bases loaded in the 11th enabled winning-pitcher Nelson to score the winning run.

Plagued by control trouble throughout the game, Nanaimo's Brad Richardson struck out eight Centralia batters.

NAILS ARE GOOD

Take a Hammer And Hit Smartly

By Jack Scott

We've had this weekend of furious building, adding a room to the Salt Spring cottage known as "Offhand Manor", which is no more precious than any other cottage name along our shore, and this accounts for the fact that I would like to say a few words today about nails.

We take nails so much for granted, don't we? We take string for granted, too, and that's a pity though I'm not a fanatic about it since we're not using much string in building the new room.

Scott

But supposing the nail had just been invented, let's say by some mad, eccentric inventor we can think of as Thomas Alva Nail. Supposing, again, that we had always stuck things together with glue so that almost everything was wobbly and coming apart and you had to stick wadded paper under the legs and it was all driving people out of their minds. So: Along came The Nail, Pat. Pending. Why, it would be acclaimed as the greatest thing since Fire or The Wheel and, heaven only knows, we take them for granted, too.

"Have you tried The Nail?" men would ask other men. "It's got glue licked a mile and you don't get it all over your hands." Pretty soon everybody would be using them.

It isn't just the nail is so good at holding things together and so simple to apply — just strike smartly on the head — but that it is so incredibly versatile. Well, string is, too, as you say, but let's not keep on about string or we'll never get out to play.

There are tiny little nails used by grizzled craftsmen, wearing rimless glasses, holding a supply in their mouths and hardly ever swallowing any, to fasten together exquisite, dainty things.

There are great big spikes, long as your arm, some of them, sledge-hammered into massive timbers by huge, hairy, grunting men who chew Copenhagen and speak only when spoken to.

★ ★ ★

Yet they are all, basically, The Nail and there's no getting away from it.

Nails seldom vary in shape — come to think of it, they never vary in shape — but there are so many sizes that, more often than not, when you are putting a room on a cottage, you find yourself with every size but the right one and have to go down to the hardware store and somebody invites you out fishing and your wife stops speaking to you, all for want of a nail.

Whatever their size, all nails are satisfying to use. Unlike glue or, for that matter, string, nails make a splendid, even a thrilling sound when they are applied as directed. This sound never loses its appeal to man from the age when he first picks up daddy's hammer and hits his little brother.

I can remember the experience on the last day of the Israel-Arab six-day in the Jordan Valley. The sound of hammering echoed against the dust-green hills as the people in the Kibbutzim began rebuilding. I'll never forget it. As an audible symbol of peace — though a sadly temporary peace, as it turned out — it beat marching bands all hollow.

Even along our own stretch of tidewater, so noisy these days with outboard motors and gas saws and other destroyers of tranquility, the hard, flat crack of hammer on nail makes a kind of music as natural to the setting as the pneumatic drill of the red-headed woodpecker.

I know that when I hammer there are six neighbors, at least, within a two-mile radius — people who freely venture the opinion that I'm kin to the three-toed sloth — who must pause for reassessment.

★ ★ ★

A man with a hammer, using it to build shelter for his loved ones, can claim a certain nobility. If I were using glue or string they would never know how truly fine I am.

The nail, moreover, is adaptable to any mood of man.

A man at peace with his world, for example, can whack away at nails, whistling or singing "The Darktown Strutters' Ball" or any other good nail-hammering tune and expand his sense of well-being.

On the other hand, a man with worries and frustrations can take them out on nails, viciously driving them home until, like magic, he has pounded his way to sanity and serenity. Don't beat your wife or your little brother, I always say. Beat a nail.

None of this can qualify, of course, as an original discovery. "Hitting the nail on the head" has been a description of exactitude and perfection clear back to the Bible. Shakespeare, Rabelais and Cervantes all used it for want of a better cliche.

Not one of them, so far as I can recall, ever mentioned string or glue and that is the thought I'd like to leave with you.

NO ARBUTUS FOR ARBUTUS

New School 'Blocked Off' for Efficiency

The two inner courtyards have garry oaks, not arbutus trees, growing in them but this is probably the only oversight at the new Arbutus junior secondary school at 2306 Edgelow.

And principal Donald Smith explained that it may not have been an oversight as the arbutus is difficult to transplant.

Smith will head a staff of 27 when the $1,500,000 school opens to an expected 600 students Sept. 8.

The former Esquimalt junior secondary school principal showed newsmen some new features that sets the school apart from most.

It is designed in two blocks joined by a covered breezeway, one block containing administrative offices, classrooms, science and industrial laboratories and the other housing the gymnasium-auditorium, lunchroom, and music and art rooms.

The advantage, Smith explained, is that the gym complex can be used as a community centre in the evening without disrupting classroom use.

"It can be opened without the rest of the school being opened," he said.

The classrooms are built square rather than in the conventional oblong shape giving pupils at the back of the room a greater sense of belonging.

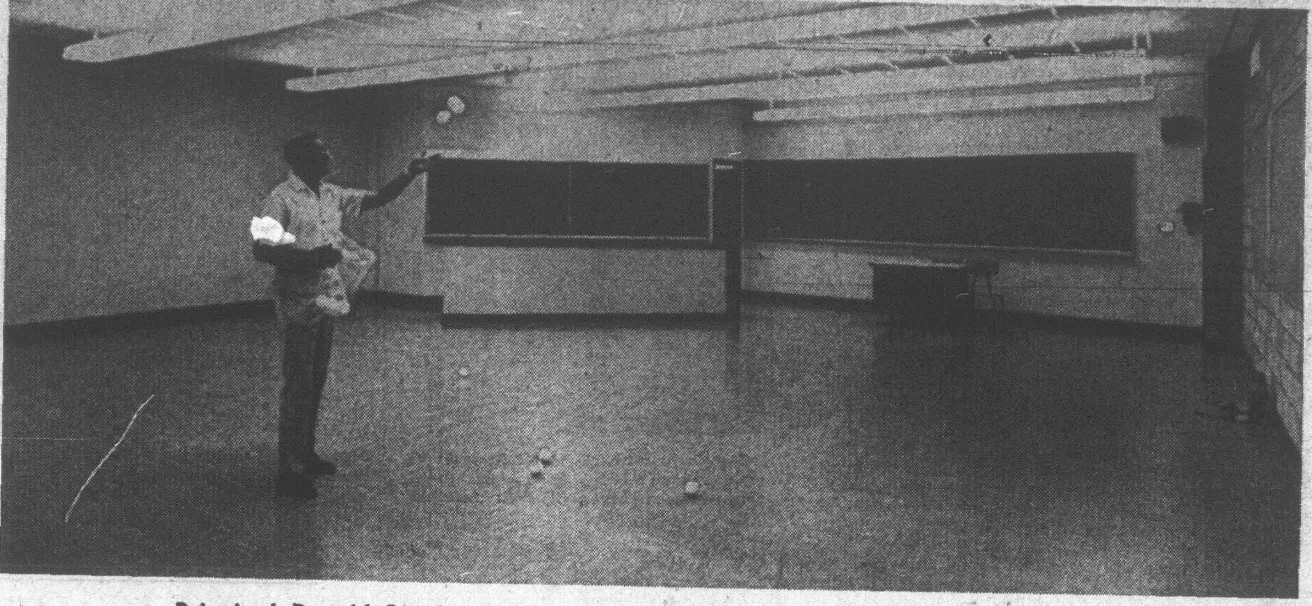
Smith pointed out the lack of windows in the classrooms. There is only one set instead of the usual string across the outside wall.

A movable notice board can be slid across the window effectively blacking out the classroom for film use.

The four science labs are built surrounding a preparation room where teachers can set up experiments or demonstrations and move them to any one of the labs.

The library fronts on one of the inner courtyards and Smith expects students to wander into the open-air enclosures to read during good weather.

Students may venture into the courtyards trying to guess why oak trees are planted there.



Principal Donald Smith in the science lab shows what goes up must come down

Fluoride Test Plan Before Board

The Greater Victoria school board will be asked tonight for approval of a two-year fluoride-testing program involving about 1,000 Grade 5 students.

The program, to begin this fall, would be a three-way study by the school board dental department, the provincial department of health, and the Warner-Lambert Research Institute.

Warner-Lambert would supply the mouthwash preparations, toothpaste and toothbrushes to the participants and the health department would have people available to operate x-rays as well as keep classrooms supplied with the necessary materials.

Each participating student would rinse his mouth once a day with the fluoride preparation that is being tested for its decay-preventing potential.

Dental examinations of each student would be conducted before and after the study and the results would be corelated with the type of mouthwash used.

MAN, 32, DIES IN BIKE MISHAP

Funeral services will be held Wednesday, for Frank Alfred Veness, 32, of 3060 Albina who died Saturday following a motorcycle accident on Long Beach early Saturday morning.

The funeral will take place at 1:15 p.m. at McCall's Funeral Chapel.

Ucluelet RCMP say the accident occurred about 3 a.m. when the motorcycle Veness was driving struck a log on the beach. Veness was thrown to the ground and suffered severe head injuries.

He was taken to Tofino Hospital where he died at 2:45 p.m.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Veness of 3060 Albina, and two sisters, Mrs. Jean Smith of Victoria and Mrs. Mavis Leet of Thunder Bay.

An inquiry will be conducted by Ucluelet coroner M. K. Saxton.

200 Protests Over Bus Cut

More than 200 protests have been filed with the motor carrier branch of the Public Utilities Commission over the planned termination of bus service to the Saanich Peninsula, a branch spokesman said today.

Today was the deadline for making the protests. Vancouver Island Coach Lines has applied to end its service to Cordova Bay, West Saanich and Sidney-Deep Cove Sept. 15 claiming losses of more than $100,000 a year.

However, the public Utilities Commission can postpone the deadline if it feels it needs more time to make a decision.

The commission can call a public heading, although it is not required to and generally doesn't.

In the meantime, Saanich council is to consider a report at its meeting tonight regarding a franchise between VICL and the municipality.

A municipal spokesman said a 20-year franchise was signed in 1947 and renewed for five years ending in 1972. Under the terms of the franchise, none of the bus routes could be reduced or abandoned without VICL seeking agreement with council.

Strike Rejected In Sawmill Vote

Negotiations between the Victoria local of the International Woodworkers of America and B.C. Forest Products will resume this week as a result of a membership vote Sunday against strike action.

A vote in favor of strike action would have shut down the company's Point Ellice sawmill, Victoria sawmill and Victoria plywood division. About 1,000 employees are involved.

However, the union executive at a special meeting Saturday recommended there be no strike at this time.

★

Negotiations between the local union and BCFP are held separately from coast master-agreement talks, and concern matters not included in the master agreements.

Out of a total of 24 items originally under discussion there were apparently only two — both related to Victoria sawmill — on which the two sides failed to agree at their last meeting Thursday.

The union is asking that the barker operator at the sawmill get $3.86 an hour, while the company wants to hold the wage at $3.57. The union claims the barker operator at another BCFP operation is already receiving $3.86.

★

The union is also asking that workers loading barges get longshoreman rates, and has argued that IWA members at Tahsis get longshoreman rates when loading deep-sea vessels.

The point is that longshoremen — who unload the barges, which is considered easier work — get $1 an hour more than IWA workers.

IWA president Murrary Drew commented:

"We're not asking this company to set any pattern — all we're asking is that they pay us what they're already paying elsewhere."

'Public Should Speak' On Wharf Proposal

The city has been urged to give Victoria citizens an opportunity to say what they think about the proposed $25 million urban renewal project on Wharf Street.

Ald. Peter Pollen said at the weekend it was essential Victorians be given an opportunity to express their views on such, whether they be arterial roads or inner harbor developments.

He was disturbed that the city is seeking financial support from federal and provincial governments for the large Wharf Street hotel development without first consulting the people.

The project is proposed by Reid Properties Ltd. of Vancouver.

PERFECT EXAMPLE

"This is a perfect example of an urban renewal concept being discussed by all level of governments without formally presenting it to the public," he said. "It is essential for citizens to speak on such matters if they are not going to be alienated from traditional government processes."

Pollen said there were two philosophies for the development of the Inner-Harbor.

One advocated covering the foreshore with commercial development, interspersed with access to the water.

The other took in consideration what would be required for a high density population in downtown Victoria in 20 years.

It advocated that the Inner Harbor be primarily recreational, backed by sophisticated commercial development overlooking a walkway and the water.

'DEHUMANIZING'

Pollen is in favor of the latter.

"We can go the San Francisco or European way," he said. "We are building dehumanizing environments which North America is now infamous for."

He said the city had not yet planned anything for the James Bay area which would have a population ranging between 15,000 and 20,000 in 20 years.

"What we need around our waterfront is space for recreation and mental relaxation," he said.

People should be consulted about these two philosophies," he added. "If they want to build, build and build ..., that's their affair. I think it is wrong, but at least they would have been given a choice.

Legal, Medical Advice Is Free

Victoria's first free legal and medical clinic will open Tuesday at 8 p.m. in First United Church Hall, near Quadra and Balmoral.

A doctor and laywer will be on hand to dispense help to anyone who needs it, old or young, poor, or just afraid of established services in Victoria.

The clinic was set up by Greg Welsh of the YM-YWCA, with a $2,000 grant from the federal department of health and welfare, Victoria's share of a $200,000 grant to the national YMCA. The money is to be used for "backup services."

EMERGENCIES

Most of the money is in a contingency fund, to be used for filling prescriptions for those who can't pay, and other emergencies that crop up.

The clinic will help persons who have troubles with landlords, vagrancy laws, venereal disease, birth control, bad dope, bad diet, chronic ailments and any other legal or medical problem.

"And at least one psychiatrist is really interested in the clinic," said Welsh.

CHRONIC AILMENTS

He expects the clinic will be used mainly by persons with chronic ailments, young people seeking treatment for venereal disease, transients in need of help and persons "just out of touch with how to get help."

"A lot of people are afraid of established agencies, such as the venereal disease service, whether they should be or not, and with this clinic they should know there's nothing to be afraid of," said Welsh.

Welsh said the federal money was granted for the summer months, ending in September. Victoria YMCA didn't receive the money until mid-July.

"However, we want to keep it running. We're looking for ways to keep it going after the federal money runs out," said Welsh.

School Freeze 'Disappointing'

Greater Victoria school board chairman, Carron Jameson, expressed disappointment at the provincial government's decision to restrict school construction for another year.

He was referring to statements of Education Minister Donald Brothers last week while on tour with the provincial cabinet in the Interior.

MARKETS TIGHT

Brothers was quoted as saying that money markets are still as tight as ever and interest rates have not come down. School construction restrictions would, therefore, remain in effect for another year.

Jameson said he was "very disappointed" as the board had intended to go ahead with projects already stopped by the freeze.

He said the board has executed about 60 to 65 per cent of the three-year school referendum adopted by ratepayers in 1967.

Man Fined For Taking To Pistol

A man who obtained a loaded Browning automatic pistol following a family spat with his mother-in-law was fined a total of $200 in provincial court this morning.

Everett Bell, 27, of 960 Snowdrop, pleaded guilty to charges of possession of a restricted weapon and possession of a firearm without valid registration.

Court was told he obtained the weapon from a friend after dropping his mother-in-law and wife on a shopping trip. He loaded it with a clip and 11 rounds of ammunition.

Following an encounter with his father-in-law, Bell took the pistol and hid it in Goldstream Park.

Defence counsel George Jones told Judge William Ostler that Bell realized the gravity of "a stupid and foolish action."

RCMP PRESS BODY SEARCH

Police are continuing the search for a passenger reported overboard from B.C. ferry, Queen of Saanich, Saturday night.

Ganges RCMP said today three police boats are patrolling the area where the unidentified man was reported missing about 9:45 p.m. Saturday in Active Pass.

Beer Cans Now Returnable But Early Business Slack

Returnable beer cans are expected to flow into bottle exchange and brewer's warehouses later this week, officials said today.

This morning, Victoria Bottle Exchange had received only two dozen cans while Pacific Brewers' Warehousing hadn't got any.

Government liquor stores started to charge 25 cents deposit Saturday on 12-pack cases of beer in cans and 12 cents on six packs. The deposit is refundable when cans are returned to bottle exchanges or brewer's warehouses. The returned cans will be destroyed.

Under new anti-litter legislation, empty cans are worth the same refund as returned beer bottles. Limit is 18 cans from one person per day.

SPECIALLY MARKED

Cans now being sold are specially marked with the letters BCO.

Imported beer sold in non-returnable bottles now are subject to the deposit which will be refunded when the bottles are returned. Domestic beer is bottled in returnable bottles.

Two junk dealers on the mainland weren't enthusiastic about paying a refund for cans as well as bottles.

Officials of Empire Junk Company said packing beer bottles is a lot of trouble and imagined beer cans would be the same while Atlantic Metal Company said they "certainly won't be looking for beer cans but if they come in, then I guess we'll have to accept them."

Clothes Arrive Wrinkle-Free If Folded Right

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — You can arrive unwrinkled if you start a holiday packing properly, says expert Dorothy Schmidt.

She recommends travelling light, and says a woman's 24-inch hangerless suitcase will hold enough for a four-week vacation for one person.

Miss Schmidt, advertising supervisor for Samsonite luggage in Stratford, Ont., suggests choosing luggage on the basis of the travelling you do.

You need good, tough frames and locks and soft sides for the lightest weight. If you buy appropriate luggage, you can organize it so you need carry only a minimum.

Choose the clothes for a trip so they co-ordinate, mix and match and wash and wear, and don't take more than necessary, she advises.

Tht secret of wrinkle-free packing, Miss Schmidt says, is interfolding clothes. Then they pad each other and prevent creases and folds.

"A 24-inch case will take eight dresses, four pairs of slacks and shorts, three or four blouses, two pairs of shoes you wear another, four sets of lingerie, a negligee and housecoat and a packable raincoat."

You pack all the heavy things at the hinged end of the case, including shoes. Use them to hold soft items, and place them heel to toe in a soft shoe bag. If you are travelling in a warm climate don't use plastic bags, as they may form condensation.

Roll lingerie in sets; Slip, pants, girdle, bra. You may want to use them to pad the contour of a boned bathing suit or brassiere.

Pack cosmetics in a kit or moisture-proof bag, at the hinged end of the case.

If you are carrying extra, small purses, you can fill them with soft items such as gloves, scarves. Don't put tubes or bottles that might leak in a handbag.

Three-Way Fold

When you have packed heavy items, lingerie and nightwear, or sports clothes, put hose, scarves and gloves if necessary in divider-pad pocket. Keep skirts and dresses in the other side of your suitcase.

Miss Schmidt says the best way to fold a dress or a skirt is in three sections, lengthwise. Then if there are some wrinkles they follow the line of your body and show less than a wrinkle down the middle.

You put the shoulder of one dress in one end of the case, the shoulder of the next in the other end of the case, letting the skirts hang out the sides.

When all the dresses are in the case, you may want to put a sweater or shorts in the centre as extra padding. Then you fold the top skirt back over the cushion garment and continue folding all the skirts into a case.

If you pack a suit jacket — man's or woman's — into a suitcase that does not have hangers, you begin by buttoning it.

Then you put it face down, shoulders against the hinged end, sleeves over the sides, bottom hanging out the front. Pad the centre with shirts, sweater, pyjamas, bring the arms over then roll the bottom of the jacket over top of it all.

If you have more than one to pack, use the same technique, putting the shoulder against the other side of the suitcase.

Trousers go under a jacket, with the waist at the side. The legs fold back across the jacket.

If you are on a family trip, Miss Schmidt says a man's suitcase that has hangers will probably accommodate a child's clothes. They can be used as padding.

If you have soft belts to pack, they go in the divider pocket. Hard belts can pack around the inside, following the shape of the suitcase.

If you are travelling with many one-night stopovers, you might want a train case to carry toothpaste, cosmetics, nightwear or whatever you would use at each stop.

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I have bought my clothes all of my life but with the continued rise in costs of ready-made clothes, I have begun to make some of my own things. I'm just not satisfied with the results, seems I never choose the correct pattern. What can you suggest as a workable solution to this problem? I'm sure it must be shared by others—Mrs. M.K.

Dear Mrs. M.K.:

Since you have been buying ready-made clothes, you should have some idea of what is becoming on you and what is not. It is astonishing to find the number of women who do not know how to buy patterns and fabrics.

Never choose a pattern without knowing what type of figure you have. Pictures of models always have perfect figures which very few real, ordinary, everyday folks like us do. Clothes aren't made by professional dressmakers and designers helter-skelter without thought as to how they are going to look on those going to model them. Usually, they are fitted directly on the model, fitting details and style lines are decided upon at that time.

The same careful planning must be done by us. As an example; a woman with a large bust needs darts in this area. If your neck is short, a rolled collar is not becoming, etc.

Not thinking and planning carefully beforehand of how a certain fabric is going to look with the pattern you have chosen, on your particular figure, makes for some pretty dismal, unprofessional clothes that shout to the world that it is made by an amateur sewer.

Most fabric shops offer a personal service to customers by experienced women who will be more than happy to advise you on your pattern selections if you will only ask them, and then please, take their advice.

Look for exotic touches in fall midi fashions. The kimono as an evening coat is done in a Japanese print brocade with triple corded edges, and a wide sash belt like an obi.

Look for Javanese pants for at home in sea anemone print, the pants passing between the legs to wrap and tie and the top a wrap.

Look for the Fortuny look in evening dresses as in a silver lame maxi, entirely crystal-pleated, or all-pleat chiffon.

Look for the Moroccan evening dress in black velvet with yellow and green embroidered sleeves and hem over straight pants.

Look for the jersey tunic and pants in Hindu shirring, the tunic sleeves nearly as long as the floor, to be pushed up and up.

Look for the Persian rug look in tapestry coats such as the Tartars wore . . . worn with soft boots and a matching Tartar cap.

Look for fake fur used in pantsuits and skirted suits by Adele Simpson, accenting the ecology theme with glamour, in black with jeweled buttons.

Illusion Expands Rooms

Small rooms, and you wish they were larger? Paint them light and bright and use matching colors on floors and at the windows. Shiny surfaces, because they reflect, aid the illusion, as do mirrors used with discretion. If your budget includes structural alterations, enlarging windows and adding sliding glass doors, renders walls practically non-existant.

In the home shown here, designed by Ragnar Qvale, several ideas make the living room seem larger, while it retains an intimate, enjoyable quality. Instead of a separate room for a study, the study occupies an alcove at the end of the living room. Although in a sense, the study is a part of the living room, contributing to the feeling of spaciousness, each has its own identity. Furnishings are different, for one thing, contemporary in the study, traditional in the living room, and the fact that the study is in an alcove, rather than filling the entire end of the living room. The proximity of the two, however, enlarges the living room for entertaining.

Glass fills the exterior wall of the alcove, not only making it light and cheerful but doing the same for the living room. Also, note that the bookcase wall, actually little more than a partition, creates the entry hall behind it. Because this wall goes upward only to plate rail height, the open area above contributes to spaciousness of both entry and study.

Lines Around The Mouth

The mouth area comes in for so much attention, the quicker the lines are smoothed out and made to disappear, the younger you will look. A lotion-like substance 2nd Debut applied nightly will make the lines fill in and the skin become smooth once more. You will probably use 2nd Debut on your entire face to banish dryness, but do use a little extra care around your mouth. After applying the 2nd Debut massage very lightly, until it disappears into your skin. Your drug or dept. store has 2nd Debut with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength and you'll find it a genuine delight to use.

"A business built on customer confidence and good will"

DEAR ABBY . . .

Eye for an Eye

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am going to marry a real great guy. I suspected there was something wrong with one of his eyes, but he never talked about it, so I never really knew what it was.

Well, a little while ago he told me that when he was a small boy a neighbor kid accidentally shot it out with a B.B. gun and he had an artificial eye put in. Abby, it looks so real, nobody would ever know it was artificial. Now that he has told me, it seems to have built his courage up, and he takes his eye out in the evening and wears an eye patch. I think the artificial eye looks better than the eye patch, but the whole thing gives me the creeps.

One night he had a few drinks and he took his artificial eye out in front of some strangers and a lady fainted.

Do you think after we're married I will get more used to this? I'd like to tell him how I feel. Should I?—Squeamish.

DEAR SQUEAMISH: Yes, you'll probably get more used to it, but tell him anyway. And since your fiance is such a great comedian, find out if he can take it as well as dish it out.

Get a set of phony dentures, and the next time he removes his eye, you remove your "dentures." (Sort of an "eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" arrangement.)

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who is too good for his own good. Everybody takes advantage of Good Old Hank. Especially his family. They have used him all his life. They borrow a few dollars from him and forget to pay it back. When they need some work done—for free—Hank is the first one they call, and he goes running like it's an honor to do them a favor.

What is worse, we have a married son who is the same kind of a sap. Only it's his wife's family who runs him. He is always helping her father, or uncles, or brothers, also for free. Fix this, haul that, or build something. Junior never complains, either. He's crazy. Just like his father.

I worry one day that these big-hearted boobs will drop dead in their tracks from overwork. I wish I knew a way to help them see the light.—Lots of Problems.

DEAR LOTS: I have some good news for you. You don't have any problems. Those big-hearted "boobs" might enjoy doing things for their relatives. And quit worrying. More people have dropped dead from worry than from work.

DEAR ABBY: I, too, am the wife of an airline pilot, and I used to worry myself half sick wondering what my captain might be doing with some cute young airline hostess, until one night a highly respected, much-admired professional man knocked on my door while my pilot was gone. He certainly had some swinging plans for us. And to think how for years I had envied this man's wife because she had an 8 to 5 husband!

That's all there is to my story, Abby. But the point is this: Occupation doesn't determine fidelity—or the lack of it—in a marriage. I know airline captains' wives who have more going for them while their husbands are away than their husbands have.—Coffee, Tea and Me (at home).

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old and my mother treats me like I was four years old. Besides that, she has an evil mind. Help!—Flora.

DEAR FLORA: She doesn't have an "evil mind" . . . she has a good memory.

CONFIDENTIAL TO 50 YEARS OLD TODAY—AND DEPRESSED: Cheer up. Fifty is the "old age" of youth. But is also the "youth" of old age. You have a lot of living to do.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Letter writing can be a breeze. For Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

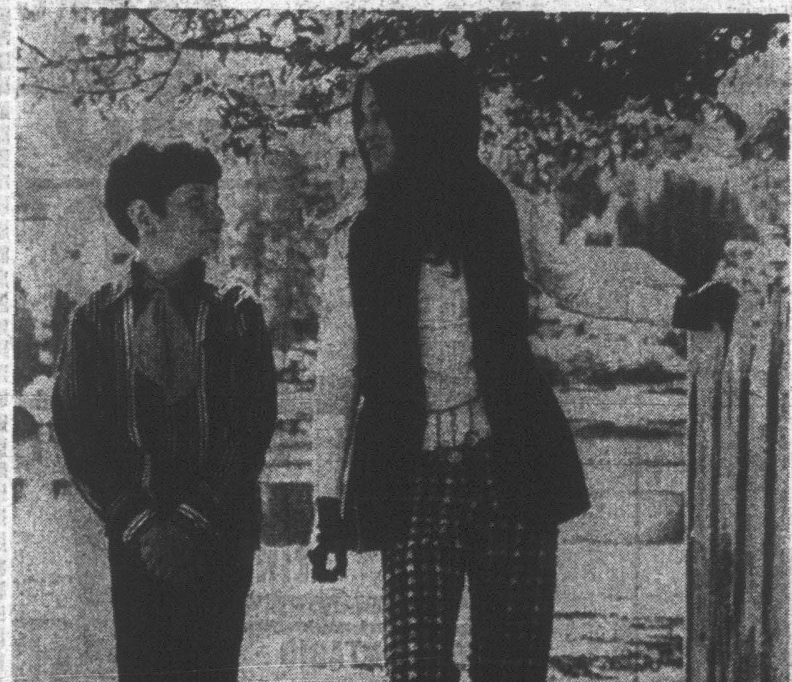
The combination is in multi-colored plaid with a schoolhouse-red fringe. Jennifer goes to both lengths for fashion: A-line bias mini skirt in a tartan with matching sleeveless midi coat. If course, Jen wears the tam as a topper.



Polite conversation is a picket fence pastime for nine-year-old Greg Kent and Wendy MacRae, 12. Greg wears the latest for boys: wide wale flare corduroys in loden green, awning stripe cotton shirt and an orange apache tie. Wendy chooses the straight-leg pant in multi-mauve check and a deep mauve jaunty jerkin with armor trim.

Jennifer is a fabulous fake in her wet-look for winter. Her indoor-outdoor boots are made of fake snake with the total zipper. The wet-look coat is accented with fake fur, braided toggle closings, patch pockets and white topstitching.

Women's Lib No Issue

TORONTO (CP) — There will be "no screaming and shouting" for women's liberation at this week's conference of the Canadian Federation of University Women, says President Margaret Orange.

"We're interested in all mankind, not just women," said Mrs. Orange in an interview Sunday, on the eve of the five-day session.

"We feel the things our forebearers had to fight for 40 or 50 years ago—such as women's right to higher education and equal pay for equal work—have been granted. Now the emphasis must be on the rights of all humans."

Mrs. Orange said the 11,500 member federation has not been asked for support by the Women's Liberation Movement.

"We've been warned they may invade the conference, but we feel we can handle them," he said.

She said subjects to be discussed include pollution, unrest in education and "disadvantaged Canadians" such as Indians.

Arms Cutback Shows Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Claiming several bright, new prospects for a stable world peace, the Nixon administration has expressed renewed enthusiasm for a slowdown in the weapons race with the Soviet Union.

The key issue of the joint strategic arms limitations talks is a proposal to abolish mutually or curtail deployment of anti-ballistic missiles, they said.

An administration spokesman said the safeguard ABM system had been a major bargaining tool at the Vienna talks, which just ended a four-month round last week. The negotiations resume in Helsinki this November.

They said the Soviet Union had expressed most interest in stopping development of the ABM. The United States has offered to do so if the Russians would limit their large SS-9 missiles and cut their ABM.

At a weekend briefing for editors and broadcasters in New Orleans during President Nixon's visit, the officials said Nixon's promise last year of negotiations rather than confrontation had panned out as a turning point in post-war policy.

CLAIM WAR OVER

The spokesman, who declined identification and prohibited release of their comments until Sunday, also said the conventional ground war in southern South Vietnam is virtually ended.

They said security in that part of the nation was the best it's been since 1964.

While noting that guerrilla warfare continues and the Paris peace talks remain fruitless, they said the strengthened South Vietnamese Army now should be able to meet on its own the aggression in the southern region.

Generally, the Vietnam war was said to be slowing down, and the possibility was still held open for a negotiated settlement.

The officials said the Middle East truce, while fragile, offers good hope of avoiding a larger war.

The guerrilla raids along the Jordan, Syrian and Lebanese front were termed only minor violations of the ceasefire and for mostly political reasons. The critical truce front remains the Suez line between Israel and Egypt, they said.

Suspect Still Sought In Courtroom Slayings

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) — The search for Angela Davis broadened today after a federal attorney confirmed that the self-professed Communist and former university philosophy instructor bought the shot gun that killed Judge Harold J. Haley.

The judge and three other men were killed Aug. 8 during a gunbattle that followed a courtroom kidnapping at San Rafael, across the Golden Gate from San Francisco.

Miss Davis is charged with one count of murder and five counts of kidnapping, under a California law which holds anyone who aids a major crime as guilty as the direct participants.

Jerrold Ladar, assistant U.S. attorney, said Sunday a serial number check showed the shotgun was purchased at a San Francisco pawn shop Aug. 5 by the former instructor at the University of California at Los Angeles.

The search for Miss Davis ranged from the West Coast to Birmingham, Ala., and abroad after Ladar disclosed that Miss Davis, 26, had a passport.

RUMORED IN CANADA

Early reports about the possible whereabouts of the attractive black educationist with a high Afro hairdo had included Canada. Ladar said a passport was not needed to enter Canada but would be necessary to go from there to any other country.

One report that she had gone to Toronto to stay with the daughter of Leo Clavir was denied by Clavir himself who said the report is "false and slanderous." He said his daughter is in New York City, and Miss Davis is not with her.

As the FBI joined in the search on a federal fugitive warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, there were other reports that Miss Davis might be in Birmingham, Ala., her birthplace.

Maj. David Orange, head of the Jefferson County, Ala., sheriff's intelligence force, said he is convinced that she is still in Birmingham.

An informant told officers Miss Davis had attended a Black Panther party meeting in Birmingham last Friday night, he reported.

In San Francisco, Ladar said Miss Davis was reported to have been a frequent companion of Jonathan Jackson, 17, one of those killed in the shootout at the Marin County Civic Centre.

Investigators said Jackson went into Haley's courtroom with a bowling bag full of weapons and interrupted an assault trial by brandishing guns and shouting: "All right, everybody freeze!"

Taking the judge and four others in the courtroom as hostages, Jackson and three San Quentin convicts—one on trial for assaulting a guard and two present as witnesses—marched the hostages to a parking lot.

In a gunbattle that followed, Jackson and two of the convicts, James McClain and William Christmas, were killed.

The third convict, Ruchell Magee, and two of the hostages were wounded.

A sawed-off shotgun, which had been taped around the judge's neck in the courtroom and which later was used to kill him, is the one identified as the weapon Miss Davis purchased, Ladar said.

She also has been named as the buyer of two other guns used in the shootings, he added.

'WAKE UP OR GET OUT' SHIP INDUSTRY TOLD

MONTREAL (CP) — Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey says the shipping industry in Montreal should "wake up or get out" because there is no room for companies which say the port's problems are "all because of the unions."

The minister told a news conference here he is anxious that the public become aware of a new spirit of co-operation between labor and most companies in the port.

The Only Way To Catch 'Em

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — A dentist advertised in a local weekly newspaper promising the right dental hygenist $750 a 12-hour week and:

A Cadillac convertible, free life insurance, a furnished apartment with all utilities paid, and use of a mink stole on weekdays and a full length mink coat on weekends.

The dentist, who wished to remain anonymous told reporters that the supply of trained hygenists is so short "you have to offer everything to get one."

Hygenists clean teeth and take X-rays.

Even if he reneges on his offer, he said, he hopes to hire a suitable hygenist from among the 20 who have applied.

Potential For Uvic Is 'Great'

By ELIZABETH FORBES

According to Prof. Ernest John Knapton, a former Victorian now living in the eastern United States, there are three ways to judge the worth of a university — in its buildings, its faculty and its library. Using those yardsticks at University of Victoria he says, "it's young by university standards but it has great possibilities.

"I like the buildings factulty leads me to believe it is excellent and the library is outstanding. It has a spendid collection, expecially amongst rare books."

* * *

Then he adds a personal note. "I've been boasting a bit, and telling everyone that I know or have known five of the educationalists whose names appear on certain buildings on campus — Corett, Clearihue, Maclaurin, Elliott and Sedgwick."

Prof Knapton (Jack to Victoria friends) has just completed a summer term at Uvic teaching European history to an advanced student class.

At the same time he's been visiting his sisters, Mrs. Stan Holman and Miss. Kathleen Knapton and renewing many old friendships.

Today, with his wife Jocelyn and younger son David, he left for Vancouver "to spend a few days." No doubt to renew acquaintance with University of British Columbia where he earned his B.A. in 1925, from where he was named a Rhodes Scholar, 1925-28, and where he was a summer lecturer in 1954.

* * *

Then the family trio will head east to Montreal and New York en route to a Cape Cod beach in Massachusetts, where they expect to live permanently from now on.

"While I was teaching and the children were growing up (there is an older son Christopher and a daughter Rosalind) we used the Cape Cod place as a vacation place. Now I am retired, we're going to make it a year-round home."

Retirement has come to Prof. Knapton after more than 40 year of academic life in which he has been summer lecturer and visiting professor at several universities including Washington, Brown and Harvard, and for 38 years a faculty member of Wheaton College in Norton, Massachusetts, first as instructor to professor, then head of the department of history and finally, visiting professor emeritus.

* * *

In addition to this busy career he has written four books, printed in both United States and Great Britain, that are considered preferred reading for students of European history.

A Guggenheim Fellowship of $7,000 in 1966, gave him the opportunity to spend a year in France to gather material for the Napoleon book.

Mrs. Knapton types her husband's books and according to him "she is also a splendid critic."

Sitting back in a comfortable chair in the Holman living room, Jack Knapton went back in memory almost 50 years, the other night, to reminisce about days when he was a student at Victoria High School, editor of the school magazine The Camosun, a member of the debating society and the drama club.

* * *

"One year we presented The Merchant of Venice with Bruce Hutchison as Shylock and a good-looking, fair-haired girl named Palmer, as Portia."

If the debating society was going into action, Hutchison would lead the team down to see Benny Nicholas, then editor of this newspaper.

"We'd go in after the paper was out of the way, tell Benny the subject for debate, then sit back and scribble notes while he talked . . . that was a long time ago."

It's a long time ago too, since a young Jack Knapton thrilled rugby crowds of his youth, as a member of the Oak Bay Wanderers. "I was in the scrum," is all he will say about that now.

Would he like to return to Victoria to live? H shakes his head in a decided negative.

"We'll always come back to visit, but all our retirement plans are centered at Cape Cod. I'll write part of the time but I also intend to spend a lot of hours on the beach just digging for clams."

Spill Lingers

STETTLER, Alta. (CP) — Waterfowl killed by an oil spill several weeks ago are still being found, Bill Melnyk of Big Valley, who owns the lands on which the Gulf Oil Canada Ltd. pipeline sprung a leak, said Sunday.

He said the pipeline, which has affected about 150 birds, was repaired two weeks ago but "it will take a long time to clean up the spilled oil."

The line runs from a battery installation to the main Edmonton-to-Drumheller pipeline.

The leak allowed oil to run from the line into a creek about 40 feet away but it did not run far down the creek, Melnyk said. Part of it was burned away.

Woman Held

SASKATOON (CP) — Police are holding a woman in custody in connection with a $10,000 bank robbery last Monday.

Police said the woman, whose name was withheld, was arrested in St. Brieux, Sask., Friday.

A man and possibly a third person were still being sought.

A man and woman entered a Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce branch in Saskatoon and escaped after threatening to shoot a female customer. It was Saskatoon's third bank robbery in the last 10 years.

Approach Wrong

REGINA (CP) — The chairman on the Senate Committee on Poverty today said Canada should take a positive approach to the question of a guaranteed annual minimum income.

Senator David Croll of Ontario, speaking to about 20 people who gathered in a downtown public library for the committee's opening hearing in Saskatchewan, said:

"The minimum income concept is being introduced to the welfare system by the back door, the worst way. The minimum standard of income has to come through the front door."

Senator Croll, whose special committee began work one and a half years ago on problems of poor people, said, "It isn't enough to send a cheque. These people need services and opportunities."

He said the present welfare system, designed in the 1930s, is outmoded. There was a question whether it should be modified or scrapped and replaced with a new package.

Weekend Accidents Take 12 Lives

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 12 persons died accidentally on the Prairies during the weekend, all in traffic accidents.

A survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday night listed five deaths in Saskatchewan, three in Manitoba and four in Alberta.

A three-car crash Saturday night near Fort Qu-Appelle, Sask., claimed the lives of Archie Frances Noname, 30, and Catherine Manepowisk, 16, both of the Piapot Indian Reserve, and Roy David Obey, 24, of the Pasqua Indian Reserve.

Three persons were killed in a two-car crash Sunday on Highway 27 near Olds, Alta.

They were identified as Joseph Alfonse Arsenauld, 37, of Canadian Forces Base, Moose Jaw, and Olga Burchel Davies, 58, and Ernest Edward Simmonds, 76, both of Didsbury, Alta.

James Clifford Nowlin, 20, and Wendy Wallker, 17, both of Flin Flon, Man., were killed Sunday when the car they were riding in left the road near Creighton, Sask., about 325 miles north of Regina.

In Manitoba, Clifford Woodhouse, 22, of the Fairford Indian reserve near Ashern was killed when he was hit by a car while walking along a street on the reserve, 100 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

A weather disturbance over the Panhandle and approaching the Charlottes kept cloud and showers over most of the north coast region through the night. Elsewhere skies were essentially clear though patches of cloud were evident especially throughout the central interior. The disturbance will weaken steadily as it moves southward with cloud and a few showers reaching the central region later today. Elsewhere under the influence of higher pressure, skies will be sunny today and Tuesday through showers are expected to persist in the north coast today. Another more active system now over the Aleutian chain will bring more rain to the Charlottes Tuesday. Temperatures will show a few degrees warming in the interior today except for the Kootenays where maximums will be much cooler than yesterday.

The Weather and You

By Carl Riblet Jr.

Although I would rather not be in a swimming pool when lightening is striking all around, it does help my peace of mind to know that I am as safe in the pool, if lightening should strike, as is a bird on a high tension wire when a bolt hits the wire.

We like to play it safe and shoo swimmers out of pools when thunderstorms appear. It really isn't necessary, although it is better to be indoors in a storm where you are certain you will be safe from a thunderbolt.

If you see children playing around the shore of a lake during a lightning bombardment, chase them indoors, because it is indeed dangerous for them to be playing there — although it is just as dangerous to be playing or walking in a meadow, for example, during a storm.

In a swimming pool, the swimmer's head is way down lower than the light poles, the trees and the houses around the pool. The swimmer won't get hurt if lightning strikes the water because he is like that bird on the high tension aire. He isn't grounded.

B.C. ROUNDUP

New Fisheries Act Tries 'Polluter'

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Columbia Cellulose Co. Ltd. was charged Saturday with discharging polluting effluent into Wainwright Basin, East of its Watson Island pulp mill near here.

The charge, laid under the federal Fisheries Act, alleges the company unlawfully "deposited a deleterious substance in water frequented by fish" between July 23 and Aug. 14.

The charge was laid on the basis of information sworn by fishery protection officer J. W. Connor of Prince Rupert. It was sworn before provincial court judge D. W. F. Ward. No date was set for a hearing.

The Watson Island plant was closed due to labor disputes from May 19 to July 22. Fisheries inspectors began monitoring the adjacent waters after production resumed.

Fisheries minister Jack Davis said last week that the company would be charged under the revised Fisheries Act, which gives the minister expanded powers to act against alleged polluters.

Maximum fine is $5,000.

In Vancouver Friday, Colcel president G. W. Scrimshaw announced the firm has started legal action against DuPont of Canada Ltd., which supplied an effluent pipeline for the Watson Island mill.

The suit alleges breach of contract, breach of warranty and negligence, he said. Scrimshaw said the pipeline was installed as part of the mill's effluent disposal system.

Warehouses Burn

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Damage was estimated at $250,000 Saturday in a fire which destroyed two warehouses in an industrial subdivision on the Kamloops Indian Reserve.

Roy Turner, owner of one of the buildings, protested that the Kamloops Fire Department ref sed to answer calls for help. This was on orders of city council, which has no fire agreement with the reserve.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

Many people, particularly women, get themselves into a terrible state, and can even give themselves physical distresses, fretting over conscientious scruples and imagined sins of omission and commission. This is particularly true, perhaps, of overly religious persons.

Many make themselves ill by overexercising some of their virtues. For instance, a woman may be so anxious to keep her husband and children and parents well, that she will fuss and fret at them about their health and eating habits all the time. Or she may be so anxious over aged parents that she will almost wear them out with her filial solicitude.

* * *

Sometimes a woman will be so anxious that her house be clean and neat that she will fret constantly at the children, fearing that they may track in some dirt, or she will cause her husband much mental distress by forbidding him to indulge in certain pleasures, such as smoking his cigars or reading his newspapers in the living room, because he creates a bit of disorder. Or she will be so industrious that she will never get any rest, and as a result she will get tired and irritable and hard to live with. Or she may be so devoted to good causes in her community that she will overdo, and drift into a nervous breakdown.

Occasionally, a woman working in business or industry will be so conscientious that she will keep doing her work over and over again to check it. Or if she is a teacher, she may take the correction of papers too seriously and wear herself down. If she is economical, she may overwork the virtue of thrift, and become penurious, or she may shop so long to save a few pennies, that she comes home exhausted.

One patient of mine worried herself into a nervous breakdown because her mother had died during an operation. She blamed herself because she had insisted on having a certain surgeon whom the mother disliked.

Some women worry themselves sick for fear that inadvertently they have broken some minor law or regulation. They wonder if they should give themselves up, confess, and take their punishment. I can usually get them to admit that they know this is silly; they know that if they were to confess, the authorities would be either amused or annoyed, and certainly they would be convinced that they were dealing with "a looney."

* * *

Anyone, man or woman, especially past the age of 40 (when cancer becomes a danger) who notices blood in the urine, should go immediately to a good urologist, who will then look into the bladder, and may see what is called a papilloma, a tiny little tumor. These tumors can be fairly easily burned off by the urologist, using electric sparks. Then the patient must be watched, because in some cases these papillomas come back, and in a few cases, cancer develops in one of them.

Americans Guard 'Reliable' Peace

WASHINGTON (WP) — Nixon administration officials are hopeful they will preside over the establishment of the most reliable peace that has been possible since the Cold War began nearly a quarter-century ago.

Their argument is based on these major points:

- Despite the fragile nature of the Middle-East cease-fire, there is a good chance that a larger war there can be avoided.
- The war in Vietnam is winding down without a major East-West conflict and a negotiated settlement is still a possibility.
- The American position in the world has been defined more precisely and realistically in the Nixon doctrine, and the Soviet Union has come to realize the limitations on its physical strength and ideological fervor.
- The progress of the Vienna talks on the limitation of offensive and defensive nuclear weapons has encouraged Nixon and his advisers to believe a significant agreement can be reached.

U.S. officials who conducted a briefing following an opening statement by the president, argued that the real turning point in postwar policy came last year with the president's promise of negotiation rather than confrontation.

They recalled president Kennedy's inaugural address nearly 10 years ago with its promise that the United States would bear any burden, pay any price, in the defence of liberty throughout the world.

They said the contrast between the Cold War rhetoric in the Kennedy inaugural and the offer to negotiate in the Nixon speeches demonstrates the transformation that has taken place in the world and in America since the early 1960s.

Because of the Sino-Soviet conflict, the divisions in other parts of the Communist world and the domestic contradictions challenging Soviet leaders there are openings for negotiations that did not exist a decade ago, the officials argued.

Tree Growers Hold Meet

BRIDGEWATER, N.S. (CP) — The White House in Washington may have a Canadian Christmas tree among those to be provided and decorated at Christmas this year.

The selection is to be made at Burlington, Vt., this week at the sixth national Christmas tree growers' biennial convention.

The national Christmas tree competition, winners of which are given the privilege of providing a tree for the White House, is to include a special Canadian competition among Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia growers.

Delegations of tree growers from the four Canadian provinces join more than 1,000 U.S. growers in the four-day conference.

Christmas tree dealers and buyers, industrial suppliers and university and government research specialists will take part in discussions on the industry.

Ventilation of Greatest Importance

By HILDA BEASTALL

A greenhouse full of pot plants can run into difficulties during warm weather, though most of them could be avoided with a little thoughtful action.

Ventilation is still of the greatest importance during August for all except tropicals requiring temperatures from 80 to 100 deg. F.

The majority of plants need a free air circulation, with the door, end vents and top vents open from eight to eight, and in most cases the top vents open partially at night.

Hilda

Plants which are maturing growth now can be watered less during August. They will have no new shoots likely to wilt, and large pot sizes dry out far less quickly than small spring cutting sizes.

To keep the plants fresh, and to promote new growth where desired, the atmosphere should be kept humid by frequent syringing of water on benches, floor and side walls.

Don't saturate, or use enough water that the earth floor is constantly soaked. With this humidity, desirable for most plants, ventilation must be constantly maintained.

While the warmest part of an August day is likely to be himidity should be done before 1 p.m. so that gradually the air will become drier before temperatures begin to drop in the evening.

If by about 10 at night it seems necessary to close vents, no harm will result to the plants.

Grape growing in a small greenhouse requires the same careful attention to ventilation, though with a critical difference.

As a rule, grape plants are grown in a bed outside the greenhouse wall, with the vine taken through when young at the wall base and then trained across on wires a foot below the roof glass.

While the grapes are sizing up and coloring, water is needed at the roots. This can be given copiously on the outside and adds little to the humidity inside.

This is fine, because grapes want a warm, rather dry air for ripening. They want also a free circulation of air whenever the outside air is not chilly.

Therefore vents for a small greenhouse where grapes are ripening will usually need closing at night and opening as soon as the outside air begins to warm in the morning.

No syringing with water inside, or fungus troubles will develop. In other words, know your plants and what they need and you'll have successful growing.

She Hears Many Strange Noises

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Mrs. Kevin Eisenbrant hears rock music, the bubbling of a coffeepot and 30 other noises when she shouldn't and it bothers her.

She hears the clack of a typewriter when she shouldn't and she picks up radio shows and dictaphones and water coolers.

"I know it sounds like I'm dreaming this up, but it's just the craziest thing in the world," she says.

The Federal Communications Commission, the telephone company and local electronics men have tried to help her.

So far, no one has.

Mrs. Eisenbrandt is video manager for Waddell and Reed Inc., which operates one of the nation's largest industrial television tape studios.

Since July 1, production at the firm's studios has been interrupted by weird noises on the audio portion of the tapes. The noises — more than 30 different kinds have machines on other floors, electric coffee pots, radios, typewriters and dictating machines.

"We don't know what's causing us to pick up the sounds," Mrs. Eisenbrandt said. "But something has made our equipment completely sensitive to everything around us."

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED L. KARPIN

In duplicate bridge, in which everybody plays the same deals, when one gets to a game contract on his own power and goes down, he invariably gets a poor score. The reason is that a few of the pairs will fulfill the same contract on the same cards, and will obtain a "plus" score.

Thus, when one arrives at a game contract that seems doomed to defeat, he goes all out to make it even if the possibility exists that he will be slaughtered if his plan of attack fails. Such was the case in today's deal, which arose in the National Championships of 1949.

North-South vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♣.

South's rebid of one no-trump was an inferior call. He should have bid either two diamonds or two hearts. Had he done so, North-South would probably have arrived at the superior contract of four hearts.

When the dummy came into view, South realized that he was doomed to defeat if the opponents could diagnose the situation correctly. His only legitimate chance of fulfilling his contract was if either opponent possessed, specifically, the doubleton Q-J of spades. In this setup, dummy's spades suit could be brought home without relinquishing the lead. But South appreciated that the possibility of this precise distribution was slim.

So South seized upon what he thought was his best hope. He won the opening club lead with dummy's ace, and promptly led the diamond jack. When East played low, South went up with his king. When the king won, South chalked up the score for a vulnerable game.

Of course, if East had been clairvoyant, he would have gone up with his ace of diamonds, and returned a club. South would then have gone down two tricks. But how could East have known the true situation?

And if it had been West who possessed the diamond ace, then South would have gone down three tricks, since in this case the defenders would have made five club tricks and two diamonds. South, of course, was fully aware of these things when he made the election to live dangerously.

fun with figures

By J A H HUNTER

Betty liked them both. "Which do you prefer?" she asked her husband. "This rug is six inches shorter but four inches wider than the other."

"I really don't know." George shook his head. "The man told us they're both exactly 12 square feet, and they both look good to me."

What were the dimensions of the longer rug?

It Won't Be All Fun and Games At Andy's Private School Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "My daddy is 75 years old, and he isn't watching television so much any more," says Andy Griffith. "He says they oughta put somethin' new on that tube."

Andy himself aims to oblige. When he returns to television with a new series this autumn, the North Carolina accent will be the same, but the words will be different.

The show is called Headmaster, and that's what Andy plays. He runs a private school. Not in the cornpone country but right here in the San Fernando Valley.

It won't be all fun and games at Andy's school, either. One of the scripts begins with Andy making a lecture about the misuse of pills and ends with a star pupil in the hospital with an overdose.

"Oh, we've got some strong stuff, all right, some real strong stuff," Andy said. "This won't be an out-and-out comedy, though there'll be some hilarious stuff in it, too. But you just can't do a school show in this day and age and not take up problems."

Andy was taking a breather in his trailer-dressing room at Warner Brothers, where he'll be spending six months of his year.

BENEFITED BY TV

He reminisced about how he got into television, out of it and then back in.

"Getting into television was the best thing I could have done 11 years ago," he recalled. "I had just done three movies, one a comedy (No Time for Sergeants), one I guess you might call a tragedy (A Face in the Crowd) and one—well, the jury's still out on the other one (Onionhead).

"I was doing all the television variety shows and an occasional dramatic role or comedy on Playhouse 90 and that kind of show. I didn't have what you would call steady employment."

Andy spent a year on Broadway in a semi-hit musical, Destry, then began talking with producer Sheldon Leonard about a series. Andy hit it off with Aaron Rubin, who created The Andy Griffith Show. Hitsville for eight seasons.

He quit the show to do movies for Universal. The first was Angel in My Pocket.

He recognized that he is the kind of a person who needs to keep busy. So when CBS offered him a series deal he signed. Then he hooked up again with Aaron Rubin. Both agreed it should be more serious than the previous show.

"At first I resisted the idea of a school show, because of The Bill Cosby Show and Room 222," said Andy. "Then I changed my mind.

"I'm not puttin' those shows down in any way, but I reasoned that Bill's show is Bill—right? and Room 222 has only one comedy character, the principal. So I could see room for us."

Canada's Percy Veteran Actor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Says Canadian actor Percy Rodrigues: "I think my mother gave me the name of Percy so I would be able to take care of myself." And he has.

He is a strongly-built man with a rumbling voice and the face of a Hawaiian king. His dark skin comes from his Portuguese parentage. This fall he will be seen in a new ABC television series, The Silent Force, co-starring with Ed Nelson as government agents in search of organized crime.

Oddly, both Rodrigues and Nelson are alumni of Peyton Place, on which both played doctors.

For Percy Rodrigues, stardom has been a long time coming. In his early years acting was a part-time thing; he earned his living as a machinist. In the last 24 years he has been a fulltime actor.

Asked if his dark skin had proved a drawback in his acting career, Rodrigues said:

"Apparently not because I've kept pretty busy for the past six years. I've managed to play a variety of roles, and that's the way I like it. I want to be accepted as an actor—not a skin-tone model."

LEARNS DEFENCE

He was born in Montreal, and he learned to defend himself—and his name—with convincing skill. So much so that he achieved the title of Canadian light-heavyweight champion. His broadened nose attests to his experiences in the ring.

Rodrigues shipped out as a seaman and worked at other jobs until the Negro Theatre Guild asked him to play the title role in Emperor Jones at the annual Canadian Drama Festival. He won the best-actor award and started getting other acting jobs, still keeping his job as machinist with Pratt and Whitney Aircraft.

"I'm a newcomer on the American scene," he remarked. "For 15 years I worked as an actor in Canada before doing my first Broadway play, Toys in the Attic, in 1960. Since 1966 I have been a Californian, and I've done just about every dramatic TV series.

"But Canada is still my home. I have a house there that I built with my own hands 20 years ago. It's pretty hard to leave something that is so close to you."

Rodrigues has had the same wife for 27 years, and they have a married daughter and two grown sons.

Finally, A Berth . . .

NEW YORK (AP) — A cruise ship that has been without a berth for a year tied up between two Hudson River piers during the weekend and got a parking ticket.

The 715-foot, 25,000-ton Caribia had been anchored off the Verrazzano-Narrows Bridge, forbidden by the city to move to a mooring place because of legal difficulties.

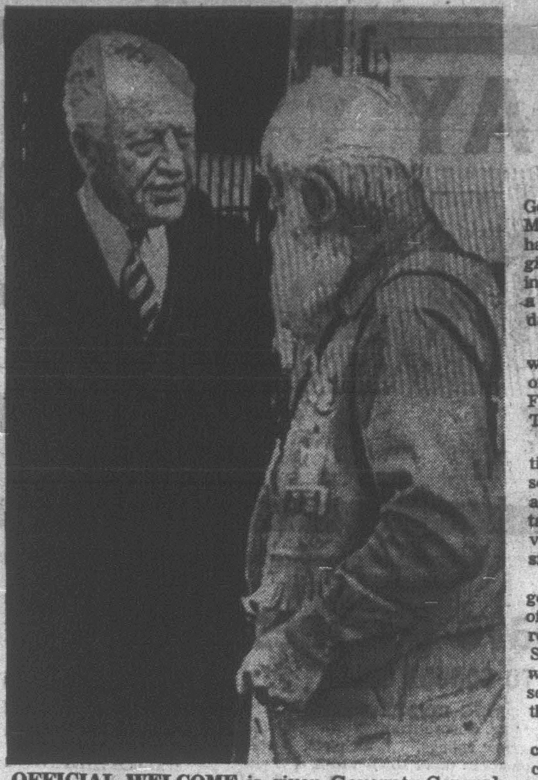
The 21-year-old ship also has been beset by mechanical and financial woes since it was sold for $3,000,000 two years ago, and in the last year has been at anchor in lower New York Bay or docked off Brooklyn.

Late Saturday, she docked between Piers 84 and 86 at West 45th Street, and shortly afterwards, police issued her a summons for not having a berthing permit.

The ship's principal owner, Andrew Kostantinidies, said he brought her in because he faced the loss of insurance coverage unless she was berthed by today.

Contract Awarded

OTTAWA (CP) — Pelling Electric Ltd. of Regina has won a $37,600 contract for electrical renovations to the crime detection laboratory at the RCMP training depot in Regina, the public works department announced today.



OFFICIAL WELCOME is given Governor-General Roland Michener by Klondike Bud, official greeter of the Yukon. Michener is on a tour of the Canadian North and was in Dawson, Y.T., when he met white-bearded Bud. (CP Wirephoto)

Micheners Visit Gaslight Follies

DAWSON (CP) — Governor-General and Mrs. Roland Michener laughed, clapped their hands and sang along with the girls of the Gaslight Follies during a weekend visit that relived a bit of life among Yukon miners during Dawson's 1898-99 heyday.

In the '98 gold rush, this city was the largest in Canada west of Winnipeg and the Gaslight Follies in the Palace Grande Theatre were famous.

Dawson, then with a population of 30,000, mostly miners seeking fortunes, now is down to about 800 but a new rush is taking place — a tourist rush as visitors stop to see historic sites.

During his visit Saturday, the governor-general visited many of these sites, including the restored cabin of poet Robert Service, the old river paddle-wheeler Keno and a museum set up as a hardware store of the Klondike era.

He was also guest at Discovery Day celebrations, including a parade, a visit to the fair grounds and a public picnic. He laughed, joked and gossiped informally with residents and nearly 500 visitors that have crowded into this town for the celebrations.

The visit to Dawson is part of a 10-day western Arctic tour that also includes visits to remote settlements in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories.

HAYBALE CONCERT

THE SEA RANCH, Calif. (AP) — As pianist Gunnar Johansen warmed up for his concert, the ranch hands escorted Silver, Nomad and Poco from their stalls. The audience took seats on hay bales, in lofts or anywhere comfortable.

With the smell of horses and hay in the background, Johansen played selections from Mozart, Beethoven and Liszt.

His concert hall was a cavernous, whitewashed barn from which the three horses had been led minutes before.

Johansen called the barnyard odor "poetic" and praised the barn's acoustics.

The 60-year-old barn is about 50 by 100 feet with a plank floor. Above 40 horse stalls are hay lofts which create large open spaces beneath the gabled roof.

"I think the storage space above the stall acts as an echo chamber," said Johansen, 64.

Johansen has been an artist-in-residence at the University of Wisconsin at Madison since 1939, and has been giving his Haybale Concerts, as he calls them, for two years at this resort on the rugged northern California coast.

He has given five recitals in the Sea Ranch barn. Admission is $2 an adult and $1 for children.

Sunday's concert drew a standing-room-only crowd of 45; many of whom clambered up into the lofts in their Sunday best.

SEVENTH PROBE OF HOT SISTER PLANET

Russians Send Unmanned Craft to Venus

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union fired an unmanned rocket ship toward Venus today on a four-month voyage to explore the hot and hostile atmosphere of earth's closest planetary neighbor.

The official Tass news agency said the probe, named Venus 7, began its journey at 8:38 a.m. Moscow time (1:38 a.m. EDT), broke free of earth's gravity and began the long coast to intercept Venus as it makes a close approach to earth later this year.

It was the first major Soviet space exploration attempt since June, when cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastianov spent more than 18 days in space, longer than any other men on a single flight.

The last Soviet probe of another planet was in May, 1969, when Venus 5 and Venus 6 penetrated the dense atmosphere of Venus a day apart and radioed back information during "smooth descents" of nearly an hour. The Soviets did not say if those two ships made soft landings.

The Venus 7 ship was launched today to "continue the exploration of the planet Venus," Tass said. The announcement contained nothing to indicate whether Venus 7 will attempt a soft landing.

The Tass announcement did say, however, that "Venus 7 is an improved version of the previous stations of this type."

The information radioed to earth by probes 5 and 6 gave evidence of an environment far more hostile than scientists had believed.

The instruments on the ships measured an atmosphere made up mostly of carbon dioxide and simmering in temperatures of 1,400 degrees.

Truce Breaks Continuing, Israel Says

Times News Services

JERUSALEM — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban charged today Egypt is continuing missile movements in the Suez Canal area in violation of the Middle East ceasefire.

At the same time, Eban accused the United States of failing to acknowledge Israeli evidence of these movements.

U.S. Supplied With Evidence

At a news conference, Eban said Israel has provided the U.S. government, as author and guarantor of the ceasefire, with "precisely defined" evidence of Egyptian violations.

Referring to comments by U.S. Defence Secretary Melvin Laird Sunday that it was not possible to determine whether a ceasefire violation actually occurred because missiles may have been in when the ceasefire went into effect at midnight Aug. 7, Eban said:

"Israel has lodged complaints showing transgressions took place not only immediately after the ceasefire, but continue to be made."

Laird's remarks, made in a television interview, are expected to set the tone for the official U.S. response to the Israeli charges.

'Stop Complaining and Talk'

The U.S. wants Israel to stop complaining of ceasefire violations and start peace negotiations with the Arabs.

In Washington, Israeli cabinet minister Shimon Peres said Sunday he was sure the Israeli cabinet would await U.S. reaction to Israel's claim of cease-fire violations before taking further action.

Peres said later he was not aware of Laird's statement that "I don't believe it serves a useful purpose to have a long public debate as to what went on 12 hours before or 12 hours after the cease-fire."

Saturday, Israeli State Radio interpreted statements by an Israeli foreign ministry official as meaning that Israel would delay appointment of a representative to Mid-east peace talks because of truce violations.

Eban Cites Three Violations

Eban cited these alleged violations:

- Last Thursday material on "grave violations" shortly after the time of the ceasefire was passed on to the United Nations and the United States. At this time "a considerable number of ground-to-air missiles" were moved forward by the Egyptians.
- On the same day one other missile battery was deployed. A map reference was provided to the United Nations on this second complaint.
- On Sunday, construction was observed taking place at five spots which were empty before.

Eban expressed belief Laird was not in possession of the latest Israeli material when he made his statement Sunday. Eban stressed that he thought Laird's words were not a "final verdict."

The foreign minister added: "There is no crisis between Jerusalem and Washington . . . There is a frank discussion."

He said it was important for Israel and the United States to "establish the facts together."

Affects Peace Effort Climate

Eban said a larger issue is "the degree of validity and credence to be given to Soviet and Egyptian assurances" that they would abide by the ceasefire agreement. These were bound to have an effect on the climate of the present peace effort, he said.

Eban said there is still material being transmitted to Washington containing Israel's evidence of the ceasefire violations and it is "impossible for me to believe we won't reach a common understanding."

Eban said he didn't know what could be done to bring about a removal of the missiles, but he said Israel at least expected a "frank acknowledgement" from Washington that indeed violations were taking place.

Commenting on the delay in negotiations under UN peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, Eban suggested this was caused by Israel's "urgent preoccupation" with the ceasefire issue and Arab refusal to appoint foreign ministers as their representatives to the talks.

Reports published in Jerusalem said some Washington quarters believe Israel is exploiting the allegations

RECORD RAINS flooding Northern Ireland have cooled off rioters' tempers and forced British soldiers, sent to Ireland to control the political-religious disorders, to turn their attention to flood relief work. Above, a U.K. soldier helps an Irish policeman move stalled auto from a Belfast street.

Belfast Floods Cool Rioters

BELFAST (AP) — Nineteen hours of torrential rain and Belfast's worst flood in 30 years brought a weekend halt to Roman Catholic-Protestant riots and changed British troops from enemies to heroes, at least temporarily.

Rescue operations replaced street battles as hundreds of families were evacuated from their homes. More than 1,000 British soldiers laid down their guns to toil for hours in the swirling waters.

No casualties were reported, but damage estimates ran as high as $2.5 million.

The Catholic Falls Road district was hardest hit.

As the cleanup got under way today, both Protestants and Roman Catholics praised the soldiers who the previous weekend were targets of bricks, bottles and such epithets as "Gestapo swine."

"We've had nothing but kind words," said an army spokesman.

Outside Belfast, high water cut major roads isolated several villages. Soldiers rescued trapped families in Strabe and Londonderry, and an army boat saved 50 sheep from a flood near the River Foyle.

Plumbers Picket Firms —But Claim No Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plumbers set up picket lines at three Vancouver area contracting firms today, but union officials said there was no work stoppage.

Members of Local 170 of the Plumbers, Pipefitters and Steamfitters Union carried signs saying "On Strike" as they walked in front of offices of Boulevard Plumbing and Heating Ltd., Anderson Plumbing and Heating Ltd., and Westgate. Mechanical Contractors Ltd.

But they said that between 20 and 30 union plumbers employed by the three companies reported for work today at jobs being done at sites outside the plants.

The provincial government has said strike action would be illegal.

The pickets said they were protesting a suspension of contract negotiations last week after the union had rejected a settlement proposal made by deputy labor minister William Sands, acting as a special mediator in a dispute that closed down the construction industry for three months.

But Charles Connaghan, president of the Construction Labor Relations Association, which bargains for 600 building contractors, said today the CLRA has always been available to negotiate.

Union spokesman Jack Fisher had said Sunday the plumbers would picket the three firms even if they decided to resume negotiations.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson has warned that a strike or lockout would be illegal, leaving unions or firms liable to fines of up to $10,000 and individuals liable to fines of up to $1,000.

"We can strike at 7:30 a.m. today," said Fisher.

"That's when our 72-hour strike notice expires. There will be a strike even if we get notice of negotiations." If the union does not receive notice of negotiations, he said, all plumbing contractors who are members of the CLRA also would be struck.

Missile Fired

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Poseidon missile today was fired from underwater for the second time, streaking aloft one hour and 16 minutes behind schedule from the nuclear submarine James Madison.

BOOBY-TRAP BOMB KILLS POLICEMAN

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Eight Omaha policemen apparently were lured into a dynamite trap in a vacant house on the city's near North Side today and one was killed and seven hurt.

Lieut. John Bozak said a booby-trapped suitcase on the living room floor of the 2½-storey house in a predominantly Negro section exploded, blowing the house apart.

The slain officer was Larry Minard, who would have been 30 Thursday, Deputy Police Chief Glen Gates said.

Gates said eight policemen were dispatched to the area after a report a woman was screaming.

'RUN BY QUEBEC'

ROBSON, B.C. (CP) — An angry Premier Bennett says Canada is being run by "a Quebec government."

Bennett, in a weekend interview after he officially opened the Yellowhead highway linking British Columbia and Alberta, said the federal government gives only token financial support to B.C. highways, while giving revenue from B.C. taxpayers to Quebec, which is almost as rich in resources as B.C.

HUGE BOMB RAID

U.S. Slams North Viets

SAIGON (AP) — The United States committed its entire Pacific force of B-52 bombers against the new North Vietnam offensive today in the northernmost provinces of South Vietnam.

Nearly 100 of the big bombers dropped some 3,000 tons of bombs on Northern Vietnamese supply and staging areas on both sides of the Laotian border.

The raids were the heaviest in two years in the sector. Informed sources said clouds prevented any accurate assessment of the bomb damage, but several secondary explosions indicated hits on ammunition stores.

The U.S. command ordered the B-52s out in full force after attacks Sunday on seven southern allied bases guarding approaches to the populous coastal lowlands of Quang Tri and Thua Thien provinces.

'COPTERS LOST

The U.S. command also announced that three American helicopters were shot down on the Laotian side of the border Saturday. Headquarters said one American was killed and two are missing.

North Vietnamese gunners late Sunday slammed nearly 200 rounds of rockets, mortars and recoilless rifle shells into five southern allied bases along the so-called demilitarized zone. It was the heaviest attack in that region in more than a year.

At the same time, the North Vietnamese for the eighth day kept up attacks on two bases—O'Reilly and Barnett—some 25 miles south of the DMZ along the Laotian border.

ONE HIT HARD

Casualties and damage were reported light over-all, but one South Vietnamese artillery base four miles south of the DMZ was hard hit. Seventy rounds from mortars slammed into it, blowing up an ammunition dump. A score or more South Vietnamese troops were killed, and as many more were wounded.

The U.S. command said several Americans were killed in the other shelling attacks.

Informants said there were indications that the attacks on the bases along the DMZ came from the direction of Laos, to the west, rather from inside the buffer zone on the north.

They said they may have been diversionary attacks to screen the movement of troops into the lowlands for

Postmen Strike Again

OTTAWA (CP) — About one-third of the country's 27,000 postal workers were on strike or under suspension today as the Council of Postal Unions turned on the pressure in contract talks.

Mail service, however, was normal in Victoria.

The council negotiating team met with the government's treasury board negotiators for 90 minutes to discuss new positions taken last week, then adjourned "until Wednesday at the latest," a government spokesman said.

Meanwhile, more than 6,000 postal workers from Quebec City to British Columbia were absent on rotating strikes and another 2,000 were under suspension by the post office.

The rotating strikes hit Quebec City, Toronto, London, Ont., Calgary, Edmonton, most of Northern Ontario, northern Alberta and Fort St. John and Dawson Creek, B.C.

Suspended by the post office were 21 Toronto stations and 15 other Ontario points, including Brockville, Smiths Falls, Peterborough, Cobourg and Lindsay, and 30 points in Quebec, including Chicoutimi, Jonquiere-Kenogami, Levis, Rimouski, Riviere-du-Loup, Sept-Iles, Shawinigan and Trois-Rivieres.

U.S. To Lift Limits On Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has accepted a recommendation that consideration of a tariff system to regulate foreign oil imports be discontinued and that the United States continue instead with efforts to improve the current import quota system, it was announced today.

Included in the recommendations are provisions for an increase in crude oil from Canada above the 395,000 barrels-a-day quota imposed by President Nixon last March.

The recommendation was made by George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, in a letter to Nixon.

FORCE PRICE DOWN

Six months ago a cabinet-level study group on oil import policy recommended that the federal government get out of the business of assigning valuable foreign oil import licences to American oil companies. The group recommended that the 11-year-old quota system be replaced with a system of tariffs on foreign oil.

KING-SIZE air cushion vehicle planned by Boeing Company would be about 100 feet by 50 feet with clear span deck capable of carrying 100 tons of cargo in the frozen wastes of Alaska and the Canadian Arctic. Similar in size to one of the British Hovercraft ferrying cars across the English Channel, the Boeing concept would cruise at about 80 miles an hour. Air cushion vehicles are suited to northern work because they can go almost anywhere without disturbing the environment, which in break-up is at a delicate balance. (AP Wirephoto)

MARKET SUMMARIES

Pre-Holiday Trade Cool

Major markets eased in generally light trading today as stock watchers predicted continuing lethargy until after Labor Day.

Western oils led the decline at Toronto, where losses outnumbered gains in all sectors.

AT NEW YORK, stock market prices slipped in slow trade.

Declines ran ahead of advances by about 5 to 4 among the issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the dullness of the market was not unanticipated and predicted that it would take some unexpected developments to stir the market before Labor Day.

AT TORONTO, prices drifted in slow mid-afternoon trading.

The market posted small gains Friday, interrupting four consecutive losing sessions.

Analysts said the large decline in western oils was caused by profit-taking. Oil stocks showed sharp gains Friday.

Weakest sectors were banks, beverages, oil refining, steel and pipelines.

Among losing stocks, Dome Pete was down 4½ to 49½, Chrysler 1 to 18⅞, Aimco Industries ½ to 10, Northern and Central Gas ½ to 12, Genstar Ltd. ⅛ to 8¼, Hudson Bay Mining ¾ to 20¼ and Sherritt ¼ to 18¾.

AT MONTREAL prices slipped slightly lower in busy early afternoon trading.

All sectors recorded fractional declines.

Among senior mines and oils, Dominion Petroleum slipped 2¼ to 50¾, Hudson's Bay Mining and Smelting ⅞ to 20⅛, Northern and Central Gas ½ to 12 and British Petroleum 5 cents to 4.25.

TransCanada PipeLine rose 1½ to 56½ and Noranda ½ to 27¾ while Imperial Oil was unchanged at 16⅞.

Highlighting gains among other issues were Falconbridge up ¾ to 135, QSP Ltd. ½ to 14½, International Utilities ⅜ to 25⅞, MacMillan-Bloedel ⅜ to 23½, Royal Bank ⅛ to 21½, Kaiser Resources ⅛ to 11½, Ivaco ⅛ to 7¼, Domtar ⅛ to 12¾, IOS Ltd. 10 cents to 1.70 and Brinco 5 cents to 4.25.

AT LONDON buyers stayed away and the stock market closed generally lower.

Government securities declined as much as five shillings.

Dollar stocks were helped by an upturn on Wall Street Friday.

Dome, Pacific Petroleums, Canadian Pacific, Cominco and Hollinger were among Canadians to advance but gains were small.

AT VANCOUVER prices declined in quiet trading during the morning session.

In industrials, Tokar was down .10 at $2.50 on a volume of 5,650 shares. Melton Realty was trading at $1.15 and Key Industries at .31.

In oils, Royal Canadian Ventures was down .04 at .95 on a volume of 7,300 shares. Ponderay dropped .16 at $1.12, Five Star was unchanged at .20.

Among mines, Mariner was ahead one-half cent at .38 on a 45,750-share volume. Pinnacle was ahead .12 at .43 while Rolling Hills was down .02 at .53.

CHICAGO (AP) — The possibility of a corn crop scarcity in the old time tradition sent five commodity futures to limit advances on the Board of Trade.

Soybean and wheat futures advanced the limit of 10 cents; corn a limit 8 cents; oats a limit 6 cents and soybean meal a limit of $5 a ton.

Trade was active at the opening with limit bids in the corn and oats pits and at this point trade stopped because there were no sellers for buyers.

The only factor in the limit moves was concern that this year's corn crop would be seriously cut by a widespread infestation of southern blight.

SEVENTH PROBE OF HOT SISTER PLANET

Russians Send Unmanned Craft to Venus

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union fired an unmanned rocket ship toward Venus today on a four-month voyage to explore the hot and hostile atmosphere of earth's closest planetary neighbor.

The official Tass news agency said the probe, named Venus 7, began its journey at 8:38 a.m. Moscow time (1:38 a.m. EDT), broke free of earth's gravity and began the long coast to intercept Venus as it makes a close approach to earth later this year.

It was the first major Soviet space exploration attempt since June, when cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev nd Vitaly Sevastianov spent more than 18 days in space, longer than any other men on a single flight.

The last Soviet probe of another planet was in May, 1969, when Venus 5 and Venus 6 penetrated the dense atmosphere of Venus a day apart and radioed back information during "smooth descents" of nearly an hour. The Soviets did not say if those two ships made soft landings.

The Venus 7 ship was launched today to "continue the exploration of the planet Venus," Tass said. The announcement contained nothing to indicate whether Venus 7 will attempt a soft landing.

The Tass announcement did say, however, that "Venus 7 is an improved version of the previous stations of this type."

The information radioed to earth by probes 5 and 6 gave evidence of an environment far more hostile thn scientists hd believed.

The instruments on the ships measured an atmosphere made up mostly of carbon dioxide and simmering in temperatures of 1,400 degrees.

Truce Breaks Continuing, Israel Says

Times News Services

JERUSALEM — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban charged today Egypt is continuing missile movements in the Suez Canal area in violation of the Middle East ceasefire.

At the same time, Eban accused the United States of failing to acknowledge Israeli evidence of these movements.

U.S. Supplied With Evidence

At a news conference, Eban said Israel has provided the U.S, government, as author and guarantor of the ceasefire, with "precisely defined" evidence of Egyptian violations.

Referring to comments by U.S. Defence Secretary Melvin Laird Sunday that it was not possible to determine whether a ceasefire violation actually occurred because missiles may have been in when the ceasefire went into effect at midnight Aug. 7, Eban said:

"Israel has lodged complaints showing transgressions took place not only immediately after the ceasefire, but continue to be made."

U.S. POSITION

Laird's remarks, made in a television interview, are expected to set the tone for the official U.S. response to the Israeli charges.

'Stop Complaining and Talk'

The U.S. wants Israel to stop complaining of ceasefire violations and start peace negotiations with the Arabs.

In Washington, Israeli cabinet minister Shimon Peres said Sunday he was sure the Israeli cabinet would await U.S. reaction to Israel's claim of cease-fire violations before taking further action.

Peres said later he was not aware of Laird's statement that "I don't believe it serves a useful purpose to have a long public debate as to what went on 12 hours before or 12 hours after the cease-fire."

Saturday, Israeli State Radio interpreted statements by an Israeli foreign ministry official as meaning that Israel would delay appointment of a representative to Mid-east peace talks because of truce violations.

Eban Cites Three Violations

Eban cited these alleged violations:

- Last Thursday material on "grave violations" shortly after the time of the ceasefire was passed on to the United Nations and the United States. At this time "a considerable number of ground-to-air missiles" were moved forward by the Egyptians.
- On the same day one other missile battery was deployed. A map reference was provided to the United Nations on this second complaint.
- On Sunday, construction was observed taking place at five spots which were empty before.

Eban expressed belief Laird was not in possession of the latest Israeli material when he made his statement Sunday. Eban stressed that he thought Laird's words were not a "final verdict."

The foreign minister added: "There is no crisis between Jerusalem and Washington . . . There is a frank discussion."

He said it was important for Israel and the United States to "establish the facts together."

Affects Peace Effort Climate

Eban said a larger issue is "the degree of validity and credence to be given to Soviet and Egyptian assurances" that they would abide by the ceasefire agreement. These were bound to have an effect on the climate of the present peace effort, he said.

Eban said there is still material being transmitted to Washington containing Israel's evidence of the ceasefire violations and it is "impossible for me to believe we won't reach a common understanding."

Eban said he didn't know what could be done to bring about a removal of the missiles, but he said Israel at least expected a "frank acknowledgement" from Washington that indeed violations were taking place.

Commenting on the delay in negotiations under UN peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, Eban suggested this was caused by Israel's "urgent preoccupation" with the ceasefire issue and Arab refusal to appoint foreign ministers as their representatives to the talks.

Reports published in Jerusalem said some Washington quarters believe Israel is exploiting the allegations

RECORD RAINS flooding Northern Ireland have cooled off rioters' tempers and forced British soldiers, sent to Ireland to control the political-religious disorders, to turn their attention to flood relief work. Above, a U.K. soldier helps an Irish policeman move stalled auto from a Belfast street.

Belfast Floods Cool Rioters

BELFAST (AP) — Nineteen hours of torrential rain and Belfast's worst flood in 30 years brought a weekend halt to Roman Catholic-Protestant riots and changed British troops from enemies to heroes, at least temporarily.

Rescue operations replaced street battles as hundreds of families were evacuated from their homes. More than 1,000 British soldiers laid down their guns to toil for hours in the swirling waters.

No casualties were reported, but damage estimates ran as high as $2.5 million. The Catholic Falls Road district was hardest hit.

As the cleanup got under way today, both Protestants and Roman Catholics praised the soldiers who the previous weekend were targets of bricks, bottles and such epithets as "Gestapo swine."

"We've had nothing but kind words," said an army spokesman.

Outside Belfast, high water cut major roads isolated several villages. Soldiers rescued trapped families in Strabe and Londonderry, and an army boat saved 50 sheep from a flood near the River Foyle.

Plumbers Picket Firms —But Claim No Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plumbers set up picket lines at three Vancouver area contracting firms today, but union officials said there was no work stoppage.

Members of Local 170 of the Plumbers, Pipefitters and Steamfitters Union carried signs saying "On Strike" as they walked in front of offices of Boulevard Plumbing and Heating Ltd., Anderson Plumbing and Heating Ltd., and Westgate. Mechanical Contractors Ltd.

But they said that between 20 and 30 union plumbers employed by the three companies reported for work today at jobs being done at sites outside the plants.

The provincial government has said strike action would be illegal.

The pickets said they were protesting a suspension of contract negotiations last week after the union had rejected a settlement proposal made by deputy labor minister William Sands, acting as a special mediator in a dispute that closed down the construction industry for three months.

But Charles Connaghan, president of the Construction Labor Relations Association, which bargains for 600 building contractors, said today the CLRA has always been available to neogtiate.

Union spokesman Jack Fisher had said Sunday the plumbers would picket the three firms even if they decided to resume negotiations.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson has warned that a strike or lockout would be illegal, leaving unions or firms liable to fines of up to $10,000 and individuals liable to fines of up to $1,000.

"We can strike at 7:30 a.m. today," said Fisher.

"That's when our 72-hour strike notice expires. There will be a strike even if we get notice of neogtiations." If the union does not receive notice of neogtiations, he said, all plumbing contractors who are members of the CLRA also would be struck.

Missile Fired

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Poseidon missile today was fired from underwater for the second time, streaking aloft one hour and 16 minutes behind schedule from the nuclear submarine James Madison.

BOOBY-TRAP BOMB KILLS POLICEMAN

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Eight Omaha policemen apparently were lured into a dynamite trap in a vacant house on the city's near North Side today and one was killed and seven hurt.

Lieut. John Bozak said a booby-trapped suitcase on the living room floor of the 2½-storey house in a predominantly Negro section exploded, blowing the house apart.

The slain officer was Larry Minard, who would have been 30 Thursday, Deputy Police Chief Glen Gates said.

Gates said eight policemen were dispatched to the area after a report a woman was screaming.

Heroin Charges Laid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five persons have been charged with trafficking in heroin following a major drug seizure in the Vancouver area.

An RCMP spokesman said the five, including a 16-year-old girl, were arrested during the weekend following a three-month investigation into the activities of "a local syndicate."

HUGE BOMB RAID

U.S. Slams North Viets

SAIGON (AP) — The United States committed its entire Pacific force of B-52 bombers against the new North Vietnam offensive today in the northernmost provinces of South Vietnam.

Nearly 100 of the big bombers dropped some 3,000 tons of bombs on Northern Vietnamese supply and staging areas on both sides of the Laotian border.

The raids were the heaviest in two years in the sector. Informed sources said clouds prevented any accurate assessment of the bomb damage, but several secondary explosions indicated hits on ammunition stores.

The U.S. command ordered the B-52s out in full force after attacks Sunday on seven southern allied bases guarding approaches to the populous coastal lowlands of Quang Tri and Thua Thien provinces.

'COPTERS LOST

The U.S. command also announced that three American helicopters were shot down on the Laotian side of the border Saturday. Headquarters said one American was killed and two are missing.

North Vietnamese gunners late Sunday slammed nearly 200 rounds of rockets, mortars and recoilless rifle shells into five southern allied bases along the so-called demilitarized zone. It was the heaviest attack in that region in more than a year.

At the same time, the North Vietnamese for the eighth day kept up attacks on two bases—O'Reilly and Barnett—some 25 miles south of the DMZ along the Laotian border.

ONE HIT HARD

Casualties and damage were reported light over-all, but one South Vietnamese artillery base four miles south of the DMZ, was hard hit. Seventy rounds from mortars slammed into it, blowing up an ammunition dump. A score or more South Vietnamese troops were killed, and as many more were wounded.

The U.S. command said several Americans were killed in the other shelling attacks.

Informants said there were indications that the attacks on the bases along the DMZ came from the direction of Laos, to the west, rather from inside the buffer zone on the north.

They said they may have been diversionary attacks to screen the movement of troops into the lowlands for

Postmen Strike Again

OTTAWA (CP) — About one-third of the country's 27,000 postal workers were on strike or under suspension today as the Council of Postal Unions turned on the pressure in contract talks.

Mail service, however, was normal in Victoria.

The council negotiating team met with the government's treasury board negotiators for 90 minutes to discuss new positions taken last week, then adjourned "until Wednesday at the latest," a government spokesman said.

Meanwhile, more than 6,000 postal workers from Quebec City to British Columbia were absent on rotating strikes and another 2,000 were under suspension by the post office.

The rotating strikes hit Quebec City, Toronto, London. Ont., Calgary, Edmonton, most of Northern Ontario, northern Alberta and Fort St. John and Dawson Creek, B.C.

Suspended by the post office were 21 Toronto stations and 15 other Ontario points, including Brockville, Smiths Falls, Peterborough, Cobourg and Lindsay, and 30 points in Quebec, including Chicoutimi, Johquiere-Kenogami, Levis, Rimouski, Riviere-du-Loup, Sept-Iles, 'Shawinigan and Trois-Rivieres.

U.S. To Lift Limits On Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has accepted a recommendation that consideration of a tariff system to regulate foreign oil imports be discontinued and that the United States continue instead with efforts to improve the current import quota system, it was announced today.

Included in the recommendations are provisions for an increase in crude oil from Canada above the 395,000 barrels-a-day quota imposed by President Nixon last March.

The recommendation was made by George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, in a letter to Nixon.

FORCE PRICE DOWN

Six months ago a cabinet-level study group on oil import policy recommended that the federal government get out of the business of assigning valuable foreign oil import licences to American oil companies. The group recommended that the 11-year-old quota system be replaced with a system of tariffs on foreign oil.

KING-SIZE air cushion vehicle planned by Boeing Company would be about 100 feet by 50 feet with clear span deck capable of carrying 100 tons of cargo in the frozen wastes of Alaska and the Canadian Arctic. Similar in size to one of the British Hovercraft ferrying cars across the English Channel, the Boeing concept would cruise at about 80 miles an hour. Air cushion vehicles are suited to northern work because they can go almost anywhere without disturbing the environment, which in break-up is at a delicate balance. (AP Wirephoto)

AMC Head In Blast At Critics

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP) — Critics of the automobile industry, and news media coverage of the criticism, have come under the fire of William V. Luneburg, outspoken president of American Motors.

Luneburg, also chairman of the Automobile Manufacturers' Association, delivered his verbal blast at a national press preview of AMC's 1971 cars. He centred his criticism on a proposal by Senator Gaylord Nelson (Dem.—Wis.) that the sale of autos with internal combustion engines be banned after Jan. 1, 1971.

"I can only conclude . . . that the senator has little or no knowledge or automotive design or manufacturing and apparently hasn't taken the trouble to find out," Luneburg said. He added however, that he is "four-square behind the senator's concern with atmospheric pollution."

"It is impossible today to pick up a newspaper or listen to a TV or radio newscast without being exposed to some kind of inflamatory statement about the auto industry and its product," he said. "These attacks are usually accompanied by some demands for virtually instant solutions to problems for wich there is no immediate solution."

Extended Hours Works

By HARRY LORBER

HUNTINGTON, W. VA. (UPI) — "It's gotten so bad," said the man with a chuckle, "that we've had to hire off-duty policemen to go out and direct traffic at 3 a.m."

Coleman Trainer wasn't talking about a race track or an outdoor theatre. He was talking about the bank he heads, First Huntington National Bank, the first bank in West Virginia to offer 24 hour banking service.

The bank president decided to stay open around the clock in the belief that people needing service will visit at any time of the day or night, especially if they're in a community which has three different work shifts.

Trainer says the project has been successful beyond his most optimistic thinking.

"We've picked up 50 per cent more customers since the first week in March when the bank started staying open 24 hours," Trainer said. "We wouldn't think of discontinuing it now."

ALL SERVICES

First Huntington operates only through its drive-in windows after regular hours but offers all services with the exception of making loans. Other than that, a customer can cash a cheque, make deposits and get change.

Naturally, the extended hours put a strain on Trainer's staff. He got around that by hiring college students to man the teller's window on the "graveyard" or midnight to 9 a.m. shift.

Gimmicky as it may sound, round-the-clock banking makes sense in an industrial community such as Huntington. People there go to work at hours that would keep them from banking between the traditional hours of nine to three. Now they can stop in the bank on the way to work at midnight or whatever the hour they go or come from work.

FIRST ONE

It's believed that the first 24-hour bank in the nation was First Virginia Bank in Arlington, Va. which began such an operation on Feb. 2. Spokesmen and both the American Bankers Association and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation said they have heard of "night and day" banks but not 24-hour banks. Both also cautioned that "there may be one or two we haven't heard of."

John Deeney, First Virginia's assistant manager, said its new operation is so successful the bank plans to make it permanent.

"We've been averaging 2,000 more persons a week," he said.

First Virginia draws customers from the District of Columbia. Many government workers stop in to bank around 5 a.m. on their way to work. Deeney said the bank also has attracted new customers "from all walks of life."

First Virginia also had personnel problems connected with the changeover to a 24-hour schedule. Like the Huntington bank, it solved them by hiring college students on a part-time basis.

"The kids are great," said Deeney. "They enjoy the work. They work well. And it doesn't interfere with our regular employes' days off."

Both banks said well-lighted drive-up windows eliminated security problems.

New Book Describes Mutual Weaknesses

NEW YORK (WP) — Back in the 1920's, when a group of people in Boston founded the Massachusetts Investors Trust and brought the mutual fund idea to the U.S., the idea was to give small investors a vehicle for investing in a broad range of diversified stocks.

A new study of the funds and their value both to investors and the stock market points to a rather sobering conclusion: the MIT people wereright, but the wrinkles added by promoters have take away much of their value.

The book is "Mutual Funds and Other Institutional Investors," published by McGraw-Hill and written by three University of Pennsylvania professors under the sponsorship of the Twentieth Century Fund.

The book itself doesn't criticize the fund operators, but moving on from its conclusions, it's hard to avoid pointing the finger.

For example, the study says that, from January, 1960, through June, 1968, the annual rate of return — that includes dividends and capital gains — of 136 funds studied was 10.7 per cent. During the same period, an equal investment in all the stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange would have returned 12.4 per cent a year. If that isn't enough to make a fund manager wonder why he bothers to go to work, nothing is.

Having established the fact that fund managers really don't know any more than the rest of us, the study points out some areas where they may actually exert a negative influence on the fortunes of their shareholders.

Trade Association Cancels Meeting

Pacific Northwest Trade Association, which held its 1969 fall conference in Victoria, has cancelled the 1970 meeting which was to be held in Prince George.

The association, based in Seattle and representing a half-dozen states and provinces, said the executive committee decided "with regret, owing to circumstances beyond our control" to cancel the conference set for Sept. 27-29 at Inn of the North.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPG (CP) — All futures closed higher at the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today following a day of heavy trading and erratic prices.

Rapeseed futures led the way, closing as much as 15 cents above previous close levels. Heavy trading in the final hour pushed the prices up an additional 10 cents from the mid-session figures which were about four cents higher than the previous close.

The heaviest trading was in barley where the amount sold was estimated at up to 8-million bushels.

CHICAGO (AP) — The possibility of a corn crop scarcity in the old time tradition sent five commodity futures to limit advances on the Board of Trade.

Soybean and wheat futures advanced the limit of 10 cents; corn a limit 8 cents; oats a limit 6 cents and soybean meal a limit of $5 a ton.

Trade was active at the opening with limit bids in the corn and oats pits and at this pint trade stopped because there were no sellers for buyers.

SILVER DOUBLE SETS TRACK MARK

VANCOUVER — Silver Double, who ended a streak of 11 straight races without a victory by winning the Vancouver Handicap on Aug. 8, cracked an Exhibition Park record Saturday as he captured the $7,000-added Sun Stakes.

Silver Double, a four-year-old, California-bred gelding, covered the mile and one-eighth in 1:49 3-5 to clip three-fifths of a second off the track record set by Costa Rica in 1965 as he beat King Import by three lengths.

Love Your Host was third with Regal Jingle fourth and Charlie Cheri last. With only five horses starting, betting was restricted to win and place. Silver Double, under Jim Broomfield, paid $6.10 and $3.60.

Saturday's results at Exhibition Park and Del Mar, v friCl.

Centralia Nips Nanaimo In 11 Innings

CENTRALIA, Wash. — After forcing the game into extra-innings, Centralia defeated Nanaimo, 10-9, Saturday to capture the Pacific Northwest Babe Ruth baseball championship and advance to the World Series to be played at Brawley, Calif., starting Friday.

Centralia needed only one win against the Canadians to capture the double-loss-elimination tournament and remained undefeated in four straight games. Nanaimo had previously lost one game.

The B.C. representatives took a 5-1 lead with a five-run second-inning surge and moved back in front, 9-5, with four runs in the sixth frame after Centralia had tied the score in the fifth.

SCORES ON SACRIFICE

Three runs in the bottom half of the sixth and another in the seventh earned a tie for Centralia at the end of the regulation seven innings.

A sacrifice bunt by Terry Stamper with the bases loaded in the 11th enabled winning-pitcher Nelson to score the winning run.

Plagued by control trouble throughout the game, Nanaimo's Brad Richardson struck out eight Centralia batters.

In the other semi-final match, Cowichan advanced to the Sept. 12 final with an eight-wicket win over Oak Bay at Shawnigan Lake Boys' School.

Although Alec Porter batted for 25 runs and Don Hughes added 22, Albions were all out for 89 as Joe Armstrong (four wickets for 35 runs) and Neville Askew (three for 33) spearheaded the Alco bowling attack.

With George Payne scoring 26, not out, and Mike Todd and Lou Heppenstall contributing 19 and 14, Alcoes ran up 90 runs while losing only five wickets.

Oak Bay collected 119 for nine at the completion of their 32 overs behind the scoring of Jack Sparks (46 runs), Paddy Gillespie (20) and Bernie Reay (14, not out).

CLARKE SCORES 63

Peter Clarke, with 63, not out, and Brett Davis, 20, not out, then led Cowichan to 120 for two in 24 overs. Allister Murray captured five Oak Bay wickets for 25 runs.

In a friendly match on Sunday Castaways scored a four-wicket victory over Simon Fraser University at Beacon Hill.

Led by Tony Naylor's 72 runs, SFU reached 156, all out. Castaways then passed the SFU total for a loss of six wickets.

Peter Richardson scored 63 runs to pace Castaways while Mick Walton toppled four SFU wickets for 24 runs.

NAILS ARE GOOD

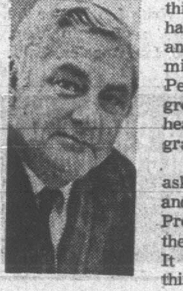
Take a Hammer And Hit Smartly

By Jack Scott

We've had this weekend of furious building, adding a room to the Salt Spring cottage known as "Offhand Manor", which is no more precious than any other cottage name along our shore, and this accounts for the fact that I would like to say a few words today about nails.

We take nails so much for granted, don't we? We take string for granted, too, and that's a pity though I'm not a fanatic about it since we're not using much string in building the new room.

But supposing the nail had just been invented, let's say by some mad, eccentric inventor we can think of as Thomas Alva Nail. Supposing, again, that we had always stuck things together with glue so that almost everything was wobbly and coming apart and you had to stick wadded paper under the legs and it was all driving people out of their minds. So: Along came The Nail, Pat. Pending. Why, it would be acclaimed as the greatest thing since Fire or The Wheel and, heaven only knows, we take them for granted, too.



Scott

"Have you tried The Nail?" men would ask other men. "It's got glue licked a mile and you don't get it all over your hands." Pretty soon everybody would be using them.

It isn't just the nail is so good at holding things together and so simple to apply — just strike smartly on the head — but that it is so incredibly versatile. Well, string is, too, as you say, but let's not keep on about string or we'll never get out to play.

There are tiny little nails used by grizzled craftsmen, wearing rimless glasses, holding a supply in their mouths and hardly ever swallowing any, to fasten together exquisite, dainty things.

There are great big spikes, long as your arm, some of them, sledge-hammered into massive timbers by huge, hairy, grunting men who chew Cophenhagen and speak only when spoken to.

★ ★ ★

Yet they are all, basically, The Nail and there's no getting away from it.

Nails seldom vary in shape — come to think of it, they never vary in shape — but there are so many sizes that, more often than not, when you are putting a room on a cottage, you find yourself with every size but the right one and have to go down to the hardware store and somebody invites you out fishing and your wife stops speaking to you, all for want of a nail.

Whatever their size, all nails are satisfying to use. Unlike glue or, for that matter, string, nails make a splendid, even a thrilling sound when they are applied as directed. This sound never loses its appeal to man from the age when he first picks up daddy's hammer and hits his little brother.

I can remember the experience on the last day of the Israel-Arab six-day in the Jordan Valley. The sound of hammering echoed against the dust-green hills as the people in the Kibbutzim began rebuilding. I'll never forget it. As an audible symbol of peace — though a sadly temporary peace, as it turned out — it beat marching bands all hollow.

Even along our own stretch of tidewater, so noisy these days with outboard motors and gas saws and other destroyers of tranquility, the hard, flat crack of hammer on nail makes a kind of music as natural to the setting as the pneumatic drill of the red-headed woodpecker.

I know that when I hammer there are six neighbors, at least, within a two-mile radius — people who freely venture the opinion that I'm kin to the three-toed sloth — who must pause for reassessment.

★ ★ ★

A man with a hammer, using it to build shelter for his loved ones, can claim a certain nobility. If I were using glue or string they would never know how truly fine I am.

The nail, moreover, is adaptable to any mood of man.

A man at peace with his world, for example, can whack away at nails, whistling or singing "The Darktown Strutters' Ball" or any other good nail-hammering tune and expand his sense of well-being.

On the other hand, a man with worries and frustrations can take them out on nails, viciously driving them home until, like magic, he has pounded his way to sanity and serenity. Don't beat your wife or your little brother, I always say. Beat a nail.

None of this can qualify, of course, as an original discovery. "Hitting the nail on the head" has been a description of exactitude and perfection clear back to the Bible. Shakespeare, Rabelais and Cervantes all used it for want of a better cliche.

Not one of them, so far as I can recall, ever mentioned string or glue and that is the thought I'd like to leave with you.

Legal, Medical Advice Is Free

Victoria's first free legal and medical clinic will open Tuesday at 8 p.m. in First United Church Hall, near Quadra and Balmoral.

A doctor and laywer will be on hand to dispense help to anyone who needs it, old or young, poor, or just afraid of established services in Victoria.

The clinic was set up by Greg Welsh of the YM-YWCA, with a $2,000 grant from the federal department of health and welfare, Victoria's share of a $200,000 grant to the national YMCA. The money is to be used for "backup services."

EMERGENCIES

Most of the money is in a contingency fund, to be used for filling prescriptions for those who can't pay, and other emergencies that crop up.

The clinic will help persons who have troubles with landlords, vagrancy laws, trol, bad dope, bad diet, venereal disease, birth control, chronic ailments and any other legal or medical problem.

"And at least one psychiatrist is really interested in the clinic," said Welsh.

CHRONIC AILMENTS

He expects the clinic will be used mainly by persons with chronic ailments, young people seeking treatment for venereal disease, transients in need of help and persons "just out of touch with how to get help."

"A lot of people are afraid of established agencies, such as the venereal disease service, whether they should be or not, and with this clinic they should know there's nothing to be afraid of," said Welsh.

Welsh said the federal money was granted for the summer months, ending in September. Victoria YMCA didn't receive the money until mid-July.

"However, we want to keep it running. We're looking for ways to keep it going after the federal money runs out," said Welsh.

NO ARBUTUS FOR ARBUTUS

New School 'Blocked Off' for Efficiency

The two inner courtyards have garry oaks, not arbutus trees, growing in them but this is probably the only oversight at the new Arbutus junior secondary school at 2306 Edgelow.

And principal Donald Smith explained that it may not have been an oversight as the arbutus is difficult to transplant.

Smith will head a staff of 27 when the $1,500,000 school opens to an expected 600 students Sept. 8.

The former Esquimalt junior secondary school principtal showed newsmen some new features that sets the school apart from most.

It is designed in two blocks joined by a covered breezeway, one block containing administrative offices, classrooms, science and industrial laboratories and the other housing the gymnasium-auditorium, lunchroom, and music and art rooms.

The advantage, Smith explained, is that the gymn complex can be used as a community centre in the evening without disrupting classroom use.

"It can be opened without the rest of the school being opened," he said.

The classrooms are built square rather than in the conventional oblong shape giving pupils at the back of the room a greater sense of belonging.

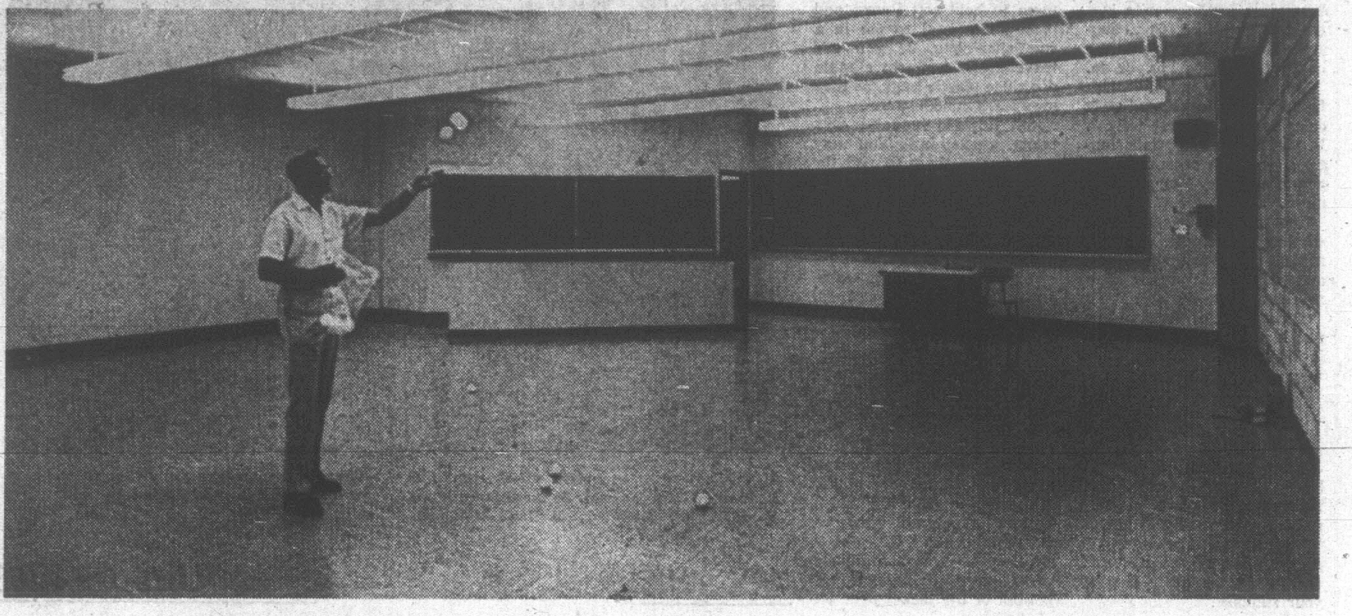
Smith pointed out the lack of windows in the classrooms. There is only one set instead of the usual string across the outside wall.

A movable notice board can be slid across the window effectively blacking out the classroom for film use.

The four science labs are built surrounding a preparation room where teachers can set up experiments or demonstrations and move them to any one of the labs.

The library fronts on one of the inner courtyards and Smith expects students to wander into the open-air enclosures to read during good weather.

Students may venture into the courtyards trying to guess why oak trees are planted there.



Principal Donald Smith in the science lab shows what goes up must come down

Fluoride Test Plan Before Board

The Greater Victoria school board will be asked tonight for approval of a two-year fluoride-testing program involving about 1,000 Grade 5 students.

The program, to begin this fall, would be a three-way study by the school board dental department, the provincial department of health, and the Warner-Lambert Research Institute.

Warner-Lambert would supply the mouthwash preparations, toothpaste and toothbrushes to the participants and the health department would have people available to operate x-rays as well as keep classrooms supplied with the necessary materials.

Each participating student would rinse his mouth once a day with the fluoride preparation that is being tested for its decay-preventing potential.

Dental examinations of each student would be conducted before and after the study and the results would be corelated with the type of mouthwash used.

MAN, 32, DIES IN BIKE MISHAP

Funeral services will be held Wednesday, for Frank Alfred Veness, 32, of 3060 Albina who died Saturday following a motorcycle accident on Long Beach early Saturday morning.

The funeral will take place at 1:15 p.m. at McCall's Funeral Chapel.

Ucluelet RCMP say the accident occurred about 3 a.m. when the motorcycle Veness was driving struck a log on the beach. Veness was thrown to the ground and suffered severe head injuries.

He was taken to Tofino Hospital where he died at 2:45 p.m.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Veness of 3060 Albina, and two sisters, Mrs. Jean Smith of Victoria and Mrs. Mavis Leet of Thunder Bay.

An inquiry will be conducted by Ucluelet coroner M. K. Saxton.

200 Protests Over Bus Cut

More than 200 protests have been filed with the motor carrier branch of the Public Utilities Commission over the planned termination of bus service to the Saanich Peninsula, a branch spokesman said today.

Today was the deadline for making the protests. Vancouver Island Coach Lines has applied to end its service to Cordova Bay, West Saanich and Sidney-Deep Cove Sept. 15 claiming losses of more than $100 a year.

However, the public Utilities Commission can postpone the deadline if it feels it needs more time to make a decision.

The commission can call a public heading, although it is not required to and generally doesn't.

In the meantime, Saanich council is to consider a report at its meeting tonight regarding a franchise between VICL and the municipality.

A municipal spokesman said a 20-year franchise was signed in 1947 and renewed for five years ending in 1972. Under the terms of the franchise, none of the bus routes could be reduced or abandoned without VICL seeking agreement with council.

Strike Rejected In Sawmill Vote

Negotiations between the Victoria local of the International Woodworkers of America and B.C. Forest Products will resume this week as a result of a membership vote Sunday against strike action.

A vote in favor of strike action would have shut down the company's Point Ellice sawmill, Victoria sawmill and Victoria plywood division. About 1,000 employees are involved.

However, the union executive at a special meeting Saturday recommended there be no strike at this time.

★

Negotiations between the local union and BCFP are held separately from coast master-agreement talks, and concern matters not included in the master agreements.

Out of a total of 24 items originally under discussion there were apparently only two — both related to Victoria sawmill — on which the two sides failed to agree at their last meeting Thursday.

The union is asking that the barker operator at the sawmill get $3.86 an hour, while the company wants to hold the wage at $3.57. The union claims the barker operator at another BCFP operation is already receiving $3.86.

★

The union is also asking that workers loading barges get longshoreman rates, and has argued that IWA members at Tahsis get longshoreman rates when loading deep-sea vessels.

The point is that longshoremen — who unload the barges, which is considered easier work — get $1 an hour more than IWA workers.

IWA president Murrary Drew commented:

"We're not asking this company to set any pattern — all we're asking is that they pay us what they're already paying elsewhere."

'Public Should Speak' On Wharf Proposal

The city has been urged to give Victoria citizens an opportunity to say what they think about the proposed $25 million urban renewal project on Wharf Street.

Ald. Peter Pollen said at the weekend it was essential Victorians be given an opportunity to express their views on such whether they be arterial roads or Inner harbor developments.

He was disturbed that the city is seeking financial support from federal and provincial governments for the large Wharf Street hotel development without first consulting the people.

The project is proposed by Reid Properties Ltd. of Vancouver.

PERFECT EXAMPLE

"This is a perfect example of an urban renewal concept being discussed by all level of governments without formally presenting it to the public," he said. "It is essential for citizens to speak on such matters if they are not going to be alienated from traditional government processes."

Pollen said there were two philosophies for the development of the Inner-Harbor.

One advocated covering the foreshore with commercial development, interspersed with access to the water.

The other took in consideration what would be required for a high density population in downtown Viodoria in 20 years.

'DEHUMANIZING'

Pollen is in favor of the latter.

"We can go the San Francisco or European way," he said. "We are building dehumanizing environments which North America is now infamous for."

He said the city had not yet planned anything for the James Bay area which would have a population ranging between 15,000 and 20,000 in 20 years.

"What we need around our waterfront is space for recreation and mental relaxation," he said.

People should be consulted about these two philosophies," he added. "If they want to build, build and build . . . that's their affair. I think it is wrong, but at least they would have been given a choice.

School Freeze 'Disappointing'

Greater Victoria school board chairman, Carron Jameson, expressed disappointment at the provincial government's decision to restrict school construction for another year.

He was referring to statements of Education Minister Donald Brothers last week while on tour with the provincial cabinet in the Interior.

MARKETS TIGHT

Brothers was quoted as saying that money markets are still as tight as ever and interest rates have not come down. School construction restrictions would, therefore, remain in effect for another year.

Jameson said he was "very disappointed" as the board had intended to go ahead with projects already stopped by the freeze.

He said the board has executed about 60 to 65 per cent of the three-year school referendum adopted by ratepayers in 1967.

Man Fined For Taking To Pistol

A man who obtained a loaded Browning automatic pistol following a family spat with his mother-in-law was fined a total of $200 in provincial court this morning.

Everett Bell, 27, of 960 Snowdrop, pleaded guilty to charges of possession of a restricted weapon and possession of a firearm without valid registration.

Court was told he obtained the weapon from a friend after dropping his mother-in-law and wife on a shopping trip. He loaded it with a clip and 11 rounds of ammunition.

Following an encounter with his father-in-law, Bell took the pistol and hid it in Goldstream Park.

Defence counsel George Jones told Judge William Ostler that Bell realized the gravity of "a stupid and foolish action."

RCMP PRESS BODY SEARCH

Police are continuing the search for a passenger reported overboard from B.C. ferry, Queen of Saanich, Saturday night.

Ganges RCMP said today three police boats are patrolling the area where the unidentified man was reported missing about 9:45 p.m. Saturday in Active Pass.

Beer Cans Now Returnable But Early Business Slack

Returnable beer cans are expected to flow into bottle exchange and brewer's warehouses later this week, officials said today.

This morning, Victoria Bottle Exchange had received only two dozen cans while Pacific Brewers' Warehousing hadn't got any.

Government liquor stores started to charge 25 cents deposit Saturday on 12-pack cases of beer in cans and 12 cents on six packs. The deposit is refundable when cans are returned to bottle exchanges or brewer's warehouses. The returned cans will be destroyed.

Under new anti-litter legislation, empty cans are worth the same refund as returned beer bottles. Limit is 18 cans from one person per day.

SPECIALLY MARKED

Cans now being sold are specially marked with the letters BCO.

Imported beer sold in non-returnable bottles now are subject to the deposit which will be refunded when the bottles are returned. Domestic beer is bottled in returnable bottles.

Two junk dealers on the mainland weren't enthusiastic about paying a refund for cans as well as bottles.

Officials of Empire Junk Company said packing beer bottles is a lot of trouble and imagined beer cans would be the same while Atlantic Metal Company said they "certainly won't be looking for beer cans but if they come in, then I guess we'll have to accept them."

Potential For Uvic Is 'Great'

By ELIZABETH FORBES

According to Prof. Ernest John Knapton, a former Victorian now living in the eastern United States, there are three ways to judge the worth of a university — in its buildings, its faculty and its library. Using those yardsticks at University of Victoria he says, "it's young by university standards but it has great possibilities.

"I like the buildings factulty leads me to believe it is excellent and the library is outstanding. It has a spendid collection, expecially amongst rare books."

* * *

Then he adds a personal note. "I've been boasting a bit, and telling everyone that I know or have known five of the educationalists whose names appear on certain buildings on campus — Corett, Clearihue, Maclaurin, Elliott and Sedgwick."

Prof Knapton (Jack to Victoria friends) has just completed a summer term at Uvic teaching European history to an advanced student class.

At the same time he's been visiting his sisters, Mrs. Stan Holman and Miss Kathleen Knapton and renewing many old friendships.

Today, with his wife Jocelyn and younger son David, he left for Vancouver "to spend a few days." No doubt to renew acquaintance with University of British Columbia where he earned his B.A. in 1925, from where he was named a Rhodes Scholar, 1925-28, and where he was a summer lecturer in 1954.

* * *

Then the family trio will head east to Montreal and New York en route to a Cape Cod beach in Massachusetts, where they expect to live permanently from now on.

"While I was teaching and the children were growing up (there is an older son Christopher and a daughter Rosalind) we used the Cape Cod place as a vacation place. Now I am retired, we're going to make it a year-round home."

Retirement has come to Prof. Knapton after more than 40 year of academic life in which he has been summer lecturer and visiting professor at several universities including Washington, Brown and Harvard, and for 38 years a faculty member of Wheaton College in Norton, Massachusetts, first as instructor to professor. then head of the department of history and finally, visiting professor emeritus.

* * *

In addition to this busy career he has written four books, printed in both United States and Great Britain, that are considered preferred reading for students of European history.

A Guggenheim Fellowship of $7,000 in 1966, gave him the opportunity to spend a year in France to gather material for the Napoleon book.

Mrs. Knapton types her husband's books and according to him "she is also a splendid critic."

Sitting back in a comfortable chair in the Holman living room, Jack Knapton went back in memory almost 50 years, the other night, to reminisce about days when he was a student at Victoria High School, editor of the school magazine The Camosun, a member of the debating society and the drama club.

* * *

"One year we presented The Merchant of Venice with Bruce Hutchison as Shylock and a good-looking, fair-haired girl named Palmer, as Portia."

If the debating society was going into action, Hutchison would lead the team down to see Benny Nicholas, then editor of this newspaper.

"We'd go in after the paper was out of the way, tell Benny the subject for debate, then sit back and scribble notes while he talked . . . that was a long time ago."

It's a long time ago too, since a young Jack Knapton thrilled rugby crowds of his youth, as a member of the Oak Bay Wanderers. "I was in the scrum," is all he will say about that now.

Would he like to return to Victoria to live? H shakes his head in a decided negative.

"We'll always come back to visit, but all our retirement plans are centered at Cape Cod. I'll write part of the time but I also intend to spend a lot of hours on the beach just digging for clams."

Spill Lingers

STETTLER, Alta. (CP) — Waterfowl killed by an oil spill several weeks ago are still being found, Bill Melnyk of Big Valley, who owns the lands on which the Gulf Oil Canada Ltd. pipeline sprung a leak, said Sunday.

He said the pipeline, which has affected about 150 birds, was repaired two weeks ago but "it will take a long time to clean up the spilled oil."

The line runs from a battery installation to the main Edmonton-to-Drumheller pipeline.

The leak allowed oil to run from the line into a creek about 40 feet away but it did not run far down the creek, Melnyk said. Part of it was burned away.

Woman Held

SASKATOON (CP) — Police are holding a woman in custody in connection with a $10,000 bank robbery last Monday.

Police said the woman, whose name was withheld, was arrested in St. Brieux, Sask., Friday.

A man and possibly a third person were still being sought.

A man and woman entered a Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce branch in Saskatoon and escaped after threatening to shoot a female customer. It was Saskatoon's third bank robbery in the last 10 years.

Approach Wrong

REGINA (CP) — The chairman on the Senate Committee on Poverty today said Canada should take a positive approach to the question of a guaranteed annual minimum income.

Senator David Croll of Ontario, speaking to about 20 people who gathered in a downtown public library for the committee's opening hearing in Saskatchewan, said:

"The minimum income concept is being introduced to the welfare system by the back door, the worst way. The minimum standard of income has to come through the front door."

Senator Croll, whose special committee began work one and a half years ago on problems of poor people, said, "It isn't enough to send a cheque. These people need services and opportunities."

He said the present welfare system, designed in the 1930s, is outmoded. There was a question whether it should be modified or scrapped and replaced with a new package.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

A weather disturbance over the Panhandle and approaching the Charlottes kept cloud and showers over most of the north coast region through the night. Elsewhere skies were essentially clear though patches of cloud were evident especially throughout the central interior. The disturbance will weaken steadily as it moves southward with cloud and a few showers reaching the central region later today. Elsewhere under the influence of higher pressure, skies will be sunny today and Tuesday through showers are expected to persist in the north coast today. Another more active system now over the Aleutian chain will bring more rain to the Charlottes Tuesday. Temperatures will show a few degrees warming in the interior today except for the Kootenays where maximums will be much cooler than yesterday.

The Weather and You

By Carl Riblet Jr.

Although I would rather not be in a swimming pool when lightening is striking all around, it does help my peace of mind to know that I am as safe in the pool, if lightening should strike, as is a bird on a high tension wire when a bolt hits the wire.

We like to play it safe and shoo swimmers out of pools when thunderstorms appear. It really isn't necessary, although it is better to be indoors in a storm where you are certain you will be safe from a thunderbolt.

If you see children playing around the shore of a lake during a lightning bombardment, chase them indoors, because it is indeed dangerous for them to be playing there — although it is just as dangerous to be playing or walking in a meadow, for example, during a storm.

In a swimming pool, the swimmer's head is way down lower than the light poles, the trees and the houses around the pool. The swimmer won't get hurt if lightning strikes the water because he is like that bird on the high tension aire. He isn't grounded.

B.C. ROUNDUP

New Fisheries Act Tries 'Polluter'

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Columbia Cellulose Co. Ltd. was charged Saturday with discharging polluting effluent into Wainwright Basin, East of its Watson Island pulp mill near here.

The charge, laid under the federal Fisheries Act, alleges the company unlawfully "deposited a deleterious substance in water frequented by fish" between July 23 and Aug. 14.

The charge was laid on the basis of information sworn by fishery protection officer J. W. Connor of Prince Rupert. It was sworn before provincial court judge D. W. F. Ward. No date was set for a hearing.

The Watson Island plant was closed due to labor disputes from May 19 to July 22. Fisheries inspectors began monitoring the adjacent waters after production resumed.

Fisheries minister Jack Davis said last week that the company would be charged under the revised Fisheries Act, which gives the minister expanded powers to act against alleged polluters.

Maximum fine is $5,000.

In Vancouver Friday, Colcel president G. W. Scrimshaw announced the firm has started legal action against DuPont of Canada Ltd., which supplied an effluent pipeline for the Watson Island mill.

The suit alleges breach of contract, breach of warranty and negligence, he said. Scrimshaw said the pipeline was installed as part of the mill's effluent disposal system.

Warehouses Burn

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Damage was estimated at $250,000 Saturday in a fire which destroyed two warehouses in an industrial subdivision on the Kamloops Indian Reserve.

Roy Turner, owner of one of the buildings, protested that the Kamloops Fire Department ref sed to answer calls for help. This was on orders of city council, which has no fire agreement with the reserve.

Soviets Send Craft to Venus

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union fired an unmanned rocket ship toward Venus today on a four-month voyage to explore the hot and hostile atmosphere of earth's closest planetary neighbor.

The official Tass news agency said the probe, named Venus 7, began its journey at 8:38 a.m. Moscow time (1:38 a.m. EDT), broke free of earth's gravity and began the long coast to intercept Venus as it makes a close approach to earth later this year.

It was the first major Soviet space exploration attempt since June, when cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastianov spent more than 18 days in space, longer than any other men on a single flight.

The last Soviet probe of another planet was in May, 1969, when Venus 5 and Venus 6 penetrated the dense atmosphere of Venus a day apart and radioed back information during "smooth descents" of nearly an hour. The Soviets did not say if those two ships made soft landings.

The Venus 7 ship was launched today to "continue the exploration of the planet Venus," Tass said. The announcement contained nothing to indicate whether Venus 7 will attempt a soft landing.

The Tass announcement did say, however, that "Venus 7 is an improved version of the previous stations of this type."

The information radioed to earth by probes 5 and 6 gave evidence of an environment far more hostile than scientists had believed.

The instruments on the ships measured an atmosphere made up mostly of carbon dioxide and simmering in temperatures of 1,400 degrees.

Truce Breaks Continuing, Israel Says

Times News Services

JERUSALEM — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban charged today Egypt is continuing missile movements in the Suez Canal area in violation of the Middle East ceasefire.

At the same time, Eban accused the United States of failing to acknowledge Israeli evidence of these movements.

U.S. Supplied With Evidence

At a news conference, Eban said Israel has provided the U.S. government, as author and guarantor of the ceasefire, with "precisely defined" evidence of Egyptian violations.

Referring to comments by U.S. Defence Secretary Melvin Laird Sunday that it was not possible to determine whether a ceasefire violation actually occurred because missiles may have been in when the ceasefire went into effect at midnight Aug. 7, Eban said:

"Israel has lodged complaints showing transgressions took place not only immediately after the ceasefire, but continue to be made."

Laird's remarks, made in a television interview, are expected to set the tone for the official U.S. response to the Israeli charges.

'Stop Complaining and Talk'

The U.S. wants Israel to stop complaining of ceasefire violations and start peace negotiations with the Arabs.

In Washington, Israeli cabinet minister Shimon Peres said Sunday he was sure the Israeli cabinet would await U.S. reaction to Israel's claim of cease-fire violations before taking further action.

Peres said later he was not aware of Laird's statement that "I don't believe it serves a useful purpose to have a long public debate as to what went on 12 hours before or 12 hours after the cease-fire."

Saturday, Israeli State Radio interpreted statements by an Israeli foreign ministry official as meaning that Israel would delay appointment of a representative to Mid-east peace talks because of truce violations.

Eban Cites Three Violations

Eban cited these alleged violations:

- Last Thursday material on "grave violations" shortly after the time of the ceasefire was passed on to the United Nations and the United States. At this time "a considerable number of ground-to-air missiles" were moved forward by the Egyptians.
- On the same day one other missile battery was deployed. A map reference was provided to the United Nations on this second complaint.
- On Sunday, construction was observed taking place at five spots which were empty before.

Eban expressed belief Laird was not in possession of the latest Israeli material when he made his statement Sunday. Eban stressed that he thought Laird's words were not a "final verdict."

The foreign minister added: "There is no crisis between Jerusalem and Washington . . . There is a frank discussion."

He said it was important for Israel and the United States to "establish the facts together."

Affects Peace Effort Climate

Eban said a larger issue is "the degree of validity and credence to be given to Soviet and Egyptian assurances" that they would abide by the ceasefire agreement. These were bound to have an effect on the climate of the present peace effort, he said.

Eban said there is still material being transmitted to Washington containing Israel's evidence of the ceasefire violations and it is "impossible for me to believe we won't reach a common understanding."

Eban said he didn't know what could be done to bring about a removal of the missiles, but he said Israel at least expected a "frank acknowledgement" from Washington that indeed violations were taking place.

Commenting on the delay in negotiations under UN peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, Eban suggested this was caused by Israel's "urgent preoccupation" with the ceasefire issue and Arab refusal to appoint foreign ministers as their representatives to the talks.

Reports published in Jerusalem said some Washington quarters believe Israel is exploiting the allegations

RECORD RAINS flooding Northern Ireland have cooled off rioters' tempers and forced British soldiers, sent to Ireland to control the political-religious disorders, to turn their attention to flood relief work. Above, a U.K. soldier helps an Irish policeman move stalled auto from a Belfast street.

Belfast Floods Cool Rioters

BELFAST (AP) — Nineteen hours of torrential rain and Belfast's worst flood in 30 years brought a weekend halt to Roman Catholic-Protestant riots and changed British troops from enemies to heroes, at least temporarily.

Rescue operations replaced street battles as hundreds of families were evacuated from their homes. More than 1,000 British soldiers laid down their guns to toil for hours in the swirling waters.

No casualties were reported, but damage estimates ran as high as $2.5 million.

The Catholic Falls Road district was hardest hit.

As the cleanup got under way today, both Protestants and Roman Catholics praised the soldiers who the previous weekend were targets of bricks, bottles and such epithets as "Gestapo swine."

"We've had nothing but kind words," said an army spokesman.

Outside Belfast, high water cut major roads isolated several villages. Soldiers rescued trapped families in Strabe and Londonderry, and an army boat saved 50 sheep from a flood near the River Foyle.

Plumbers Picket Firms —But Claim No Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plumbers set up picket lines at three Vancouver area contracting firms today, but union officials said there was no work stoppage.

Members of Local 170 of the Plumbers, Pipefitters and Steamfitters Union carried signs saying "On Strike" as they walked in front of offices of Boulevard Plumbing and Heating Ltd., Anderson Plumbing and Heating Ltd., and Westgate. Mechanical Contractors Ltd.

But they said that between 20 and 30 union plumbers employed by the three companies reported for work today at jobs being done at sites outside the plants.

The provincial government has said strike action would be illegal.

The pickets said they were protesting a suspension of contract negotiations last week after the union had rejected a settlement proposal made by deputy labor minister William Sands, acting as a special mediator in a dispute that closed down the construction industry for three months.

But Charles Connaghan, president of the Construction Labor Relations Association, which bargains for 600 building contractors, said today the CLRA has always been available to negotiate.

Union spokesman Jack Fisher had said Sunday the plumbers would picket the three firms even if they decided to resume negotiations.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson has warned that a strike or lockout would be illegal, leaving unions or firms liable to fines of up to $10,000 and individuals liable to fines of up to $1,000.

"We can strike at 7:30 a.m. today," said Fisher.

"That's when our 72-hour strike notice expires. There will be a strike even if we get notice of negotiations." If the union does not receive notice of negotiations, he said, all plumbing contractors who are members of the CLRA also would be struck.

Missile Fired

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Poseidon missile today was fired from underwater for the second time, streaking aloft one hour and 16 minutes behind schedule from the nuclear submarine James Madison.

OUT TO SEA goes the LeBaron Russell Briggs, loaded with its cargo of nerve gas rockets in canisters, on the way to a point 282 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla., where it will be scuttled in 16,000 feet of water. BOOBY-TRAP BOMB KILLS POLICEMAN

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Eight Omaha policemen apparently were lured into a dynamite trap in a vacant house on the city's near North Side today and one was killed and seven hurt.

Lieut. John Bozak said a booby-trapped suitcase on the living room floor of the 2½-storey house in a predominantly Negro section exploded, blowing the house apart.

The slain officer was Larry Minard, who would have been 30 Thursday, Deputy Police Chief Glen Gates said.

Gates said eight policemen were dispatched to the area after a report a woman was screaming.

'RUN BY QUEBEC'

ROBSON, B.C. (CP) — An angry Premier Bennett says Canada is being run by "a Quebec government."

Bennett, in a weekend interview after he officially opened the Yellowhead highway linking British Columbia and Alberta, said the federal government gives only token financial support to B.C. highways, while giving revenue from B.C. taxpayers to Quebec, which is almost as rich in resources as B.C.

HUGE BOMB RAIDS

U.S. Slams North Viets

SAIGON (AP) — The United States committed its entire Pacific force of B-52 bombers against the new North Vietnam offensive today in the northernmost provinces of South Vietnam.

Nearly 100 of the big bombers dropped some 3,000 tons of bombs on Northern Vietnamese supply and staging areas on both sides of the Laotian border.

The raids were the heaviest in two years in the sector. Informed sources said clouds prevented any accurate assessment of the bomb damage, but several secondary explosions indicated hits on ammunition stores.

The U.S. command ordered the B-52s out in full force after attacks Sunday on seven southern allied bases guarding approaches to the populous coastal lowlands of Quang Tri and Thua Thien provinces.

'COPTERS LOST

The U.S. command also announced that three American helicopters were shot down on the Laotian side of the border Saturday. Headquarters said one American was killed and two are missing.

North Vietnamese gunners late Sunday slammed nearly 200 rounds of rockets, mortars and recoilless rifle shells into five southern allied bases along the so-called demilitarized zone. It was the heaviest attack in that region in more than a year.

At the same time, the North Vietnamese for the eighth day kept up attacks on two bases—O'Reilly, and Barnett—some 25 miles south of the DMZ along the Laotian border.

ONE HIT HARD

Casualties and damage were reported light over-all, but one South Vietnamese artillery base four miles south of the DMZ was hard hit. Seventy rounds from mortars slammed into it, blowing up an ammunition dump. A score or more South Vietnamese troops were killed, and as many more were wounded.

The U.S. command said several Americans were killed in the other shelling attacks.

Informants said there were indications that the attacks on the bases along the DMZ came from the direction of Laos, to the west, rather from inside the buffer zone on the north.

They said they may have been diversionary attacks to screen the movement of troops into the lowlands for

Postmen Strike Again

OTTAWA (CP) — About one-third of the country's 27,000 postal workers were on strike or under suspension today as the Council of Postal Unions turned on the pressure in contract talks.

Mail service, however, was normal in Victoria.

The council negotiating team met with the government's treasury board negotiators for 90 minutes to discuss new positions taken last week, then adjourned "until Wednesday at the latest," a government spokesman said.

Meanwhile, more than 6,000 postal workers from Quebec City to British Columbia were absent on rotating strikes and another 2,000 were under suspension by the post office.

The rotating strikes hit Quebec City, Toronto, London, Ont., Calgary, Edmonton, most of Northern Ontario, northern Alberta and Fort St. John and Dawson Creek, B.C.

Suspended by the post office were 21 Toronto stations and 15 other Ontario points, including Brockville, Smiths Falls, Peterborough, Cobourg and Lindsay, and 30 points in Quebec, including Chicoutimi, Jonquiere - Kenogami, Levis, Rimouski, Riviere-du-Loup, Sept-Iles, Shawinigan and Trois-Rivieres.

U.S. To Lift Limits On Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has accepted a recommendation that consideration of a tariff system to regulate foreign oil imports be discontinued and that the United States continue instead with efforts to improve the current import quota system, it was announced today.

Included in the recommendations are provisions for an increase in crude oil from Canada above the 395,000 barrels-a-day quota imposed by President Nixon last March.

The recommendation was made by George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, in a letter to Nixon.

FORCE PRICE DOWN

Six months ago a cabinet-level study group on oil import policy recommended that the federal government get out of the business of assigning valuable foreign oil import licences to American oil companies. The group recommended that the 11-year-old quota system be replaced with a system of tariffs on foreign oil.

ERWIN WEIT TO W. GERMANY

High-Level Red Defects From Poland

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Erwin Weit, the personal interpreter for Poland's Communist party boss, Wladyslaw Gomulka, has defected to West Germany, Denmark's largest morning newspaper reported today.

* * *

The conservative Berlingske Tidende said Weit, 43, fled by way of Vienna several months ago and gave Western intelligence agents an account of the Warsaw Pact summit meeting that preceded the 1968 Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The Austrian-born Weit served as interpreter for Gomulka during the secret talks in July 1968, one month before Russia crushed the liberal Czechoslovak regime of Alexander Dubcek.

* * *

According to Weit, the newspaper said, the strongest insistence on a crackdown against Dubcek came from East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht who saw the Czech liberalization as part of a Western plot.

The newspaper said Weit told Western intelligence agencies that Ulbricht predicted East Germany would be next in line for a counter-revolution and was so agitated Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev called a recess to calm him down.

* * *

The Berlingske Tidende said Weit went to Poland from Austria as a child, fought in the Polish underground against Nazi occupation forces during the Second World War and used his linguistic talents to rise in Communist party ranks. He became Gomulka's interpreter in 1960.

Nerve Gas Ship Heads for Site

By HOWARD BENEDICT

ABOARD HARTLEY (AP) — A rusty surplus Liberty ship carrying a cargo of nerve gas and several rabbits wallowed through the Atlantic under tow today, headed for a water grave 282 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla.

The LeBaron Russell Briggs is scheduled to be scuttled in 16,000 feet of water Tuesday, carrying with her to the bottom 418 steel-jacketed concrete vaults containing more than 12,500 nerve gas rockets.

The way for the controversial disposal of the deadly gas was cleared Sunday when Florida Gov. Claude Kirk and the Environmental Defence Fund said they were abandoning a court fight against the army's plans to rid itself of the rockets. They claimed the gas represented an extreme danger to the ocean environment.

In a rare Sunday session the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington upheld a district court's refusal to grant Kirk and the defence fund an injunction barring the disposal plans. It said, first, the Briggs must remain in port at Sunny Point, N.C., until 10 a.m. today to give Kirk and the defence fund a chance to carry an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The appeals court announced some two hours later, however, that Kirk and the group were quitting the court fight and the Briggs, which originally had been scheduled to get under way Saturday, moved out with a tug supplying the power.

Providing escort were a backup tug, the destroyer escort Hartley and the Coast Guard cutter Mendotta.

When the convoy reached the disposal area, a 14-man team of specialists will board the Briggs, checking first the rabbits. They are sensitive to gas, should any of the vaults spring a leak.

The men will install devices to monitor the rate of descent as the Briggs goes to the bottom, remove the rabbits and all salvageable equipment, open valves to let seawater flood the ship, then abandon the Briggs.

Navy Capt. A. G. Hamilton, in charge of sinking the Briggs, estimated it would take 4½ to 5 hours for the freighter to go down.

The Mendotta and Hartley will remain at the scene for eight to 12 hours, charting the exact position of the Briggs and examining environmental data and water samples to check against any early leakage of gas.

THE WEATHER

The ridge of high pressure responsible for Victoria's sunny weather is remaining steady over southern B.C.

The weather office at the Victoria International Airport predicts mainly sunshine for Tuesday with temperatures near 70 degrees. The low overnight will be in the high 40s or low 50s.

Winds of southwest 15 mph over the city and west 20 to 25 mph over Juan de Fuca Strait are forecast for Tuesday afternoon.

He moved to Victoria in 1958 after working as an insurance agent with a number of national firms in eastern Canada.

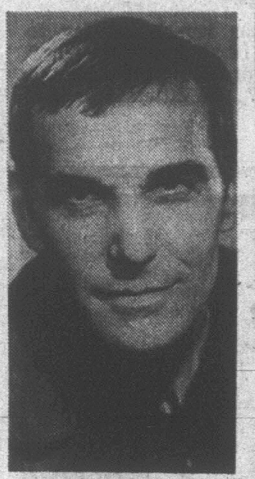
an attack on the villages there.

The Viet Cong radio disclosed orders to increase shelling and terror attacks for the next three weeks, in observance of the 25th anniversary Wednesday of the 1945 uprising against the French and the first anniversary Sept. 3 of the death of Ho Chi Minh.

One terror attack was reported in Saigon at dawn. A dynamite bomb shattered a food stall and coffee shop frequented by South Vietnamese police and soldiers. Nineteen persons were wounded, including 11 civilians.

In a New York television appearance, Representative Richard Ottinger (Dem.—N.Y.) said Sunday air force planes had sprayed Cambodian rubber plantations in April, 1969, with agent orange, a defoliant which he says is believed to deform unborn children.

Ottinger said he and Sen. Gaylord Nelson (Dem.—Wis.) were told of the incident by an unidentified air force source, and that they would seek an explaination from the Pentagon.



CICERI
. . . Stratford favorite

Crash Kills Veteran Actor

TORONTO (CP) — Leo Ciceri, 46, of Montreal, prominent Canadian actor, died in hospital here today following a single-car accident Sunday on Highway 401, five miles south of Kitchener, Ont.

His car plunged through a broken guard rail and down a 230-foot embankment. The guard rail had been broken earlier when another car swerved off the road and plunged down the embankment. Its occupants escaped serious injury.

Provincial police said a rut seven inches deep and 150 feet long on the south side of the highway could have caused or contributed to the two accidents.

Mr. Ciceri had been acting with the Stratford Festival Theatre for 11 years. This season he was playing Iachimo in Cymbeline, Lovborg in Hedda Gabler and Antonio in Merchant of Venice.

Demonstrators Leave Gifts For Prisoners

NEW WESTMINSTER, (CP) — Gifts for inmates were left outside the walls by participants in a demonstration Sunday at the British Columbia penitentiary here.

About 150 persons marched to the penitentiary from Queens Park in an effort which organizers said was meant to demonstrate sympathy with inmates who staged an all-night sit-in a week ago.

The sit-in had protested the death of Indian inmate Walton Brass, 27, by what penitentiary officials said was natural causes and close personal searches.

The gifts left by Sunday's demonstrators, mostly from leftwing youth groups, included chewing gum, marshmallows, candy and cigarettes.

"We want to show them that not everyone outside hates them, which is what they are told in prison," said Jim Stolley, a spokesman for the demonstrators.

About 15 police officers stood outside the New Westminster winter sports centre, but reentered the building as the demonstrators passed. Two more officers were seen observing the crowd from a parked car across the street from the penitentiary.

However, a city police department spokesman refused to disclose how many men were standing by in case of any incidents.

The demonstrators chanted "Free All Prisoners Now" and "Shut the Place Down" as they paraded in an area about 100 yards from the empty prison exercise yard.

Most recreation facilities in the prison are still off-limits because of the inmates' protest.

Police said the gifts and a red flag placed on the wire fence surrounding penitentiary property will be left there until someone makes a complaint to them.

Crash Kills 13

ISTANBUL (AP) — Thirteen persons were killed and another 15 were injured when an Iranian truck collided with a bus and another truck on the Ankara-Istanbul highway near here.

Lebanese Name New President

BEIRUT (Reuters) — Emonomy Minister Suleiman Franjieh was elected president of Lebanon tonight in a ballot at first declared invalid and then recognized as legal by the Speaker of the Chamber of Deputies.

After Franjeh's hair-breadth 50-to-49 win on the third ballot over central bank governor Elias Sarkis, Speaker Sabri Hamadeh refused to recognize the ballot as valid, saying the winner needed 51 votes in the 99-seat chamber to gain a simple majority.

After the session broke up in confusion and deputies conferred in committee rooms, the chamber reassembled and Hamadeh, announcing that he recognized the ballot as valid, congratulated Franjieh on his election.

Franjieh's victory over Sarkis, candidate of the Nahjist bloc which backs the policies of ex-president Fuad Chebab, means the end of 12 years of Nahjist rule — first under Chehab and then under present head of state Charles Helou.

On the first ballot, where a two-thirds majority was needed, Sarkis gained 45 votes to Franjieh's 38 with the other 16 votes split between three other candidates.

The second-vote ballot was declared invalid because 100 ballot papers instead of 99 were counted.

CELEBRATION RIOTOUS

In the confusion after the third ballot, deputies and reporters ducked for cover in the lobby of the parliament building as jubilant Franjieh supporters fired rifles to celebrate their victory.

When the chamber reassembled, Hamadeh explained that after consulting parliamentary officials he had established that 50 votes were enough to give Franjieh a valid majority for a six-year term as president.

The victory of the economy minister, a political neutral nominated by the centre bloc of deputies with the solid support of the three Christian parties, smashes the 12-year grip on power of the mainly Moslem Nahjist bloc.

GUERRILLAS FIRM

Arab guerrillas remained as adamant as ever in their opposition to the peace talks.

Yasir Arafat, guerrilla chief based in Jordan, warned that his forces would fight any crackdown by King Hussein's Jordanian army. Arafat said Sunday that four brigades of government troops were ringing Amman, the Jordanian capital, in preparations for a new crackdown on the guerrillas.'"

"But we shall turn Jordan into a graveyard for the plotters," he told a graduation exercise of guerrilla fighters in the capital. "Amman shall be a Hanoi of the Middle East."

U.S. officials are optimistic that despite the furore over charges and counter-charges of truce violations, peace negotiations will begin in a few days.

Washington apparently has concluded that neither side in the Arab-Israeli conflict is deliberately trying to sabotage the peace plan, in which the military standstill is the first stage.

The United States, therefore, is anxious not to let the question of truce violations jeopardize peace talks, which mediator Jarring is striving to set up in New York.

Laird said there was a tremendous buildup of Soviet missiles in Egypt in late July and early August.

But he said: "It is impossible by the means of verification which we have available — and they are the best means of verification — to prove or disprove on a very firm basis exactly what took place" in the first 12 hours of the ceasefire.

The United States knows from its own intelligence that there have been no violations since the first 24 hours of the ceasefire, he said.

The defence secretary declined to confirm that the U.S. is flying U2 spy planes over the Suez canal to check against infringements of the truce. But he asserted the U.S. intelligence is better than Israel's.

Israeli Premier Golda Meir told a meeting of her Labor party's central committee that the start of the new Middle East peace effort has not been "very encouraging," and she blamed alleged Egyptian missile movements.

Mrs. Meir said she would not be surprised if shooting breaks out along the canal before the expiration of the 90-day truce. "Because of what they did with the missiles you can't be sure what is going to happen," she said.

AMERICAN JOURNALIST ALLOWED INTO CHINA

HONG KONG (WP) — American writer Edgar Snow entered China Friday—the first American journalist to be granted a visit since Mao Tse-Tung's cultural revolution.

A long-time friend of Mao's, who first interviewed the Chinese leader in 1936, Snow crossed the border from Hong Kong less than 25 hours after arriving in this colony. He did not inform American officials of his presence and sought to avoid publicity on his visit to China.

Snow last travelled to China in late 1964 and interviewed Mao in January, 1965. Three years later, he sought to enter China again in the waning days of the cultural revolution, but was refused permission at the last minute.

Bennett Opens Link To Prairie Highways

MOUNT ROBSON, B.C. (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett officially opened the $163 million British Columbia section of the Yellowhead Highway Saturday, a paved link between Kamloops and the Prairie provinces that was pioneered more than 100 years ago by gold seekers from eastern Canada.

Speaking to more than 3,000 people assembled beneath Mount Robson, 40 miles west of Jasper, Alta., in the Yellowhead Pass, the premier predicted the highway will mean greater trade and commerce between B.C. and her prairie neighbors.

The Overlanders, gold seekers from the East, first used the route on their journey to the Cariboo gold fields. At Tete Jaune Cache, 270 miles north of Kamloops, the prospectors split up, some travelling northwest to the present city of Prince George while others followed the North Thompson River south to what now is Kamloops.

The battle to have an all-weather highway constructed to Jasper has been waged by residents of the North Thompson Valley for more than 60 years.

Bennet credited former highways minister P. A. Gaglardi and Wesley Black, present highways minister for completion of the Yellowhead route.

Enroute to Kamloops for a civic dinner following the opening ceremonies, the premier and his cabinet encountered more than 300 persons, many of them children and elderly citizens, along the highway at Clearwater with hand-painted signs, demanding immediate government action on their request for a hospital in the North Thompson Valley.

At present, there is one doctor and a Red Cross first

MOVING to Ottawa is Gordon Neil Perry, deputy B.C. education minister, to become assistant deputy minister with the federal manpower and immigration department.

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Three members of a Victoria family were injured today when their car slammed into a rock bluff six miles west of Nancy Greene Lake, on the Christina Lake-Kinnaird section of the Southern Trans-Canada Highway.

Admitted to hospital in Trail were a husband and wife from Victoria and one of the three children.

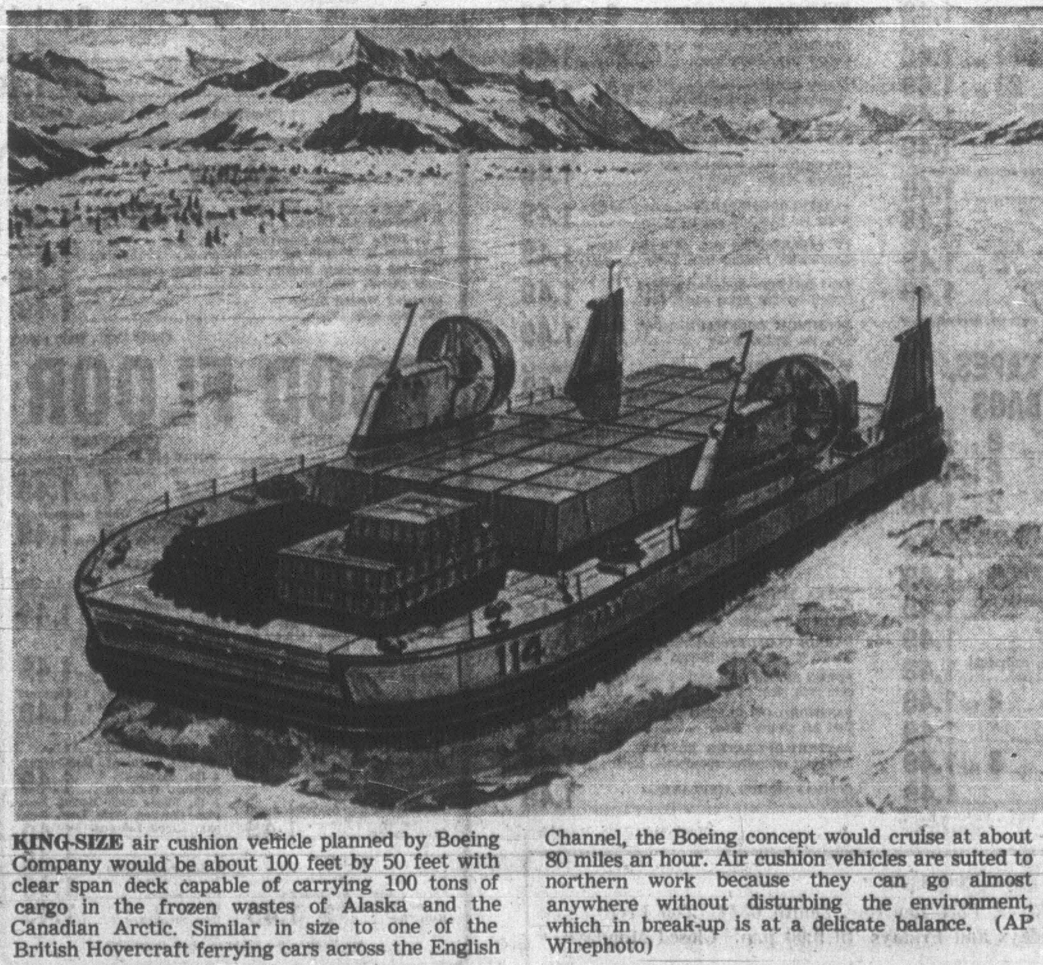
VANCOUVER 11 A.M.



KING-SIZE air cushion vehicle planned by Boeing Company would be about 100 feet by 50 feet with clear span deck capable of carrying 100 tons of cargo in the frozen wastes of Alaska and the Canadian Arctic. Similar in size to one of the British Hovercraft ferrying cars across the English Channel, the Boeing concept would cruise at about 80 miles an hour. Air cushion vehicles are suited to northern work because they can go almost anywhere without disturbing the environment, which in break-up is at a delicate balance. (AP Wirephoto)

MARKET SUMMARIES

Pre-Holiday Trade Cool

Major markets eased in generally light trading today as stock watchers predicted continuing lethargy until after Labor Day.

Western oils led the decline at Toronto, where losses outnumbered gains in all sectors.

AT NEW YORK, stock market prices slipped in slow trade.

Declines ran ahead of advances by about 5 to 4 among the issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the dullness of the market was not unanticipated and predicted that it would take some unexpected developments to stir the market before Labor Day.

AT TORONTO, prices drifted in slow mid-afternoon trading.

The market posted small gains Friday, interrupting four consecutive losing sessions.

Analysts said the large decline in western oils was caused by profit-taking. Oil stocks showed sharp gains Friday.

Weakest sectors were banks, beverages, oil refining, steel and pipelines.

Among losing stocks, Dome Pete was down 4½ to 49½, Chrysler 1 to 18⅞, Aimco Industries ½ to 10, Northern and Central Gas ½ to 12, Genstar Ltd. ½ to 8¼, Hudson Bay Mining ¾ to 20¼ and Sherritt ¼ to 18¾.

AT MONTREAL prices slipped slightly lower in busy early afternoon trading.

All sectors recorded fractional declines.

CHICAGO (AP) — The possibility of a corn crop scarcity in the old time tradition sent five commodity futures to limit advances on the Board of Trade.

Soybean and wheat futures advanced the limit of 10 cents; corn a limit 8 cents; oats a limit 6 cents and soybean meal a limit of $5 a ton.

Trade was active at the opening with limit bids in the corn and oats pits and at this point trade stopped because there were no sellers for buyers.

The only factor in the limit moves was concern that this year's corn crop would be seriously cut by a widespread infestation of southern blight.

KING-SIZE air cushion vehicle planned by Boeing Company would be about 100 feet by 50 feet with clear span deck capable of carrying 100 tons of cargo in the frozen wastes of Alaska and the Canadian Arctic. Similar in size to one of the British Hovercraft ferrying cars across the English Channel, the Boeing concept would cruise at about 80 miles an hour. Air cushion vehicles are suited to northern work because they can go almost anywhere without disturbing the environment, which in break-up is at a delicate balance. (AP Wirephoto)

MARKET SUMMARIES

Pre-Holiday Trade Cool

Major markets eased in generally light trading today as stock watchers predicted continuing lethargy until after Labor Day.

Western oils led the decline at Toronto, where losses outnumbered gains in all sectors.

AT NEW YORK, stock market prices slipped in slow trade.

Declines ran ahead of advances by about 5 to 4 among the issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the dullness of the market was not unanticipated and predicted that it would take some unexpected developments to stir the market before Labor Day.

AT TORONTO, prices drifted in slow mid-afternoon trading.

The market posted small gains Friday, interrupting four consecutive losing sessions.

Analysts said the large decline in western oils was caused by profit-taking. Oil stocks showed sharp gains Friday.

Weakest sectors were banks, beverages, oil refining, steel and pipelines.

Among losing stocks, Dome Pete was down 4½ to 49½, Chrysler 1 to 18⅞, Aimco Industries ½ to 10, Northern and Central Gas ½ to 12, Genstar Ltd. ½ to 8¼, Hudson Bay Mining ¾ to 20¼ and Sherritt ¼ to 18¾.

AT MONTREAL prices slipped slightly lower in busy early afternoon trading.

All sectors recorded fractional declines.

CHICAGO (AP) — The possibility of a corn crop scarcity in the old time tradition sent five commodity futures to limit advances on the Board of Trade.

Soybean and wheat futures advanced the limit of 10 cents; corn a limit 8 cents; oats a limit 6 cents and soybean meal a limit of $5 a ton.

Trade was active at the opening with limit bids in the corn and oats pits and at this point trade stopped because there were no sellers for buyers.

The only factor in the limit moves was concern that this year's corn crop would be seriously cut by a widespread infestation of southern blight.
